U. S. EXPOSES DRUGGAN PLOT

KOREN IN GRIP OF TOKIO ARMY; U. S. FIRMS SHUT

Here's First Story of Seized City.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Sept. 26.—(Saturday.)—The cruiser Tsushima left the Sasebo naval base on Kyushu island this morning for Shanghai, under orders to protect Japanese citizens in view of increasing uneasiness regarding the situation in South Manchuria.

The extensive occupation of Manchuria by the Japanese army on Sept. 21, only the vaguest details of what happened in Mukden, capital of the province, have been permitted to leak out. John Powell, a Tribune correspondent, has succeeded in getting into Mukden and has sent the first detailed story of what Japanese control means to that city and surrounding territory.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 25.—With the Japanese general staff in control the Chinese-Japanese issue is settled, its third or diplomatic step, having passed through the people of clashes and military occupation, the complete absence of any resistance by Chinese empowered to participate in negotiations leaves the situation completely deadlocked and open to further complications.

American, British and other firms whose international commerce is suspended anxious over the drift of affairs and the uncertain future status of this region. Yesterday they petitioned the Japanese military authorities, requesting permission to reopen business.

American Firms Involved.

The American firms involved include the Standard Oil company of New York, the Texas Oil company, Anderson & Meyer, a machinery house representing the General Electric company, the National City bank, and the Asiatic company, representing Dodge and Ford cars and General Motors. They have been closed down since Sept. 21, the day following the Japanese occupation of Mukden.

American business men here declare the situation is worse than the Chino-Russian crisis two years ago, which inspired Mr. Stimson's interference under the Kellogg anti-war pact.

The city of Mukden, with its normal population of 400,000, is completely paralyzed. The only activity is the movement of Japanese troops as reinforcements are rushed to various points in the wide district now under occupation.

150,000 Chinese Flee.

It is estimated that more than 150,000 Chinese have evacuated Mukden during the last week. The streets are still glutted with all kinds of conveyances, containing movable household goods, left behind by the terrified Chinese civilians who left overland for the Chinese Peiping-Mukden railway.

With great military efficiency, resembling somewhat the German occupation of Belgium during the world war, the Japanese within a period of one week are in consolidated control of a vast area radiating in a semi-circle from the Japanese port of Dairen. The northern circumference extends east from the Corean border, near the port of Kainei. It includes Kirin, capital of the province of that name, and Changchun, and extends to the borders of Mongolia.

Includes Dozen Cities.

Within this zone are more than a dozen heretofore thriving Chinese cities. The Chinese population in the area probably exceeds 15,000,000.

Practically all small retail shops which are handling foodstuffs and other necessities, all Chinese business houses, Chinese banks, are closed down, leaving the Japanese yen the only currency available. Most of the public buildings are occupied by Japanese troops, while hotels, office buildings and the Japanese concessions house the Japanese military headquarters.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25.—A complete settlement with Nanking by the various rebel factions of China, including Canton, seems imminent. All leftists here are joining with the Nationalist government to form a complete united front against Japan. A conference to this end soon will be held, probably in Shanghai.

MRS. COLLINGS BREAKS DOWN AT INQUEST ORDEAL

Tells Public Story Till Nerves Snap.

Police Quiz Nurse.

New York, Sept. 26 [Saturday].—[Special.]—Assistant District Attorney Munder of Suffolk county, L. I., Felix Di Martini, a private detective, and a deputy sheriff left Huntington late last night for Bayonne, N. J., to question Miss Leonora Muttart, a nurse, and Dr. Alden Muttart, an elderly man described as her foster father, in connection with the Collings murder mystery.

Earlier in the evening Miss Muttart, a self-possessed woman of about 45, admitted to Lieut. Henry Gauthier of Jersey City that she has knowledge of a Jersey City father and son who, she thinks, had good reason to kill Benjamin P. Collings." She added:

"If I was to tell you all I know about this tonight, my life wouldn't be worth anything—I'd be killed off right away."

And she steadfastly refused to divulge the names of the two men.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lillian Collings, ringed by cameras and surrounded to her very feet by the staring eyes of a morbid, scandal hungry mob, told today on a witness stand her story of the murder of her husband on their yacht Penguin in Long Island sound. It was a story of pirates, insane violence and abduction, and it was told clearly, but it never reached its climax. Somewhere toward the middle of the cross-examination Mrs. Collings broke down and could not go on. Her collapse was due to nerves and sheer weariness. She shed no tears.

DR. WILLIAM B. GIBSON.

The coroner's inquest in Huntington, L. I., town hall was abruptly adjourned until tomorrow.

William A. Kelly, attorney for Mrs. Collings, said late tonight she would not testify tomorrow, nor at any time "under present conditions."

Her First Public Recital.

Mrs. Collings' narrative did not differ much from the story she has told many times before, but for the first time she told it under oath in public. It began with her school days, carried on through seven years of married life to an eccentric young recluse from Yale; touched a murder and detailed a night of horror as the captive of two lustful pirates, finally to break off, like a disconnected radio, when her nerves could stand the strain no longer.

The story was told in a setting such as Huntington never had seen in its three centuries of existence. Photographers lined the tiny courtroom in three tiers, their flash lamps going like lightning. Reporters stood on the backs of chairs, climbed into windows, and sat on the pine floor. The villagers crowded into the already jammed room. Babies wailed and women whispered smugly as they eyed the pale-faced widow in black.

Enter a Microphone.

Two special deputies cleared a path for a cumbersome machine. It was a portable sound camera. Other men set up a microphone directly in front of the witness stand.

Coroner William B. Gibson, a benign old gentleman with a bobbing white goatee, smiled complacently at the scene, pausing from time to time to read from a bulky pamphlet, its back emblazoned with the words "We want beer."

Suddenly Henry A. Murphy, a town selectman, burst into the courtroom. Pointing an accusing finger at the movie sound machine, sternly he demanded in "the name of the town of Huntington" that the apparatus be put out.

"On what grounds?" interposed the coroner. "I gave them permission."

But the selectman was adamant, so out the talkies went.

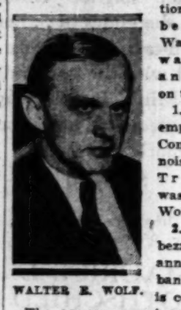
Wolf Played a Lone Hand, Swanson Says

State's Attorney Swanson announced yesterday that his investigation of the embezzlements of Walter E. Wolf was conclusive and convincing on these subjects:

1. No other employé of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company was involved in Wolf's thefts.

2. The sum embezzled and as announced by the bank at $3,666,929 is correct.



WALTER E. WOLF.

The announcement was made, Mr. Swanson said, in justice to others who might have been under suspicion and to quash all rumors that a larger amount had been taken than was stated. Wolf was a "lone wolf" in so far as his thefts were concerned, the prosecutor announced, and he was able to conceal his operations from his fellow bank employés.

Kept Thefts Secret.

"Because he was a trusted employé it was a simple matter for him to take the securities," Mr. Swanson explained. "In spite of twenty-two audits a year he was able to keep his thefts a secret from all other employés."

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayres and Mr. Swanson employed independent auditors to go over all Wolf's records, those at the bank which showed the securities he stole, and those at brokerage houses that showed his speculation losses. The findings of the state's auditors and the bank's auditors corresponded, although there was a slight difference of about $15,000, which was to be expected because of the great amount of documents involved, the prosecutor declared.

Mr. Swanson said he is to supplement his verbal announcement of yesterday with a written statement when his investigation is concluded.

Others Not Exonerated.

While its purpose is understood to be the lifting of any cloud from Wolf's bank associates and an assurance to the banking world, Mr. Swanson let it be known that he does not intend to exonerate any of those who handled the stolen securities outside the bank. His inquiry up to yesterday had concerned what took place inside the bank and the remainder of his task is in tracing the securities after they left Wolf's hands, he said.

It is expected that Wolf will be indicted next Monday on several counts and that he will be arraigned within a few days, at which time he may plead guilty. After his indictment Wolf will be placed in the county jail and the prosecutors said that in view of his announced intention of pleading guilty and "taking his punishment" they want him available a few days longer for questioning, but it is possible Wolf will be in the penitentiary within a week or two.

Dr. Rongetti Convicted on Dope Charges

Dr. Amante Rongetti, who is under sentence in the state courts for murder by abortion, was found guilty yesterday of violating the Harrison anti-narcotics law. A jury returned the verdict in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes after deliberating for three hours. Dr. Rongetti was found guilty on each of the thirty-one counts.

The maximum penalty on all counts would be 155 years in the federal penitentiary and fines of $62,000. Rongetti's attorneys made a motion for a new trial. Judge Barnes set the date for hearing Oct. 2.

Give Evidence on Prescriptions.

The trial of the case was begun and completed yesterday. Evidence consisted principally of the presentation of 31 prescriptions for drugs which had been signed by Rongetti. Agents testified that they could not find the persons to whom the prescriptions had been given and that apparently fictitious names had been used.

Assistant United States District Attorney Mary Bailey was the government prosecutor in the case. Dr. Rongetti, who had expressed his confidence in a not guilty verdict, covered his face when the jury announced its decision. He was allowed his freedom on his old bond of $2,500, pending the hearing on the motion for a new trial.

Fighting Murder Conviction.

The physician has acted to carry his state conviction for murder to the United States Supreme court at Washington.

Dr. Rongetti, who was once sentenced to death for murder by abortion, has obtained two reversals in the state Supreme court. He is now under sentence of fourteen years for the murder of Miss Loretta Enders.

200 SAILORS ON 12 WARSHIPS IN SPAIN ARRESTED

FERROL, Spain, Sept. 25.—(AP)—About 200 petty officers of the battleship Jaime, the cruiser Espana, six torpedo boats, and four submarines were arrested in their quarters today.

Authorities denied the men had been arrested, but it was learned they were confined as a result of telegrams sent to the naval minister in protest against salary increases granted to engineers.

No mutiny occurred aboard the vessels and it was expected all the men would be freed tomorrow.

Hoover Warns U. S. Against Treasury Raid

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—President Hoover today called upon the citizenship of the nation to refrain from pushing measures in the next congress which would increase the cost of operating the government during a period of depression.

In a statement issued at his semi-weekly conference with the press, the President praised the American Legion for its action in shelving the bonus legislation movement for the present. He asserted that by voting down a plan for immediate full payment of the bonus the Legionnaires had set an example for all the other voluntary bodies in the country.

According to statistics published by the President, special groups last year sought to have enacted legislation which would have provided for an immediate appropriation of approximately five billion dollars. He stated also that legislation introduced last year and disapproved by the administration would have called for annual appropriations amounting to one billion two hundred millions. The total appropriations, he said, would have aggregated 17 billions over a ten year period.

Expect Flood of Bills.

The President predicted that unless the country as a whole could be impressed with the need of economy at this time congress would be flooded this winter with special legislation calling for appropriations of billions of dollars to finance projects desired by special groups. The White House, Mr. Hoover said, already is in receipt of many resolutions recommending expenditures and special undertakings.

Administration officials anticipate that the opening of congress will be a signal for an avalanche of bills calling for expenditures as a means of depression relief. Preparations are being made at the White House to frustrate passage of such legislation and propriations to projects approved by the government. About 100 million will be expended on river and harbor work next year, if present plans go through.

Cool to "Emergency" Plan.

Although Mr. Hoover praised the Legion's action on the bonus, he frowned on the suggestion that the President declare a national emergency and appoint a nonpartisan council of national defense to end "the unrest, indecision and dissatisfaction" of the present economic crisis.

In the President's opinion, adequate advisory bodies already are working to handle the unemployment crisis.

Confidence was expressed by the President that the organization developed by Walter S. Gifford, head of the organization for unemployment relief, would be able to cope with the crisis.

Cites Legion's Example.

"The American Legion," Mr. Hoover said, "has set an example to other voluntary bodies in the country in its determination to make no requests of the next congress. A very large part of the pressure for increase in expenditures of the federal government arises from the action of voluntary associations.

"Every one in Washington is familiar with the process by which such bodies, often with meritorious projects, instruct their representatives in Washington to promote these activities to the administration and congress. We all are familiar with the energies they show both in direct pressure upon congress and the administration and the propaganda which they carry on to influence citizens. This is a time when they should emulate the American Legion in standing with what is the wish of the administration and the great majority of congressmen and senators—that is, not to increase but to decrease the expenditures of the federal government."

In This Case Curiosity Also Kills Grizzly Bear

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dr. L. B. Kingrey of Portland, Ore., owes his life to the quickness of his hands and the slow-witted curiosity of a grizzly bear. Hunting in the Rockies, Dr. Kingrey stumbled over an immense bear. He raised his rifle to fire, but the weapon jammed. Bruin delayed his charge, watching Dr. Kingrey's fast moving hands. A bullet finished the animal just as it began to lunge.

Bridge Quarrels Break Up This Happy Home

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Elodia M. Walker has filed suit against Harry S. Walker, her husband for twenty-two years, declaring that when she committed a minor misplay at bridge he slapped her, and when she committed a major error he beat and kicked her. The two are parents of five children.

GANG SCHEMES TO UPSET TAX PROSECUTIONS

Conspiracy Born in Fear of Prison.

Federal officials, it became known yesterday, have exploded a plot designed by Terry Druggan and other hoodlums associated with him in prohibition and income tax law violations to destroy the character of George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, and to obstruct the government prosecution of Druggan, Al Capone, Frank Lake, and Jack Guzik.

It has been discovered that Druggan had prepared a conspiracy which was to reach a high point when Druggan would take the witness stand in federal court and swear that he had paid $75,000 to procure his immunity from punishment. The inference thus would be created that this money had reached the office of Mr. Johnson.

Study the Hoffman Case.

Federal investigators have made a thorough study of the prosecution of former Sheriff Peter Hoffman in which trial Druggan testified that he had paid large sums to procure the friendly offices of Wesley Westbrook, who was warden of the Cook county jail when Druggan was a federal prisoner there for contempt of court.

Owing to the condition of the investigation the names of some of the individuals involved in the conspiracy are being withheld from publication. It is known, however, that persons of political importance and certain attorneys have been involved. It has not been definitely determined which of these persons acted in good faith and which acted in consequence of an illegal conspiracy.

The outstanding characteristic of the plot, however, is that Druggan and his associate hoodlum, Frank Lake, are, after many months of patient and determined investigation, confronted with imprisonment in a federal penitentiary. Druggan and his associates, having fought off punishment for so long, are determined, the circumstances of the plot reveal, to stay free at any cost.

New Indictments Likely.

Mr. Johnson, together with high officials of the department of justice and of the income tax department in Washington, have slowly been bringing together the circumstances of the conspiracy. It is regarded as probable that other indictments may grow out of the discovery of this plot.

Assistant attorneys general are active both in Washington and in Chicago following the trails left by Druggan, Lake, Capone and at least one lawyer whose connection with the hoodlums still remains to be more definitely established.

The plot had begun to mature. It had reached the point at which a witness for the hoodlums took his well arranged story to federal secret service agents. This story was calculated to arouse suspicion and create distrust of Mr. Johnson's office. It was to be followed by more stories and perjured evidence. The witness was Harold Hayes. Hayes has been for many years the owner of the Metropole hotel. The Metropole hotel was for several years the headquarters of the Capone gang.

Outline of the "Plot."

The secret agents summoned Elmer L. Irey, chief special intelligence agent of the bureau of internal revenue, from Washington, and to him Hayes told this story:

Eighteen months ago, he said, emissaries of Druggan, hoping to escape a prison sentence, went to a southern clergyman who was credited with weighty political affiliations and through him entered into negotiations with a Washington official.

As a result of these negotiations, the story goes, Hayes and others of Druggan's friends placed a sum, reported to have been $60,000, in escrow. The alleged understanding was that if the income tax indictments against Druggan and Lake, his old time beer partner, were disposed of without the imposition of a penitentiary sentence the money should go to the Washington official. A fine was to be the sole punishment.

Druggan Goes to Washington.

This arrangement did not yield results, Hayes told Irey, and Druggan went to Washington. By a coincidence Druggan was seen there by Mr. Johnson. It is reported that Mr. Johnson, becoming suspicious, told Senator Charles S. Deneen and the latter, in turn, made a formal departmental protest.

Druggan was then informed, according to Hayes' story, that he should establish a connection with the office

DAYLIGHT TIME TO END TONIGHT; HOUR REGAINED

Chicago tonight gets back the extra hour it lost last April when 1931 daylight saving time went into effect.

Advanced time ends officially at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning and all clocks should be turned back one hour. Household clocks will, for the most part, be turned back at bedtime tonight. The change is effective throughout the country where advanced time has been used.

All railroads operating suburban trains in the Chicago area will conform to central standard time. The Chicago and North Western railroad, which ran on standard time throughout the summer, will change its schedule one hour. That is, trains which departed at 4 o'clock in the summer will now leave at 5 o'clock. The Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad and the Illinois Central suburban service will conform to standard time with no change in schedule. Five o'clock trains will leave at 5 o'clock.

of the district attorney in Chicago. He was referred to a broker who was supposed to hold some promissory notes of Prosecutor Johnson. The broker, in turn, is reported to have sent him to a lawyer. All these names have been kept secret.

This lawyer, according to Hayes, was supposed to have called Mr. Johnson on his private telephone in the federal building. Following this the lawyer is said to have announced that he had had a conference with Mr. Johnson and to have stated that the price would be $75,000.

The arrangement agreed upon, according to Hayes, was that Druggan was to pay an amount said to have been $150,000, to settle his civil liability with the bureau of internal revenue and that for his criminal acts—defeating and evading payment of the income tax—he was to be punished by a $5,000 fine.

Hayes continued by saying that the attorney demanded cash for his fee. The negotiators had a $50,000 check which was deposited with the government some time earlier as a part payment of the civil liabilities. This check was returned to Druggan when the Washington negotiations were dropped.

Gets Lake's Signature.

The attorney was offered this check in part payment of his fee. He refused to accept it. The check was reported to have been taken to one of the large loop banks, but it could not be cashed because it did not bear the indorsement of Lake. Druggan flew to Detroit, where Lake is in the ice business, and had the check properly signed, returning to cash it here and to turn the money over to the lawyer. The remaining $35,000, according to Hays' story, was obtained through a loan from the same bank.

A principal stipulation in the agreement, Hayes said, was that the attorney could not enter into any other income tax cases until the Druggan-Lake case was definitely disposed of. This agreement was violated by the attorney accepting other cases.

Where Story Falls Down.

At this point Hayes' story was thin in that it did not explain how the prosecutor was to benefit. However, a clever innuendo is left that the attorney mentioned was to take up notes outstanding against Mr. Johnson.

This phase of the conspiracy, however, fell flat because Mr. Johnson's notes, which were given in aid of a hospital charity, were, and still remain, in a bank. He has paid interest upon them only recently.

As time went on, Hayes told Irey, Druggan and Lake could see no progress in the disposal of their cases. The situation was aggravated for the hoodlums by the recent decision to try Al Capone instead of allowing him to plead guilty to a similar indictment.

If Capone was to feel the full force of the government's drive, Druggan and Lake feared that they, too, faced prison.

Druggan Enlists Capone.

Trading upon that fact, Druggan, said Hayes, went to Capone and proposed his taking the witness stand, along with Druggan, in an effort to drag all concerned, including Mr. Johnson, into the mire. Capone refused, according to Hayes, to be put in the position of a "squealer" but said he would have no objection to helping out the scheme as far as vengeance toward the lawyer was concerned.

Capone offered, Hayes said, to "loan some boys" to Druggan. The most recent racket of gangland—kidnaping—was invoked and the lawyer was held captive until he agreed to help out the purported plot by going so far as to take the witness stand and swear that the charges were true. This was to occur as a matter of defense when Druggan ultimately was brought to trial.

The lawyer does not appear as an attorney of record for Druggan. Capone's counsel are Michael Ahern of the firm of Nash & Ahern, and Leopold Melnick, 139 North Clark street. Melnick was virtually unknown in federal criminal cases until he appeared for Capone.

Scan Druggan Case of 1925.

In scanning this hoodlum tale, the federal investigators are noting the parallel between it and Druggan's actions when he testified against former Sheriff Hoffman and Warden Westbrook in 1925. At that time he faced prosecution for defying a federal order committing him to jail.

He was then serving a one year sentence for contempt of the federal court in Cook county jail. He was sent there for violating an injunction which had closed one of his breweries. Lake was sent to jail with him and both enjoyed unusual privileges in and out of the jail, making frequent trips to a dentist, Dr. Franklin Percival, and to see their women friends at night.

Bribe Testimony Recalled.

When Druggan's wanderings from jail became known, he was indicted for conspiracy. He took the witness stand before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and testified that he had bribed practically the entire jail staff. As a result of his tale, Hoffman, Westbrook and assistant jailers were themselves sentenced to jail. Druggan escaped punishment other than having to serve his original sentence in another jail.

After this scandal he was out of difficulties with the law until 1928 when he was indicted for evading his income tax payments. Along with Lake and Ralph Capone, Al's younger brother, Druggan was reindicted the following year when Mr. Johnson instituted his war upon hoodlumism.

Several times the government has taken Druggan into court but he has managed to evade trial by pleading illness and producing physician's certificates showing that he suffered from a number of diseases—none of which has hampered his movements.

Evades Court on Hospital Plea.

Even when he was named in one of Municipal Judge Lyle's vagrancy warrants against public enemies, Druggan evaded court processes by another trip to a hospital. Then it was found that he was not in bed but was enjoying a walk in the park.

The present status of his income tax case and of Lake's, is that each has pleaded guilty, but their pleas are contingent upon the affirmation of the income tax convictions of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien when the latter cases are appealed to the United States Supreme court.

At present Nov. 18 has been set as the date for sentencing Druggan and Lake, but this may be moved along if the decision of the Supreme court has not been made. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has already affirmed the O'Brien and Ralph Capone convictions.

Druggan, who is given credit for concocting the story told to the federal secret agents, is a product of the west side territory known as the "Valley." In his youth he was, according to police records, a petty thief. He graduated to membership in the notorious "Valley" gang and appeared in the Criminal courts on various charges. When prohibition came, he and Lake, then a city fireman, went into the bootlegging business and operated some of the largest breweries in the city.

Through the money they made in this illicit business both Druggan and Lake made powerful political connections. These they used to advantage when they were sentenced to jail on the contempt charge. They became affluent, bought country estates and strings of race horses. In 1928 they were barred from the Hawthorne track when they became involved in a brawl and flourished pistols.

DENIED REHEARING

RALPH CAPONE.

RALPH CAPONE'S TAX CONVICTION AGAIN AFFIRMED

U. S. Appeal Court Denies Plea for Rehearing.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denied a petition for rehearing of the case in which Ralph Capone, brother of Al, was convicted of evasion of the income tax. Capone was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $10,000 on this conviction. The decision denying Capone's petition was made by Judges Will M. Sparks, Samuel Alschuler and Evan A. Evans sitting en banc.

The decision was regarded as particularly important by federal prosecutors because the appeal raised points of law which affect District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson's successful campaign to use the income tax law to send gangsters and crooked politicians to the penitentiary for tax frauds.

The pleas of guilty to evasion of the income tax entered by Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, one time beer barons, were contingent in part on the outcome of the Capone appeal.

Argue Al Capone Case.

While Ralph Capone's case was being decided in the Appellate court, attorneys argued preliminary motions in Al Capone's income tax evasion case before Judge James H. Wilkerson in the federal district court. The gang chief's trial will open on Oct. 6, following the final disposition of preliminary motions next Tuesday.

Attorney Michael Ahern, counsel for Capone, asked that the court stop the interrogation before the grand jury of witnesses who are expected also to be government witnesses at the trial. Judge Wilkerson decided that since the proceedings of the grand jury were secret and might uncover other evidence for the trial the interrogation of witnesses might proceed.

Bill of Particulars Asked.

A defense motion asking for a bill of particulars to the indictment, seeking an itemized account of Capone's alleged income of more than $1,000,000, was taken under advisement until next Tuesday.

Attorney Ahern also argued that his client's plea of not guilty was not placed on the records when he withdrew his plea of guilty. Judge Wilkerson found that the new plea had been entered.

PROTEST AGAINST STATE ROAD ON CANAL PROPERTY

Construction of the proposed state highway No. 52 along the south bank of the Sag canal west of Ogden avenue was condemned yesterday by the sanitary district's real estate development commission in a a letter to district trustees, Gov. Emmerson, the war department and the Illinois highway commission.

The segment of the road to be built on sanitary district land was termed unnecessary and as such a waste of public funds. The trustees' action in giving the right of way was called ill advised on the ground that construction of the road near the canal, as proposed, will destroy the value of the land for industrial purposes and obviate the possibility of slip construction and water freight facilities.

It was also recommended by the commission, of which Walter Mills is chairman, that the district trustees order the Santa Fe railway either to purchase or to vacate sanitary district land now occupied by it between Central Park and Harlem avenues.

Action on the highway matter had been taken by the trustees without conference with the commission, it was charged.

INDICT BROKERS IN $500,000 LOSS TO BOND BUYERS

John E. De Wolf and his son, John Jr., who operated De Wolf & Co., 208 South La Salle street, investment brokers, were indicted yesterday by the grand jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the public. The indictment was voted after Assistant State's Attorneys Wilkie Ham and Harry Welsbrod produced evidence to show that the De Wolf company caused losses of over $500,000 to investors. The prosecutors said that the amount of the loss is much greater than that involved in the criminal charges.

The prosecution charges that the De Wolfs sold construction loan bonds and then failed to turn over the money to the contractors so that the buildings could be finished. Another charge is that they failed to deliver bonds to purchasers, but used these bonds to get loans.

The prosecutors said that the De Wolfs operated in Milwaukee for many years and several years ago opened a Chicago office. The company went into bankruptcy in March, 1930.

FORCE 30 TO LIE ON FLOOR, ROB BAKERY OF $1,000

Three bandits entered the offices of the Grennan Cake company, 118 South Oakley avenue, last evening and forced thirty employés, men and women, to lie on the floor while they took $1,000 from John Burke, auditor for the company.

Most of the men in the place were drivers who were turning in their collections to Burke. The bandits were led by a man bearing a sawed-off shotgun. While the leader and a second man, armed with a revolver, guarded the crowd, the third robber, unarmed, scooped up the money from Burke's cage.

He also took $15 from James Ruzicka, a driver. The trio fled to the street and disappeared before a pursuit was organized.

Count Skrzynsky, Former Premier of Poland, Killed

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Count Alexander Skrzynsky, 49, diplomat and former premier of Poland, was killed today in an automobile collision at Ostrow. Count Skrzynsky lectured at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., in 1925, and served as neutral member of the standing committee on arbitration between the United States and Peru in 1928. Skrzynsky is credited with having strengthened Poland's economic position by regulating the British and American debts.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Three men who set out to conquer the long stretch of the Atlantic by airplane, and escaped what seemed certain death after clinging to their wreckage in midocean for 158 hours, arrived in New York today on the liner Stavangerfjord.

Willy Rody and Christian Johanssen, German pilots of the ill fated Elsa, were undismayed and in excellent spirits and health, if somewhat worn by their perils. The third member of the crew, Fernando De Costa Viega, Portuguese, who joined the two German aviators at Lisbon, was in the ship's hospital suffering from injuries to his legs and exposure to the elements.

A few hours after the vessel had docked, however, he was able to limp to the gangway and drive across to a hotel.

Gives Thanks for Rescue.

While Rody and Johanssen, the latter in a suit of clothes borrowed aboard the Norwegian liner, discussed their ordeal, young Costa Viega lay stretched out on a cot, smiling faintly, and when the Portuguese consul general, Dr. Verdades De Faria, greeted him he crossed himself and exclaimed, "There is a God!"

In the smoking room of the Stavangerfjord Rody, the owner of the plane, and Johanssen gave their impressions of the flight which ended disastrously some ninety miles off Cape Race. The former, a native of Duisburg, Rhenish Prussia, is just 21 years old. He looks the typical gymnast-German high school student—slim, fair haired, alert—and he described the experiences of clinging to their wreckage for almost seven days and nights, with next to nothing to eat and little fresh water to drink, as if it had been nothing much out of the ordinary.

Tells of Ill Fated Trip.

His companion, his senior by 20 years, who hails from Flensburg in Schleswig Holstein, and is of Danish extraction, supplied answers to the questions which were fired at them when Rody, who speaks no English, was at a loss to follow the tempo of a New York newspaper interview. Dr. Paul Schwartz, German consul here, took the flyers in hand, acted as their interpreter and bade them official welcome.

Taking turns, Rody and Johanssen described their experiences from the morning of Sept. 13, when they hopped off from Juncal do Sol, near Lisbon, until exhausted and starved, but never completely giving up hope of a miracle, they were sighted by a tramp steamer from Albany, N. Y., bound for Russia with a cargo of locomotives. They had failed to attract the attention of another ship the day before.

That was on Sept. 21. Seven days they had struggled on the remnants of their Junkers plane and the first two days they had been wet through and through. Then as Johanssen told it, they managed to sit up in part of the cabin, but for another five days, until they were rescued by one of the boats of the Belmoira, their legs dangled in the ice cold water off the Newfoundland banks.

Plane Floats Gallantly.

It was shortly after their motor had failed and their gasoline supply had given out that Costa Viega was knocked against the engine and painfully injured his right leg.

When the plane landed on a big billow came the most exciting moment of all. Would the plane hold them up?

"We had intended to take the southern and longer route," Johanssen explained, "and we had passed over the Azores when rough weather set in, suddenly and brutally. When the motor began to show signs of failing we realized that we had only so many more hours to fly. We calculated that our fuel supply would last sixteen hours and we at once set the course northward in order to reach land as soon as possible."

Rody, speaking in German, relieved his co-pilot.

"It was daylight when we came to rest in the ocean," he said. "It was, let me see, 6:30 o'clock at night, American time, on Sept. 14. Nothing around us except huge waves, and we had crept up on the fuselage, clinging to whatever we could hold. We had 200 grams [about seven ounces] of milk chocolate which we found in our pockets. The cabin had been badly smashed in and we could not reach any of our belongings.

Drink Water from Engine.

For drink we had about nine liters of the water used to cool our motor. It was fat, oily and disgusting, but it was delicious all the same. When we were rescued we had about half a liter left."

Rody said that the water rations were about two ounces a day. He maintained that they could possibly have lived another eight days.

"But what about the plane?" he asked in turn. "I doubt whether it could have withstood those seas much longer. We never really gave up hope and we comforted each other as best we could."

Here Johanssen took up the story. "Our legs were terribly swollen," he said, "and having to trail them in the water for all those interminable hours, day after day, night after night, was more than unpleasant. Viega became feverish and we could not do much for the poor fellow. He was very brave and cheerful, nevertheless. When he was injured he was slightly delirious for some time, but fortunately he never lost consciousness.

Plan to try Flight Again.

"We are certainly going to fly again and we hope the three of us will fly together next spring from Europe to America. We have never been in the United States before and we are delighted to be here."

Rody, the youngest man ever to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight, said that he had financed the flight and bought the Junkers plane which Charles A. Levine bought some time ago for a westward crossing but later abandoned.

The flyers said that they expected to return to Europe as soon as they had rested and seen a little of New York.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN ACCUSES FARMER IN CRUELTY CASE

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest, champion of friendless animals, took the witness stand yesterday in Judge John Prystalski's court against William Schroeder, a farmer living a mile north of Wheeling, who was on trial on a charge of cruelty to animals. Schroeder appealed his case to the Criminal court after being fined $10 and costs on the charge by Justice of the Peace Sengstock of Morton Grove on July 10.

Mrs. McLaughlin testified that she visited Schroeder's farm in December, 1930, at the request of officials of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. She said she found four cows tied to a wagon wheel without shelter or water. She added that Schroeder had kept his pigs in the basement of the barn. Other animals, she said, had no protection from the extreme cold.

The case was continued until Monday morning.

FATHER WINS AIRPLANE RACE TO DYING SON

U. of I. Student Succumbs to Infantile Paralysis.

Eugene A. Kohn, 18 years old, a sophomore student at the University of Illinois, died of infantile paralysis in the McKinley Memorial hospital at the university yesterday twenty minutes after his father, H. N. Kohn, a broker, had reached his beside following an airplane trip from Chicago.

Members of the Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity, where the youth was pledged a week ago, were placed under quarantine in the house in Champaign by health officials of the city and university.

The youth became ill and was taken to the hospital Wednesday. On Thursday an airplane made a trip from Springfield to Champaign bearing serum for his treatment. His condition became worse, and yesterday afternoon Mr. Kohn, whose office is at 110 South Dearborn street, chartered a special plane from the Century Air lines and flew to the university, accompanied by Dr. Theodore T. Stone, 3934 Jackson boulevard.

He arrived just in time to see his son before the latter died. University officials said that no further quarantine than the one ordered for the members of young Kohn's fraternity would be imposed at present.

The Kohn home is at 3920 Commonwealth avenue.

Italian Admiral and His Party Are Chicago Guests

Admiral Alfred Aeton of the Italian navy, who was Italy's representative at the American Legion convention in Detroit; his aid, Commander Del Grande, and Capt. L. N. de Villarosa, attached to the Italian embassy at Washington, arrived in Chicago yesterday. They were taken on a tour of the city's boulevards and shown the 1933 World's Fair grounds. After a trip to Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training station today the party will leave for Washington.

TELLS TROUBLES OF MAKING NEW RARE ELEMENT

Dr. Aristid von Grosse, member of the staff of the Technische Hochschule of Berlin and former director of the Chemical Research Institute of Shanghai, last night described to a meeting of the American Chemical society in the City Club building, the difficulties he has encountered in producing protactinium, a new element similar to radium he discovered.

Dr. von Grosse extracted the rare metal from the residue left over after the manufacture of radium from uranium ore, but has been able to obtain only a small quantity of the residue from the Belgian radium monopoly, which fears he plans to produce protactinium as a substitute for radium. That is not his intention, he said. He believes experimentation will disclose new uses for the radioactive element.

Encouraging results have been obtained by Prof. Julius Stocklasa in Paris, who has been experimenting with a small amount of the element given him by Dr. von Grosse. Such a small amount of the element, only 40 milligrams, about a needle's point, has been produced that before further experiments can be effected more protactinium must be obtained.

Empress Eugenie Hats for Kansas College Freshmen

ATCHISON, Kas., Sept. 25.—(AP)—And now the boys are going to wear them. Empress Eugenie hats, adorned with purple and white plumes, have been decreed the official headgear for freshmen at St. Benedict's college here. They will replace the little green caps which the freshies formerly doffed to upper classmen.

AIR ATTACK ON FORT SHERIDAN TO BE TOMORROW

Fort Sheridan will be attacked from the air tomorrow as part of the air demonstration of the army post. The first group of pursuit planes will arrive today under the command of Maj. Gerald E. Brower, commander of the pursuit group of Selfridge Field, Mich.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commandant of the 6th corps area, will meet the squadron at Curtiss-Reynolds airport and give Maj. Brower his attack orders. The attack, to start tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, will include trench strafing, air maneuvers, balloon bursting by the use of plane propellors, battle formations, and stunting.

The attack on the army post will be made with machine guns trained on ground troops, represented by targets. Officials are considering a proposal to use the hulk of the old Rotarian, to be towed ten miles into the lake, as a target for bombing planes.

GOVERNOR WILL LEAVE TONIGHT ON CANADA TRIP

Gov. L. L. Emmerson and a party of ten, it was announced by the Chicago and North Western railway yesterday, will leave Chicago tonight for Lake of the Woods, Manitoba, for a fishing and vacation trip. Among those in the party will be President W. R. James of the west part board, John McQueen, O. H. Hassell, and Dr. Frank Thompson.

It also became known that Gov. Emmerson has ordered President Warren Wright of the Lincoln park board to turn all 45th ward patronage to Ald. W. H. Feigenbutz and all 46th ward jobs to Ald. Oscar Nelson. Both aldermen were cogs in the old city hall machine.

GANDHI INSPECTS HAVOC WROUGHT BY HIS BOYCOTT

Visits Lancashire's Idle Cotton Mills.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANCHESTER, England, Sept. 25. Facing the gloomy "devastated areas" of Lancashire—as England calls them—Mahatma Gandhi penetrated tonight to see for himself the extent of the misery wrought by his long distance battle—the Indian boycott of British cloth.

It is regarded by Gandhi's lieutenants as a highly important gesture, part of his well-planned strategy to carry his case to the British people by showing them his strength.

For in London the leader of India's nationalists feels he has practically failed a whole week. The government has proved as unbending as ever in coming down to essentials with him. All week long there was an avalanche of talk about nonessentials at the round table conference. The British delegates kept silent. So did Gandhi.

Hosts Lord Irwin Secretly.

But today, so it has been learned, Mahatma unburdened himself to Lord Irwin, former viceroy of India and the man who jailed him last year and later agreed to a truce and who now is acting as a secret contact man between Gandhi and the British government. The place of meeting was kept strictly secret, and Gandhi and Lord Irwin were closeted for three hours. No statement was made but it is understood Gandhi practically demanded a showdown.

If a general election is held next month, as the "holy man" has been advised is almost certain, he said he would not wait in London another month for the new government to be formed. He has placed his demands before the government and explained them in addresses during the last week to all three parties in the house of commons. If the government could not make up its mind now because of political uncertainties, Gandhi apparently felt the parties would, and if he is given reasonable assurance by political leaders that an agreement is possible on the basis of the demands of the all-India congress he said he would remain long enough to negotiate.

Gandhi has firmly asserted he does not intend to hang around London if the negotiations are to proceed at the present snail's pace. The mahatma's position, of course, is hardly consistent with the formal purpose of the round table conference, which was called only to give advice to parliament on the Indian question and not to negotiate anything.

Wants a Showdown.

But he made it clear from the first that he is here to arrange a settlement of the Indian revolution, just as he did ten years ago. And if he must drive a bargain for self-government now, he has clearly intimated that he is anxious to launch again his civil disobedience movement.

After today's meeting between Gandhi and Lord Irwin it was learned the mahatma will see Prime Minister MacDonald Monday. Whether he will remain in London depends largely on the outcome of their private conversation.

It was a cheering and booing Lancashire that Gandhi saw tonight for the first time. He gazed fixedly as the train sped through dismal industrial towns around Lancashire, where one thousand looms, millions of spindles, and hundreds of thousands of workers have been idle since India stopped buying cloth. Row after row of factories, dark and silent, bobbed by his car window.

Cheered by Mill Workers.

Nevertheless, Gandhi literally fought his way into the heart of the British textile industry. All along the route from London crowds jammed the railway stations and cheered him as his train went by. It was almost a repetition of the triumphant journey he made from Delhi to his home at Ahmedabad after signing the truce last spring.

Here as in India he was nearly mobbed each time his train came to a halt. Elaborate police arrangements were taken to protect him and at every station a strong cordon of police surrounded his coach and held the throngs back while Scotland Yard detectives watched to see that nobody approached the "holy man."

At Manchester hundreds trickled through the police lines and mobbed his compartment. Police feared they might become hostile because they were out of jobs because of the boycott the mahatma had ordered, but instead they yelled lustily, "Good old Gandhi!"

Gandhi Smiles at Hisses.

Gandhi sat in his compartment spinning and grinning at the strange crowd. He left the train at Springside Garden village at 11 p. m., where he spent the night. Thousands of jobless cotton workers stood outside the village station. There were a few catcalls, hisses, and cries of "Down with Gandhi!" But the cheers drowned out the boos and the mahatma only smiled.

Several thousand tried to penetrate the village but were kept back by the army of police who threw a cordon clear around the town. The mayor ordered the curfew law enforced and none was allowed to enter or leave the village between 9 p. m. and 7 a. m.

Tomorrow Gandhi will be given a reception by the mayor of Darwen and will then inspect several mills briefly, conferring with employers until noon. In the afternoon he will go to the workers' institute to discuss the prospects of future trade with India.

CRIME VICTIMS TO VIEW 3 IN EXTORTION PLOT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Kalinowski, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Walter Jackson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge G. Fred Rush.

Lawrence Woodford, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Rudolph De Sort.

Lawless Jameson, contributing to delinquency of a child, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Daniel Prendergast and Edward Cortner, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Carl Pyform and Nels T. Eden, grand larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each at Pontiac reformatory by Judge Walter Stanton.

Three members of an alleged extortion bombing ring preying on physicians, apprehended Thursday night in a trap set by one of their victims, will be viewed in a special showup today by 56 recent victims of bombings, extortion plots and holdups. Among the victims to view the prisoners will be President Thomas Bowler of the sanitary district, who with his wife was recently robbed.

Possibility that the men are members of a ring which has been attempting to organize doctors performing illegal operations much as racketeers have organized certain trades was expressed by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne.

The men held are Morris Bogoslowski, 25 years old, who gave a fictitious address at the time of his arrest; Charles Fried, 33 years old, 3400 West 16th street, and Joseph Haddad, 31 years old, 1318 South Albany avenue. Attorney Joseph Kolb, in whose offices the men were arrested, was released when he proved he was acting for a client, a physician who had been threatened.

Jostles Woman on Car; Must Beat Rugs for Her

Pete Russell, 25 years old, colored, 2547 Maypole avenue, will beat two rugs today for Mrs. Helen Steidinger, 1309 Heath avenue, as a penalty for having jostled her, causing her to fall down as she boarded a street car. Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey fixed the penalty when Russell appeared before him yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. Mrs. Steidinger promised to provide a lunch at the conclusion of his penance.

HOME TOWN BACK IN KENTUCKY HOLDS RALLY FOR TRAYLOR

Columbia, Ky., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago was endorsed for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States today by farmer folk of the foothills of Kentucky. He left here thirty-two years ago, a penniless youth, and achieved fame in national and international finance. He is president of the First National bank of Chicago.

A crowd estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000 gathered in a grove at the Columbia fair grounds for the rally. The day was a holiday for school children in the county and they joined their parents and friends in formally launching the "Traylor for President" boom in his native state after half a dozen speakers had praised him.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR SKYSCRAPER HOUSING CHURCH

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Foreclosure proceedings against Manhattan Towers, 24 story Broadway hotel in which is housed the Manhattan Congregational church, were disclosed today. The building is in Broadway just north of 67th street.

Application for appointment of a receiver has been made by 51 per cent of the holders of the $1,650,000 first mortgage on the building, erected three years ago at a cost of $2,840,000.

The financial difficulties arose from a delay of six months in completing the hotel structure, a spokesman of the trustees said.

The pastor of the church is the Rev. Dr. Edward E. Emmett. He is preparing to resume services on Sunday, Oct. 4, notwithstanding the financial turmoil.

GAMBLING WRIT IS A BOOMERANG TO FRANKIE POPE

It May Get Him in Jail for Contempt.

The injunction which "North Side" Frankie Pope got to protect his gambling house, the Aquarium Social club, 514 Diversey parkway, not only failed to save the place from a state's attorney's raid on Sept. 9, but yesterday it put Pope in danger of being sent to jail for contempt of court.

JUDGE BURKE.

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke, who issued the injunction, dissolved it yesterday and entered a rule to show cause why Pope should not be held in contempt on the ground that he swore falsely in the petition for the injunction, and further deceived the court by using an alias in the proceedings.

It was developed yesterday that the "Joseph Sanders" who swore during the original injunction hearing that he was president of the club, and who asserted that there was no gambling in the place, was Pope himself.

Appear Before Judge.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller and Charles A. Bellows, who ordered the raid on Pope's place; Sergt. Michael Ahern and the detectives who made it, and Pope's attorney, John J. Byrne, appeared before Judge Burke yesterday on the request of the judge. Pope was not there, although Attorney Byrne said he had notified him by letter to be present.

Judge Burke criticized the state's attorney's and corporation counsel's offices for failure to apprise him of the nature of the Aquarium club when the injunction proceedings were started. Assistant Corporation Counsel William Daley replied that, although his office was sure that the club was a gambling resort, he had been unable to get concrete evidence of the fact, and therefore had not opposed the injunction.

Plan New Raid Warrants.

At a regular meeting of all the judges of the municipal court in Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby's chambers yesterday afternoon, Judge Sonsteby told the judges that a new search warrant was being prepared for use in gambling raids. This warrant will be practically foolproof and there will be no minute errors in it which will allow the freeing of persons arrested under it, the chief justice said.

Chief Justice Sonsteby criticized the action of Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, who on Thursday dismissed a case against the Vanity Fair, north side night club, on the ground that the warrant was illegal. Inasmuch as the warrant had been issued by Chief Justice Sonsteby and Judge William A. Rooney, the law requiring two judges' names on a night search warrant, Judge Green's assertion was in effect a reflection upon the chief justice, it was pointed out.

State's Attorney Swanson and Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court addressed the judges.

Judge Green dismissed thirty-five gambling raid cases yesterday in the South State street court on technical objections raised by defense attorneys to the search warrants used in the raids. He threatened to cite Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root for contempt of court when the prosecutor objected strongly to the dismissals.

Judge Green also freed George ["Red"] Barker, labor racketeer, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He entered the dismissal after Sergt. Michael J. Hackett, whose squad arrested Barker and two companions on Sept. 17, testified that he found the revolver which Barker was charged with possessing twenty feet from the spot where the gangster was arrested. Sergt. Hackett said that he did not see Barker throw the gun away, but was certain he had done so.

Mayor Raps Interference.

Mayor Cermak expressed indignation over what he termed judicial interference with the police, in discussing his anti-gambling campaign.

"There will be no policy games on the south side, and no gambling, even if all the judges in the United States come to the rescue," the mayor said. "Injunctions or no injunctions, search warrants or no search warrants, we'll keep on raiding if we see gambling. And if we seize any gambling apparatus, we won't return it just because the court says to. They'll have to get a writ first."

Mayor Cermak referred in particular to the action of Judge Robert E. Gentzel, who issued an injunction on Thursday in the Superior court restraining police from further interference with premises at 4839 Vincennes avenue, and ordered $500 and a radio, seized by Capt. John Stege in a raid in which a sheaf of policy tickets was found, returned to the owners.

"Capt. Stege made that raid at the request of the government, and seized twenty barrels of mash which were turned over to prohibition agents and destroyed," said the mayor.

"I was not told in the injunction hearing that mash had been found in the place, or that any other law violations had been discovered there," Judge Gentzel said later.

Hundreds of Raids Made.

Since Capt. Martin Mullen was installed as head of the vice and gambling detail, police have made 189 raids and approximately 1,700 arrests in policy resorts, 72 raids and 186 arrests in handbooks, and 14 raids and 132 arrests in gambling houses, it was stated yesterday.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock acted yesterday on Mayor Cermak's suggestion, made some weeks ago, that thirty-six patrolmen assigned to take mail twice daily to police headquarters from district stations be placed on beats, and six motorcycle policemen be assigned to carry the mail. Under an order of the acting commissioner, effective Monday, eight patrolmen will carry the mail, traveling by street car or the "L" lines.

HOLLYWOOD HEARS SYDNEY SMITH AND LILI DAMITA ARE WED

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Cinemaland was alive today with reports that Sydney A. Smith, well known New York man, eloped to Tia Juana, Mexico, with Lili Damita, French film star, last Wednesday. But the marriage report could not be verified nor could the pair be reached.

Smith, a brother of the Earl E. T. Smith who married Consuelo Vanderbilt, had been constantly in Lili Damita's shadow since his wife, the former Florence Rice, obtained a divorce in Reno during the summer. He followed her to France on her recent vacation, returned with her aboard the Bremen and took the same train to Hollywood.

WIFE JARRED OUT OF AUTOMOBILE IN CRASH; KILLED

Day's Motor Toll Makes Year's Total 899.

Mrs. Kate Abhau, 68 years old, 3549 South Western avenue, was crushed to death beneath her husband's car as it overturned at 61st street and Marshfield avenue last evening. The accident occurred when a small sedan driven by Michael Rogers, 4426 West Jackson boulevard, struck a rear wheel of Abhau's car. The shock threw open the door beside which Mrs. Abhau was sitting. She fell into the street and was pinned beneath the auto.

This death and three others raised the 1931 Cook county toll to 899. The other victims:

Thomas Nicoletti, 17 years old, 1406 North Luna avenue. Fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another car at Central avenue and Augusta street during a heavy rain. He was thrown from the car of his stepfather, Frank Vaccaro. Vaccaro and Alexander Wittine, 1625 North Neva avenue, the other driver, said they were blinded by the downpour.

Henry Godansky, 13 years old, 6533 South Washtenaw avenue. Fatally injured when he was struck by a truck while he was riding his bicycle at Talman avenue and 66th street. Joseph Eichstadt, 26 years old, 4719 South Damen avenue, was the driver.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday issued 2,000 warrants for violators of traffic regulations who have not appeared to pay fines. Eight thousand other warrants will be issued soon. Judge Sonsteby estimates that the motorists owe $25,000 in fines.

Clint Claburn, colored, 27 years old, 537 East 67th street. Fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by another at 44th street and Calumet avenue. The driver of the second car did not stop. Claburn died at the county hospital.

HAIR REMOVER GROWS HAIR, SO PARTNERS PART

Charles H. Reese, 537 Sheridan road, Evanston, was a prosperous paint and varnish dealer until June, last year. At that time he met Jack L. Abbott of Hollywood, Cal., who said he possessed a formula for a liquid which would remove superfluous hair. They formed a partnership, leased loop offices and went into business as the Hair-X Laboratories.

In a bill of complaint filed in Circuit court yesterday, Reese told the above story. Then he charged that the formula would not remove hair, and "in some cases it actually stimulated its growth." He asked that $14,600 he has paid Abbott be returned and the partnership contract declared void.

New York Wine Grape Dealer Slain by Two Men

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—While his two children looked on, Vincent Genove, 50, an east side wine grape dealer, was killed tonight in his apartment. His slayers, two men described by the children as "young and dark," fled down the stairs.

BRITISH PREMIER READY TO STAKE ALL ON ELECTION

Expect Him to Yield to Tory Demands.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Prime Minister MacDonald is expected to decide what his personal and cabinet policy will be at his country home at Chequers over the week-end. It is generally believed by political leaders that the prime minister has decided to go to the country as head of a national government and call upon the voters to support him at a general election.

Mr. MacDonald is expected to announce his stand in the house of commons next Wednesday and upon the return of King George from Scotland. He has called Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Sir Hubert Samuel, acting Liberal party chieftain, to Chequers on Sunday to confer over calling an election.

Although it is taken for granted he will respond to the insistent demand of the Conservatives to call an early election, it is not known how far he is ready to go with them in the matter of a protective tariff policy.

Back in London After Rest.

Mr. MacDonald, who has been resting at the home of Lord Delaware in Sussex, returned to London today, appearing greatly refreshed, and presided at a cabinet meeting called to discuss the course of business next week in commons. Later in the day he left for Chequers.

It is learned that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who returned two days ago from Canada, has lost no time in letting his colleagues in the bank know his position in the present financial situation. He is definitely opposed to any attempt now to stabilize the pound sterling, but prefers to let it find a natural level.

Any attempt to peg or bolster it by the sale of gold or by further borrowings would only intensify the crisis, he believes. He advocates the closest watch for an approach to stabilization and every effort to defeat speculators, especially bears, who may delay recovery by short selling.

When that time approaches, Mr. Norman declares, every offer of sterling should be accepted by the Bank of England and sellers should be forced to deliver.

Warns Against Profiteering.

The British Millers' association has been warned by the government that any attempt to profiteer on flour will be sternly dealt with. This is interpreted as meaning that if the price is unduly advanced the government may take control of supplies as it did in war time. Similarly, the Liverpool wheat market has been warned that speculation tending to run up prices will not be tolerated.

DOLLAR WORTH MORE THAN ANY TIME SINCE WAR

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—For the past three months the American dollar has been worth more in purchasing power than at any time since the war, the national industrial conference board announced today. Necessaries and average luxuries that normally cost $1.64 may be purchased now for an even dollar, the statisticians reported.

When the drop occurred in the stock market in October, 1929, the cost of commodities began to decrease and the buying power of the dollar accordingly began to go up. It continued its fluctuation until it reached its present peak in June, 1931.

The statisticians took 1923 as the normal year, and figuring on that basis clothing now costs 78.2 per cent of normal; food, 81.9 per cent; housing, 81.5 per cent; fuel and light, 89.6 per cent, and sundries, 95.5 per cent.

In October, 1929, retail food prices averaged 110.1 per cent of normal; housing, 92.3 per cent; clothing, 98.6 per cent; fuel and light, 92.1 per cent, and sundries, 98.3 per cent.

While at present clothing prices are the farthest below normal, the biggest drop since the stock market crash in 1929 has been in food prices, which at that time were more than 10 per cent above normal and now are nearly 19 per cent below normal, a drop of 28.2 per cent.

The present low level of food prices was said by the industrial board to have contributed more than anything else to the decrease in the cost of living because such a large percentage of the average man's wage or salary is spent in that category.

84 YEAR OLD BANK IN VIRGIN ISLANDS FAILS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Sept. 25.—The board of directors of the St. Thomas Savings bank announced the failure of the bank today. This institution was organized in 1847 and was supported solely by local deposits. The following bulletin was posted on its doors this morning:

"Owing to the world wide depression the investments of the St. Thomas Savings bank in foreign gold dollar bonds have been gradually falling off in value on the bond markets. The recent drop in the pound sterling has also caused the bond values to drop so precipitately that the board of trustees decided to make use of the law which authorizes the institution to demand one months' notice for withdrawals."

The bank has 1,400 depositors.

BRITISH BANKER URGES PARLEY ON MONEY WITH U. S.

Sees Price Stability as Only Cure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Lord Edgar V. D'Abernon, noted British banker and former ambassador to Berlin, addressed the American Chamber of Commerce in London today and recommended a conference between the United States and Great Britain to stabilize prices at 1929 levels and to attempt to find a solution of the international debt question along the lines of the Hoover moratorium as the only way out of the present crisis.

LORD D'ABERNON.

Warning that the financial prestige of New York and London is perilously near decadence, Lord D'Abernon said:

"Close cooperation between our two countries is the most imprtant constituent of world progress. Prophesies heard at the beginning of this year from bankers and others on both sides of the Atlantic that the bottom had been reached, that restoration of trade and prosperity was near, proved utterly fallacious. I have not concealed my opinion that egregious errors of policy have been committed by the great creditor countries.

Taken Gold from Debtors.

"What has been done? We have impoverished buyers by deflation which has rendered crops unsalable; we have ruined our debtors by taking all their gold from them. There is no justification for a crisis in the failure of crops, in labor disputes, or warfare. Providence has been bountiful and the responsibility lies in the inability of men to distribute and handle the benefits showered upon them.

"The first steps are to recognize that prices are not sent down from heaven—they are made by man. Therefore somebody is responsible for what has occurred. It is utterly foolish to regard the crisis as merely psychological. Psychological causes accentuate but do not initiate or provoke crises of this magnitude. The fall in prices which has occurred is nothing more or less than the rise in prices of currency, or means of payment. If he means of payment had been available in adequate quantity with adequate dispersion, the general fall in prices would not have occurred.

"The plain fact is that the gold standard has been so worked that adequate means of payment are not available throughout the world. All the gold is centered in two countries, and the debtor nations have been driven into bankruptcy mainly through the fault of their creditors. Central banks have failed to achieve what should have been one of their main objectives—stability of the price level. Unless this is corrected all other remedies will yield at best but a temporary and partial relief."

On North Side

Hundreds of residents of the north side yesterday thronged the hearing rooms of the Illinois Commerce commission on the 26th floor of the La Salle street building to petition for feader bus service on a number of streets extending west from Sheridan road and north of Lawrence avenue.

Routes sought by the petition are Foster avenue, from Sheridan road to the city limits; Bryn Mawr avenue, Western avenue to the city limits; Touhy avenue, from Sheridan road to Park Ridge; Ridge avenue from Broadway to Peterson and on Peterson to the city limits; Howard avenue, from Sheridan road to the city limits; and connecting north and south routes. Representatives of the civic bodies stated that the present street car service is inadequate.

Representatives of the Brainerd Improvement association yesterday petitioned the commerce body to order the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pere Marquette railroad to make express stops at the Brainerd suburban station, serving residents south of 75th street and west of State street. Hearings were resumed yesterday on the petition of the Chicago Surface lines to inaugurate one man car service on certain additional lines. Labor organizations are opposing the petition.

HUSBAND'S PLAN TO FEED GIRLS RUNS INTO SNAG

Robert L. Hicks, 22 years old, knocked on the door of his home at 6247 Kenwood avenue. Two young women were with him. His wife, Evelyn, 21 years old, opened the door. "We're going to feed these girls," said Hicks. "They haven't had a thing to eat for days."

"Is that so?" said Mrs. Hicks. "What are we going to feed them?" An argument began. Hicks hit his wife with a bunch of keys, she said, and she had him arrested. The girls, Henrietta Sorey, 21 years old, 6147 Kenwood avenue, and Lillian Peontke, 18 years old, 6410 Spokane avenue, were charged with disorderly conduct.

When Hicks was arraigned before Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt yesterday in the Grand Crossing court, he asserted, "I've got a soft heart, judge, I can't turn down a woman in distress."

"You've got a soft head," said the court. Hicks was sent to the psychopathic hospital for observation and his case continued to Oct. 9. His girl friends were discharged.

FOUND DEAD FROM GAS.

Claus Rahlfs, 76 years old, 2110 North Lamon avenue, was found dead yesterday in the kitchen of his home. Gas flowing from burners of a stove was apparently the cause of death.

FRENCH CABINET, O. K.'S PREMIER'S TRIP TO AMERICA

Laval and Briand Go to Berlin Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 25.—The French cabinet, meeting with President Paul Doumer, today formally and unanimously approved Premier Laval's acceptance of President Hoover's invitation to visit Washington. In a brief speech, Premier Laval revealed the great importance he attaches to the conference with the President of the United States.

"Confidence must be restored to the world, and it is particularly incumbent upon France and the United States, traditionally associated when liberty and civilization are at stake, to collaborate towards this end," he said. "Mr. Hoover had this thoroughly in mind when he invited me. I shall respond to his call, and we shall exchange views with an everpresent desire to elaborate conditions so that a return to normal times may be based upon them."

French Receive Inkstands.

Then turning to Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who had tendered the formal invitation, he said:

"In the name of France I ask you to transmit to the President a sincere expression of my country's friendship."

Adding to the cordiality of the occasion was the presentation by Ambassador Edge of six silver inkstands, the gift of himself and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to M. Laval, Foreign Minister Briand, Finance Minister Flandin and other French colleagues in the negotiations at Paris follow the Hoover moratorium proposal.

Laval and Briand will leave at 4 p. m. tomorrow for Berlin in a special car attached to the regular train.

Berlin to Guard Visitors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The same severe police precautions adopted when the czar of Russia paid his last visit to Berlin in the days of imperial splendor will be duplicated when Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand of France arrive here Sunday, police declared today.

Strong police forces will keep the crowds away from the railway station and hotel where the French statesmen will be housed. Automobiles carrying the visitors will be rushed at top speed through streets which will be kept clear for their passage.

Extraordinary safeguards will be taken because of the fear that radical political elements will stage demonstrations against the French officials whose insistence on the payment of reparations is blamed by most Germans for the last 13 difficult years.

ITALY INCREASES CUSTOMS TAX ON U. S. GOODS 15%

New Superduty Aimed to Balance Budget.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 25.—Faced already with a budget deficit of 553,000,000 lire [about $29,900,000] for the first two months of the present 1931-'32 fiscal year, the Fascist government by royal decree today levied a 15 per cent customs surtax on all imported materials not covered by special trade treaties and a 10 per cent augmentation on all mineral oil imports. The new surtax is expected to hit American exporters hard, because the United States has no special trade treaty with Italy. Great Britain, for the same reason, will also feel the new taxes.

In addition to this the government raised the customs tax on oils and made a slight increase in the oil sales tax. It is figured that motorists under the new taxes will pay about 5 cents more a gallon for gasoline, which will raise the price to around 37 cents a gallon.

Hope to Balance Budget.

The Italian finance ministry estimates that the new customs tax will bridge the existing budget deficit gap and leave a surplus. It is explained that the big deficit for the first two months of this fiscal year, which is 60 per cent more than that for the first two months of last year, was caused in general by the world crisis and in particular by the fact that revenue has not fulfilled budget estimates and that expenses have increased due to unavoidable additional expenditures for public works to keep down unemployment. About $200,000,000 is to be spent for this item alone.

In addition to the 10 per cent surtax on mineral oils, coal, and all combustibles, a 15 per cent surtax will apply to all imports of minerals, metallic and nonmetallic, chemical fertilizers, precious metals and wool scrap.

No Boost in Food Tax.

This method of increasing revenue was adopted by the government in preference to raising the general taxation, about which there had been talk for some weeks. It is explained that these increased duties are calculated to strike the general consumer as lightly as possible and that further customs duties on food commodities, which form a large part of Italian imports, have been avoided, although six weeks ago the import tax on wheat was raised from 86 cents to $1.07 a bushel.

These new measures to wipe out the early budget deficit are expected to calm fears both here and abroad about the stability of the lira following the British action in dropping the gold standard, which led to initial fluctuations in Italian exchange and securities.

U. S. Exports Put at $71,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The total of American exports to Italy during the fiscal year 1931 was $71,000,000. The latest detailed figures at the commerce department were based on the calendar year 1930, which showed that of the $133,450,000 of American exports to Italy during that year, $53,000,000 represented cotton, $21,000,000 was petroleum and mineral oils, $15,000,000 represented wheat, and $13,000,000 was coal. During that year 4,464 automobiles, valued at almost $3,000,000, were shipped. Office equipment and radio and other electrical devices amounted to $3,217,000.

Glenn Visits White House on Van Meter Appointment

Dispatches from Washington last night said that United States Senator Glenn called at the White House during the day in reference to the possible appointment of Gregory T. Van Meter as collector of internal revenue at Chicago to succeed Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge. It was learned that Mr. Glenn made no formal recommendation of the appointment as the treasury department has not completed its examination of Van Meter's qualifications for the post. The candidate is a lieutenant of George F. Harding.

$24,000,000 FOR WINTER AID TO COUNTY POOR

Officials Expect Large Increase in Needy.

Twenty-four million dollars will be necessary to provide for the unemployed in Cook county during the winter, according to an estimate submitted yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, chairman of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies and adviser to the county welfare committee. Of this total the county government is expected to contribute $10,000,000.

These figures were presented at a meeting of the county welfare committee and they will be placed before the county board next week.

"The money will be needed to furnish food, clothing, and shelter for the many thousands who will be destitute. According to Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, the number of destitute is expected to increase almost 100 per cent by the time winter actually sets in.

The Figures on Unemployed.

"Such an amount of money for relief may sound chimerical and unattainable," said Miss Amelia Sears, county commissioner and chairman of the welfare committee, "but the figures upon which it is based cannot be denied. Daily $2,000,000 in wages is being lost to the unemployed in Chicago.

"During July and August there was an increase in the number of families applying upon county relief. At the end of that period 22,910 were being aided through the welfare bureau. We expect this number to be increased 4,000 by the time winter really is on. The average number of persons for each family is three.

"Private charities report that even more alarming increases are present in their own fields."

Urge Increase in Rations.

Director Moss told the committee that the county ration for a family on a per capita basis only ten days. He recommended that the quantities of food and milk issued to each person be doubled. This would assure provisions for each family for three weeks out of every month. Shoes and coal also are given to the families under county welfare supervision, Mr. Moss said.

Several plans for providing the money were discussed. J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, asserted that a one cent of highway tax money would enable the county board to pay off a $15,000,000 bond issue in five years. He suggested that 4 cents from the highway tax of 10 cents be diverted to pay off such bonds at the rate of $3,000,000 a year. Other suggested solutions included a state sales tax and a state income tax.

The committee refused to consider these suggestions, however. It will meet Monday with a number of bankers and merchants to ask their help in finding a solution.

MEMBERS ARE WARNED

Appeals to the unemployed of the city that Chicago is raising a relief fund for its own poor and that were issued yesterday by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the unemployment relief fund, which will shortly begin a drive to raise $5,000,000 to save for the destitute this winter.

"The money to be raised by the relief committee is for the benefit of the residents of Chicago and Cook county," said Mr. Ryerson. "Most of it is to be spent through the established social welfare agencies.

"We do not intend to have this relief fund, to be raised to meet our own needs, serve as a magnet to draw additional people to Chicago this winter with the expectation of being cared for by our charities. As a matter of fact, I am advised by the heads of family relief agencies that, contrary to the general impression that people are being drawn to Chicago during the present period of depression, the number is exceedingly small. Those who come here ill advisedly are, of course, experiencing serious difficulties, and as soon as we become aware of their presence and need, through their application to the family relief agencies for help, immediate steps are taken to return them to their own communities or to relatives who will care for them.

"Experience has proved that it is much cheaper to supply transportation for dependent families than to provide for them indefinitely in Chicago. The railroad companies grant a special rate to agencies for returning these families."

The demand that Gov. Emmerson call a special session of the legislature to consider unemployment relief was made yesterday by the Chicago Workers' Committee on Unemployment, an organization with headquarters at 20 West Jackson boulevard, which is circulating petitions seeking 150,000 names to back its demand. Among those signing the demand were Robert Morss Lovett, Prof. Sophonisba Breckenridge, Miss Harriet Vittum, A. L. Foster, and Dr. John Lapp.

Plans to house the 200 women reported to be sleeping without a roof in the city nightly were started yesterday by the Women's Patriotic League of America, which met at the Hotel Sherman. A committee headed by Mrs. Mollie Baruch was appointed to consider how this emergency must be met.

Rodeo Opens Next Week

RUTH ROACH.

Cowgirls Coming

Ruth Roach of Cheyenne, Wyo., aspirant for all-around cowgirl championship honors of the United States, Canada and Mexico, is one of the late entrees in the world's championship rodeo, which will be held at the Chicago Stadium starting Friday, Oct. 2. She will compete in a number of the events for women. These include bronc riding, trick riding and other thrilling feats in the saddle.

Intense competition is expected among the internationally famous cowgirls who will compete for the women's share of the $25,000 in prize money which will be paid during the fourteen performances of the engagement.

More than 700 head of horses and 300 head of steers are being brought to Chicago for the rodeo.

Baptist Churches Urged to Help Own Jobless

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The northern Baptist convention, with a constituency of 1,400,000 members, tonight announced its churches had been called on to undertake unemployment relief among their congregations.

The various local churches, situated in 34 states, were asked to make surveys of distress in their parishes and then, as an "immediate Christian duty," to provide for the needy.

The call was signed by President Mattison B. Jones of Los Angeles, who will begin a speaking tour at Portland, Me., Sept. 27.

Eight Inches of Snow on New Hampshire Mountains

Concord, N. H., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Winter came to New Hampshire during the night. When the sun rose today, Mount Washington and the Presidential range were glistening beneath a blanket of snow. In some sections the snow was eight inches deep.

MRS. COLLINGS BREAKS DOWN AT INQUEST ORDEAL

Tells Straight Story Till Nerves Snap.

boy, a twelve day widow, sat through it all with the air of one whose mind was somewhere else. She was obviously very tired, but she told her story well until her calmness deserted her.

The cross-examination by Prosecutor Blue was searching at times, but never harsh.

"Was your husband a bootlegger?" asked the prosecutor.

"He was not," replied the woman, half raising her eyes from a constant staring at the floor.

Q.—Was he engaged in any illicit business? A.—No.

Q.—Were you and Benjamin P. Collings happily married? A.—Exceptionally happy.

Q.—Did he have any enemies? A.—I am sure he had none.

Q.—Did your husband have women associates? A.—No.

A.—Did he show fear the night the Penguin was attacked? A.—No, just irritation.

During the questioning the woman would pause for long intervals, bury her face in her hands and sit motionless. Every one expected her to raise a tear stained face, but each time she came up dry-eyed and apparently refreshed. Frequently her face would light as if she were repressing a smile, but the smile got through only once during the day. It came at the end of a long series of questions concerning a visit she and her husband made from the Penguin to Northport, L. I., the day before the attack on the yacht.

"But you must have bought something if you went shopping," insisted Mr. Blue.

"Well, I did buy a paper," said the widow, smiling into the faces of her audience.

There was no mention made of the attack on Mrs. Collings by the old man of the canoe at any time during the testimony. An agreement had been reached to omit the embarrassing part of the story at the public hearing.

Her Story Stands Up.

The cross examination did more to uphold the strange story than it did to break it. It brought out that Mrs. Collings twice tried to go to the aid of her husband, only to have her arms pinned by the invaders. It also revealed that she was physically forced into the canoe after the pirates had tied and drowned her husband, explaining for the first time her reluctant separation from her child.

The questioning brought to light that Mrs. Collings knew her husband's hands had been tied, but did not know his feet were bound and that when she was taken away in the canoe she did not know Collings had been drowned—only that he was in the water.

One of the most dramatic moments of the day came when Mrs. Collings was telling of the trip across the dark waters of the sound in the tiny canoe with the two men.

Two Nervous Murderers.

"They both paddled," she whispered, "one with a broken oar. At every sound they would stop and float silently. They were afraid after what they had done to us. The boy was very nervous. I asked the old man why he had treated us as he did. I told him I was afraid to leave my baby. He said: 'I know, little lady, I've got some curly haired children at home. I'd hate to see them in such a fix. But don't you worry, you will be all right.'"

The cross examination ended as Mrs. Collings was emphatically denying assertions and insinuations that visitors had been aboard the Penguin.

Her Direct Narrative.

Mrs. Collings' direct narrative was told in a colorless, flat half whisper.

"We were eating supper," she said. "It began to grow dark. We put up the screens to keep out the mosquitoes. Then I cleaned up. We put Betsy to bed in the cockpit. There were no lights except one mooring light. We sat in the dark until about 10 o'clock. Then my husband and I got ready for bed.

"The next I knew my consciousness seemed to be aroused. I heard talking on the deck. I heard my husband say, 'I don't believe you are armed and I don't believe you have a wounded man with you.' Then one of the men said, 'Yes, we have, as sure as God.'"

Mrs. Collings then told of the boarding of the yacht and the subsequent trip across the sound toward Stamford, Conn.

"My husband came into the cabin where I was and where we had moved Betsy and closed the door. We dressed in the dark. We were together about five minutes. There was a pistol on the ice box, but he said nothing about it and didn't touch it. Ben said, 'We're in an awful mess. I don't think they know much about boats, the way they are handling that anchor.' Then he told me to stay there.

"I kneeled by a porthole and watched. My husband asked the elder of the two men, 'Are you a clam digger; your voice sounds familiar.' 'No, we ain't no clam diggers,' said the old man. Then I heard them tell Ben they would have to tie him up because 'you might yet excited at the sight of a wounded man.' Ben said, 'That's ridiculous,' but they tied his hands behind his back.

She Tries to Help Him.

"I went up to try to help him—Betsy had waked and she called, 'Don't hurt my mama.' The man said for me to go tell the child to keep still. Then he grabbed my arms and backed me down the stairs. Not much time had passed when I heard a crash of glass and noise. It went right through me. Almost simultaneously, in a normal tone, Ben said, 'They are putting me overboard.'"

Then Mrs. Collings tried again to aid her husband. She threw a pneumatic mattress overboard.

"All I know is," she related, "that the old man put his arms about me and held me while the boy got the mattress and put it back in the boat. Then the man asked me, 'Have you any money aboard?' I said, 'No,' then I thought quickly and I said, 'Yes, about $20. If you want it, take it.'

"The next I knew each of the men had hold of one of my arms. They pushed me toward the canoe; I stepped into it, myself. They both paddled very hard. The next thing I was conscious of was the running lights of another boat at right angles to our boat. I never did hear an engine.

Canoe Heavily Loaded.

"The canoe was loaded down. I thought they must have committed some burglary. I was sitting in the middle facing the man in the rear. There was a bucket of water and they both drank from it frequently. It was then the man told me he had three children, one a curly haired girl. He said it was a bad thing they had done.

"When the lights appeared on the shore, the boy said 'Is this an island or mainland?' The old man replied, 'It's the mainland.' The boy asked, 'Where will I meet you?' and the other said, 'Home, you know where.' I thought it was the Connecticut shore. I was all confused.

"The boy waded ashore in water up to his waist or higher. We paddled, that is the old man did, until we came to the motorboat anchored in the harbor."

LUCAS BLAMES DEPRESSION ON THE DEMOCRATS

Says Their Propaganda Has Scared Nation.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Responsibility for what he termed a nation-wide fear of destitution during the coming winter was attributed today to the Democrats by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee.

ROBERT H. LUCAS.

"We are suffering with a paralyzing apemia brought on by a stifling deluge of destructive Democratic propaganda—a campaign of exaggeration, misrepresentation, and manufactured lies that has not only had its political effect, but has so alarmed the people that the spending of money by those who have it has been reduced to a point actually below the necessities of life," Lucas told a rally of Republicans at the New England States exposition.

Warns G. O. P. to Act.

"If," he continued, "the Republican army of this country will get itself into battle formation, hit from the shoulder and dispel this maze of gloomy propaganda, the fear of destitution will be lifted from the minds of the people and the buying power of this vast country will open the gates to those who seek employment."

He voiced a caution that "unless the Republican party immediately assumes its full responsibility as the dominant party, a Democratic administration will likely demonstrate what hard times really are."

Fess Is Hopeful.

Senator Fess of Ohio, Republican national chairman, said he would guarantee a great recovery from the world economic crisis by keeping open the opportunity of private and corporate investment, free of Socialistic and paternalistic government interference.

Senator Fess suggested that times of stress "not infrequently serve as periods for finding the way for new wealth," and said: "We have evidence that such results will flow from this depression." He deplored wage cuts.

Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of the womens' division of the Republican national committee, said the Republican women were still behind President Hoover in the belief that "he possesses the rare qualities that fit him for leadership in these difficult and troublous times."

INDICT BOY SLAYER; HIS ARRAIGNMENT IS SET FOR MONDAY

The grand jury of Lake county yesterday returned an indictment charging Perry Swank Jr., 15 years old, with the murder of Eugene Duckworth, gasoline filling station proprietor of Lowell, Ind. The youth will be arraigned on Monday, according to Prosecutor Robert G. Estill.

PERRY SWANK JR.

Young Swank, a high school student of Creston, Ind., announced his intention of pleading guilty to the murder, and an attempt was made to have an arraignment yesterday before Judge Martin Smith in the Lake county Criminay court. It was then learned that Attorney John Haller of East Chicago had declared he had been retained as the boy's attorney. Since Haller could not be found, Prosecutor Estill decided to postpone the case until next week.

The Lake county prosecutors have indicated they will not ask for the death penalty. Estill has proposed that young Swank be sentenced to ten to twenty-five years in the state reformatory.

The inquest into Duckworth's death was held earlier in the day at the county jail in Crown Point, where Perry is in custody. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that Duckworth had been murdered by young Swank.

W. C. T. U. VOTES TO OPPOSE DRY REPEAL PLANKS

The delegates to the Cook county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance union yesterday adopted resolutions to oppose all efforts to place prohibition modification and repeal planks in political platforms. The convention closed its two day session in the Garrick building, 64 West Randolph street.

The resolutions advocated a campaign "to aid school teachers in teaching the effect of alcohol and narcotics," and also urged action to find out what is being taught in the schools regarding alcohol.

The chief speaker yesterday was Miss Mary Campbell, for 46 years a missionary and W. C. T. U. worker in India.

Senator Caraway Ill in Hospital of Bronchitis

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Senator Caraway of Arkansas was in a hospital there today with an attack of bronchitis but doctors said his condition was improving and an operation would not be necessary. They said he also had suffered with a recurrence of a kidney ailment.

CABINET WETS REPORTED BACK OF 3 PCT. BEER

Rumored Drafting Bill for Hoover's Approval.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Amerigan Legion move for a prohibition referendum, coupled with other developments along the wet and dry front during the last few days, has catapulted the liquor question into the political arena in a way that will make it a leading issue for the next 18 months.

Congressional wets are preparing to stage a big demonstration in the senate and house this winter, not only to show their growing strength but also to take advantage of any weaknesses that develop in the armor of the organized drys who have controlled both houses. Statements by senators and congressmen yesterday and today disclosed that prohibition is to be made one of the major issues during the Democratic and Republican national convention periods.

Thus far President Hoover has maintained silence as to his views, although his official family is represented as split wide open on the question and engaged in a fight to corral his support.

Wet Majority in Cabinet.

One report is that the wet group in the cabinet is drawing up a 3 per cent beer bill which it is planned to submit to the President for his approval. The cabinet lineup is reported to be seven wets against three drys. White House attaches say an increasing number of telegrams urging the President to look into the beer question are reaching the executive offices.

Developments indicating the growing importance of the prohibition issue include:

The launching of inquiries into the economic features of legalized beer by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, and Walter Newton, White House secretary.

The action of four national organizations in going on record against prohibition within the last few months. The four are the American Bar association, the American Federation of Labor, the American Medical association, and the American Legion.

Britten to Seek Repeal.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] announced today that he will introduce a bill this winter providing for the complete repeal of the Volstead act.

"If the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor," said Mr. Britten, "will now use their persuasive power, they can bring about a complete repeal of the Volstead law during the coming session of congress."

EX-DRY OFFICER IS INDICTED ON THEFT CHARGES

Also Accused of Bond Forgery.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Palmer Canfield, prohibition director here for six years, recently an adviser to the Wickersham law enforcement commission and three times mayor of Kingston, was indicted this afternoon on charges of forgery and grand larceny and was placed under arrest at the office of the district attorney.

PALMER CANFIELD.
[Acme Photo.]

The man who was one of the principal law enforcement officers of the community until a few years ago is accused of receiving and disposing of forged bonds of the New York Central railroad of a face value of $25,000 and of hypothecating these spurious securities for $7,000 in cash.

Further Treachery Charged.

Back of these charges of fraud and theft is still another accusation involving treachery and double dealing to the very institution of which Canfield was once an official. The forged bonds which produced the $7,000 in money were acquired by the former prohibition director as his pay and reward, so the district attorney asserts, for his efforts to get the prohibition authorities in Washington to reinstate the canceled wine-selling permit of one of the biggest former wine sellers in town, Louis Schattner, whose place later was padlocked.

According to Schattner, he employed counsel to defend him and to do whatever was possible toward having the permit reinstated and of having the charge of violating the prohibition laws dismissed. Counsel made no notable progress and then somebody suggested that one Palmer Canfield might be able to help. It is not revealed who brought in the name of this man, who had once been so active and powerful—or so it seemed—in suppressing rum runners and speakeasies.

Canfield Is Retained.

At all events, Palmer Canfield was summoned from his lucrative employment with the National Civic league—of which the well known A. O. Miller, ardent dry leader, is president—to see what could be done with the federal people in Washington on Louis Schattner's behalf.

Schattner says he paid Canfield $400—and no more—as a fee for going to Washington and interceding with the prohibition commissioner.

Canfield asserts that the forged bonds in question—the bonds he is accused of hypothecating with Harris & Co., for $7,000—were given to him by a diaphanous Mr. Brown who figured in his dealings with Schattner. He doesn't, he states, recall exactly what for. They were just given to him.

Four Hotel Bellboys Held on Booze Charges

John Fahey, Alfred Feller, and Russell Huff, bell boys at the Del Prado hotel, 53d street and Hyde Park boulevard, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $1,000 each by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. They are charged with violation of the prohibition law. Prohibition agents who took rooms at the hotel testified that they had purchased Bourbon and gin from the bell boys at $6 a pint for Bourbon and $2.50 a pint for gin.

Alcock Frowns on Plea for Special Eviction Police

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock indicated yesterday that he will not appoint twenty special policemen as requested by H. A. Ratner, a south side real estate agent, and arm them with rifles and machine guns to prevent evicted tenants from returning to their dwellings. The commissioner said he will proceed in the usual lawful manner to guard property on the south side from destruction by radicals or evicted tenants.

DRY DR. WILSON IS ALL WET, SAY LEGION LEADERS

Chicagoans Denounce His Views on Convention.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson's assertion that "staggering drunks yelling for beer" disgraced the American Legion uniform at the Detroit convention of the American Legion moved leading Legionnaires to comment yesterday. Some of the expressions of opinion concerning the Methodist dry leader's statement follow:

DR. CLARENCE WILSON.

Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman: "I was at the convention in Detroit for four days. I don't know where Dr. Wilson could have obtained his information. He was either misinformed or he has wilfully uttered a slander on men who deserve better. Such slander is typical of a radical dry, and he has hurt only his own cause by saying such things.

The Doctrine of Abuse.

"There is a German motto which, loosely translated, reads: 'He who will not hear, he must feel.' In other words, if argument will not convince, abuse must be substituted. That is the attitude of the extreme drys of whom Dr. Wilson is a leader.

"I presided over the caucus in which at which the American Legion was born. There was much fear then that it would develop into a political machine or an organization which would do more harm than good. The resolutions passed and the program adopted at this last convention prove that those fears were groundless. The conference reached would do credit to any deliberate organization anywhere."

View of Gen. Clinnin.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin: "I think the doctor was overcome with the heat. In the first place, the law of averages governs with reference to drinking and perhaps it was the long drought preceding the convention which caused extreme wetness in Detroit.

"There is no more drinking amongst members of the Legion than among ministers. Assemble 100,000 ministers and the air of sanctity hovering over the meeting will approximate that of the Legion convention.

"Exuberance can be expected when a number of men gather for a holiday. This is particularly true of men who have served under arms together. Because of the trials and tribulations of army life which they have undergone together, they have achieved a spirit which the reverend gentleman can hardly be expected to understand."

Savage Assails Wilson.

Richard P. Savage, past national commander of the Legion: "The Legion will pay little attention to Dr. Wilson's statement when it considers the person who made it. Who is this Dr. Wilson? Where was he in 1917? I never heard a word about him then. He has absolutely no conception of the ideals and purposes of the Legion and he is talking about something of which he is utterly ignorant when he comments on members of the Legion and their deeds."

Brig. Gen. Abel Davis: "Men do not change over night. The same men who fought on the battlefields of France have now taken the liberty of expressing an opinion on a matter of vital importance to the United States. They are the same men, only a little older and a little wiser. The statements attributed to Dr. Wilson are hardly indicative of true Americanism. It does no good to his cause to indulge in petty criticism of the men who carried arms in defense of this country."

Calls Statement Insulting.

Ivan A. Elliott, commander, Illinois department of the Legion: "When Dr. Wilson says that 'there was a marked absence of the sober, well behaved, typical American' at the Detroit convention he is positively insulting and disgusting to the 100,000 gentlemanly, sober, well behaved, typical Americans who actually attended the convention."

David L. Shillinglaw, past Illinois commander: "Dr. Wilson's statement is entirely false. The convention was orderly and conducted in an orderly manner. I don't remember seeing a drunk around my hotel and the hotel authorities commented at my departure on the splendid conduct of the Legionnaires. The Legion certainly had a right to express its opinion on a matter of public import. It is hardly fair of some one hundreds of miles away to set himself up as a judge of what happened at the convention."

Col. Ira L. Reeves, manager of the west central division of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization: "Dr. Wilson's statement gained the Crusaders no less than 73 new members among ex-service men in one day. His denunciation of the Legion convention has opened the eyes of thousands to the extent to which bigotry has enmeshed our country. We cannot allow him to malign America's best citizenship without calling him to an immediate accounting."

Pastors Assail Convention.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The prohibition stand of the American Legion convention was condemned today by world war veterans here as delegates to the Illinois Methodist church conference.

The Rev. Walter Day of Knoxville, a Legionnaire, said the convention's action was not expressive of the true sentiment of former soldiers, and two score Methodist ministers who saw service supported him.

Report La Grange School Engineer Is Indicted

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted five true bills against Horace C. Griffin, 66 years old, engineer of the La Grange High school, charging him with mistreating boy students at the high school. Bonds were reported fixed at $10,000 on each charge.

NATURE GIVES THE HOME WINE MAKERS A HAND

Greatest "Kick" of Years Lurks in Grape Crop.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

California, aided by government advertising, is starting its flow of wine juice grapes to the home wine makers of Chicago. Bacchus, a stranger to Mister Volstead, is already in kitchen and cellar treading the sunkissed clusters. Thirteen carloads of California grapes were sold yesterday at the fruit auction house, 26th street and Ashland avenue, the largest consignment of the season so far, and dealers report that more households than ever are going in for domestic wine making.

Here's the news of the industry:

Prices are the lowest in years. The crop is smaller than the average, but the grapes are juicier and sweeter than usual. Nature, by way of compensation for a short harvest, has increased the sugar content. This increases the kick when the corks are popped.

Estimate Chicago Output.

Early estimates are that about 5,200,000 gallons of home made wine will be made this year from California grapes marketed in Chicago. Adding the wines from Michigan grapes and those evoked from "grape concentrates" some statisticians figure 1931 will see 9 to 10 million gallons of home made wine produced in the Chicago area.

The most popular California grapes in the Chicago market are the Zinfandel, Carrigane, Muscat, Mission, and Alicante Bouchet. As to sugar content, the minimum requirement in California for U. S. No. 1 grade is 18 per cent of sugar for muscat grapes. Some of the cars sold yesterday, however, showed a 27 to 28 per cent sugar content. In past years, the average has been 22 to 23 per cent.

Michigan Crop Is Sugary.

In Michigan, which has half a normal crop, the state chemist reports that Concords are testing 19.4 per cent of sugar, which is the highest in twenty years. In 1929 the Michigan crop was 2 million tons with a farm value of 60 million dollars. Between 35 and 40 per cent of the crop is expected to be consumed in Chicago. Jumbo baskets of 19 to 21 pounds are being sold for 30 to 32 cents in the Benton Harbor region now.

Growers, both California and Michigan, have been holding back the crop for cool weather. A proficient wine maker will not make his "juices" until summer has cooled off into autumn, and the real rush generally gets into high in October. The recent September torrid wave retarded the movement to market.

90 Per Cent for Wines.

Normally the Chicago market has been receiving about 3,600 cars a year of California wine juice grapes. Trade experts figure that less than 10 per cent of this is for table use, the rest going into wines. This year shipments are expected to be reduced 25 per cent, due to the short crop, which leads the trade to look for about 2,800 carloads this season.

A 26 pound box of Muscats is figured to yield about two gallons of juice, and an average carload contains about 1,040 boxes of this average size. This would mean about 2,080 gallons to the car. Knocking off 10 per cent for table use, 2,500 carloads would yield in excess of 5,200,000 gallons.

At present a lug of 26 pounds can be bought from distributors for $1 to $1.15, making the home made wine cost about fifty cents a gallon.

How the Buying Is Done.

The grapes are sold in carload lots, then from the jobber to the retailer or final consumer. They are peddled from the car in small lots at four yards—the fruit terminal, the Santa Fe, and the Chicago and North Western, and the Rock Island. The big days, once the rush is on, are Saturdays and Sundays. Customers shop around, picking their grapes, and the more proficient pay almost as much attention to the stems, to be sure they are dried and seasoned, as to the grape itself.

The Michigan grapes, which used to come by boat and train, are not handled in the auction rooms, being trucked in. Some domestic wine makers buy their grapes direct at the vineyard and haul them home for pressing.

Dealers report that the federal farm board, which subsidized the California "wine juice" grape industry to the tune of $20,000,000, is fostering an advertising campaign in the eastern terminal markets, exhorting grape users to do their grape shopping early.

Offered for Thanksgiving.

Unfermented juices, the trade adds, which are put up in early October, will, if nature takes it course, be transformed into something else in time for Thanksgiving.

As for the wine bricks, the experts declare customers complain that they are gold bricks, and in Boston recently hundreds of irate purchasers reported to the police that the bricks they bought proved to be nothing but strawberry pie filling. This is held to have stimulated home wine making from original grapes.

SUGAR BEET CROPS IN FOUR STATES TO BRING $19,000,000

Denver, Col., Sept. 25.—(AP)—More than $19,000,000 will be paid to growers in the Rocky mountain region for the 1931 sugar beet crop, the harvesting of which has started in the Billings, Mont.,-Lovell, Wyo., area, and which will begin in Colorado next Monday.

Great Western Sugar company officials said 20,000 additional workers will be employed within another week as the harvest gets in full swing. The harvest will begin in Nebraska Oct. 6.

Colorado growers will get approximately $12,650,000; Nebraska farmers, $4,174,000 and Montana and Wyoming farmers, $2,764,000. The estimates are based on the predicted production and the minimum price for beets guaranteed the growers.

LEAGUE REFUSES TO HELP CHINA; PLEA IS IGNORED

Council Accepts Japanese Explanation of Dispute.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—Japan was whitewashed and China was rebuked by the league of nations council today, following a statement by M. K. Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, on the military operations of his government in Manchuria. Mr. Yoshizawa said it was the intention of the Tokio government to withdraw its troops to inside the treaty zone along the Japanese owned South Manchurian railway "as soon as possible."

M. K. YOSHIZAWA. [Acme Photo.]

The protests of Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, against the invasion of Chinese territory, the alleged slaughter of Chinese inhabitants, and the destruction of property, was ignored and his demand for the immediate retirement of the invading troops from occupied cities was rejected by the council. Nanking's request for a neutral commission to investigate the entire incident and determine how soon complete evacution by the Japanese will be possible was also ignored.

Advised to Negotiate Direct.

Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain, voicing the opinion of the council, advised the Chinese government to begin direct negotiations with Japan for restoration of the status quo. Lord Cecil ignored the fact that Dr. Sze had just stated that since China had entrusted the affair to the league, and as long as Chinese soil was invaded by foreign military forces, it was impossible to carry on direct negotiations with the aggressor.

The league took a diametrically opposite position toward the problem than it did earlier in the week. The sympathetic consideration then extended to China was transformed into frigid indifference. Instead, Yoshizawa's statement was heard with the politest deference and with evident satisfaction, even though it did not accept the league's recommendation and limited itself to a promise to withdraw from the occupied regions when such action became practical.

Yoshizawa Tells of Menace.

Yoshizawa first pictured the menace of 200,000 Chinese soldiers threatening the 10,000 Japanese troops in Manchuria. He then described how the Japanese troops had disarmed all the Chinese. He accused regular Chinese troops of destroying a South Manchuria railway bridge, thus provoking the original incident, and admitted that reinforcements of 4,000 Japanese troops had been sent from Corea. He denied, however, that any naval units had been engaged.

"The amelioration of the situation in permitting us to withdraw most of our forces inside the railway zone, except at Mukden and Kirin and a few other observation points," he continued. "The council must respect the wishes of both parties, and should give the parties the necessary time to settle the problem between themselves. The council should avoid premature intervention, which might inflame the situation, which is already becoming less tense. The Japanese government is ready to enter into immediate pourparlers with the Chinese government for a solution."

China Makes Reply.

To this Dr. Sze replied:

"China has placed itself in the hands of the league and accepts any recommendations the council makes. Relying on the council, China has made every effort not to aggravate the incident and has ordered its army and civilian population not to resist. As a result, the Japanese have advanced and are occupying more territory. The Chinese government assumes full responsibility to protect the lives and property of Japanese civilians in occupied zones when the Japanese troops retire.

"The Nanking government is awaiting the council's next step to obtain a complete withdrawal of the invading troops, and believes it strongly desirable that an impartial committee should observe the manner and time of the Japanese evacuation, and that the league should point out to the Japanese government that unless there is an immediate withdrawal of its troops from Manchuria, it violates the covenant.

Warns of Dangerous Precedent.

"If you accept Japan's contention that her troops cannot be withdrawn for fear of reprisals and vengeance against the Japanese civilians left behind, it is a dangerous principle. There are foreign populations in all countries, but governments do not invade foreign soil and occupy districts as a pretext to protect them. There are no reports from any where in China that Japanese civilians have been molested, despite the indignation among the Chinese.

"The honorable delegate from Japan questions some of my statements—that is why I wish a neutral commission to be sent to ascertain the facts. Japan offers direct negotiations, but my government has already informed Tokio that the invasion of our territory made direct negotiations impossible."

Yoshizawa Refuses to Argue.

Yoshizawa merely replied: "Regarding the accusations made by the Chinese delegate against my statement, I have already given Japan's pronouncement on the situation."

Lord Cecil, spokesman for the council, then said:

"The matter was brought before the council under article 11 of the covenant of the league, which provides that the league shall take means to safeguard peace. After that is accomplished it is merely a case of a settlement of the dispute, and that is a matter for the disputing parties to deal with directly and not the council's business.

"The council has asked for Japanese withdrawal as soon as possible, and my honorable colleague representing Japan assures us that the withdrawal will be carried out at the earliest moment it can safely be done. In fact, we now learn that the Japanese have started to withdraw from the positions which they occupied before they received our note. We can consider the withdrawal will be accomplished within a short time. If the council entertains any doubts over the withdrawal it can examine the matter further to see what it should do."

Japan Soothes Stimson with a Note Denying Aggression

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Washington officials expressed the opinion today that developments of the last twenty-four hours in the Manchurian crisis indicated that the chances for a peaceful solution had improved. That the administration intends to take no further action for the present was indicated when Secretary Stimson, following a talk with officials immediately in touch with the Chinese-Japanese dispute, left for New York for the week-end.

KATSUJI DEBUCHI. [Harris & Ewing.]

The state department apparently plans to rest for the present on its note of yesterday, when it called upon both Japan and China to cease hostilities and take immediate steps looking toward a peaceful settlement.

Early today Katsuji Debuchi, the Japanese ambassador, gave to Secretary Stimson a copy of the explanatory statement issued by the Japanese government yesterday.

Text of Explanation.

The Japanese statement follows in part:

"1. The Japanese government has constantly been exercising honest endeavors in pursuance of its settled policy to foster friendly relations between Japan and China and to promote the common prosperity and well being of the two countries. Unfortunately, the conduct of officials and individuals of China for some years past has been such that our national sentiment has frequently been irritated. In particular, unpleasant incidents have taken place, one after another, in regions of Manchuria and Mongolia in which Japan is interested in an especial degree, until an impression has gained strength in the minds of the Japanese people that Japan's fair and friendly attitude is not being reciprocated by China in like spirit.

"Amidst an atmosphere of perturbation and anxiety thus created a detachment of Chinese troops destroyed tracks of the South Manchurian railway in the vicinity of Mukden and attacked our railway guards at midnight on Sept. 18. A clash between Japanese and Chinese troops then took place.

"2. The situation became critical, as the number of Japanese guards stationed along the entire railway did not then exceed 10,000, while there were in juxtaposition some 220,000 Chinese soldiers. Moreover, hundreds of thousands of Japanese residents were placed in jeopardy. In order to forestall imminent disaster the Japanese army had to act swiftly. The Chinese soldiers garrisoned in neighboring localities were disarmed and the duty of maintaining peace and order was left in the hands of the local Chinese organizations, under the supervision of the Japanese troops.

"3. These measures having been taken, our soldiers were mostly withdrawn within the railroad zone.

"Reports that Japanese authorities have seized the customs or salt gabelle office at Yinkou, or that they have taken control of Chinese railways between Supingkai and Cheng-Chiatun or between Mukden and Sinmintun are entirely untrue, nor has the story of our troops having ever been sent north of Changchun or into Chientao any foundation in fact.

Seeks Peaceable Solution.

"4. The Japanese government at a special cabinet meeting Sept. 19 took a decision that all possible efforts should be made to prevent aggravation of the situation, and instructions to that effect were given to the commander of the Manchurian garrison. It is true that a detachment was despatched from Changun to Kirin Sept. 21, but it was not with a view to military occupation, but only for the purpose of removing the menace to the South Manchurian railway on the flank. As soon as that object has been attained the bulk of our detachment will be withdrawn.

Troops Within Treaty Limit.

"5. It may be superfluous to repeat that the Japanese government harbors no territorial designs in Manchuria. . . .

"The Japanese government, true to established policy, is prepared to cooperate with the Chinese government in order to prevent the present incident from developing into a disastrous situation between the two countries and to work out such constructive plans as will once for all eradicate causes for future friction.

"The Japanese government would be more than gratified if the present difficulty could be brought to a solution which will give a new turn to mutual relations of the two countries."

LINDY AWARDED MEDAL BY CHINA FOR FLOOD WORK

NANKING, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-shek, president of China, received Col. Charles A. Lindbergh here today. As a token of admiration of his distinguished record and in appreciation of his volunteer services in the cause of flood relief in China, the national government council voted to award Lindbergh China's newly established aviation medal.

Lindbergh will be the first aviator, foreign or Chinese, to receive the medal. Chiang Kai-shek is expected to present the decoration at a ceremony in the government offices tomorrow.

Despite a busy day, Col. Lindbergh found time to complete plans for a flight tomorrow over the Grand canal flood area in northern Khangsu province. In addition to Mrs. Lindbergh, Dr. J. Heng Llo, director of the national flood relief commission's department of hygiene and sanitation, and Dr. J. B. Grant, American faculty member of the Peiping Union Medical college, will be passengers in the plane. Lindbergh intends to alight at the flood centers.

the Cantonese and other factions now opposing the Nanking régime probably will be appointed either to positions on the Nationalist committee or in the government, or both. In this connection, it is reported that Foreign Minister C. T. Wang may resign to facilitate the reorganization of the governmgent. His possible successor is W. W. Yen, who has just been named Chinese minister to Washington, or Wang Chung-hui, former minister of justice at Peiping and later president of the judicial yuan of the Nationalist government.

Both Yale Graduates.

Both C. T. Wang and Wang Chung-hui are Yale graduates. Yen is a graduate of Virginia university.

The Nationalist conference scheduled to open on Oct. 10 has been postponed to Nov. 12, when the reorganization will be outlined and made possible along with other governmental changes.

Ordinarily a Chinese midautumn festival, tomorrow will be another nationwide "humiliation" day in protest against the Japanese occupation of Manchuria. The government has also postponed until May the national athletic meet scheduled for the national holiday, Oct. 10.

The government takes the official stand that as a result of the crisis due to the Japanese occupation of Manchuria citizens should concentrate on efforts for the country's salvation.

Open Letter Sent to U. S.

An open letter was cabled to America and Europe by Hu Shih and twelve other intellectuals, addressed to intellectuals of the world. The letter condemns the Japanese military aggressiveness as a most serious obstacle to world peace, and that it now is exposed in all its ferocity and ugliness.

"The wholesale devastation of China's sovereign territory has every promise of becoming a Sarajevo case," the cable said. "Can enlightened humanity allow it to remain unchallenged?"

The central executive committee today put the government seal of approval upon the organization of the country's youth, and formally promulgated general principles for them. The organizations will be known as the youth volunteer corps and will be formed by all colleges and seniors in the middle schools, with training in drill as part of the daily routine.

Boycott Japanese Goods.

Boys in the primary schools will be organized as Boy Scouts. Among the obligations is one which specifically states that in addition to readiness to respond to a call to duty, members must boycott Japanese products at all times. The youths must be ready to make the supreme sacrifice, to recover all Chinese territories, and to wipe out all national humiliations.

Local attacks continued tonight upon the Japanese in Hongkong as well as in various other cities in China proper. The Chinese police are doing everything possible to scatter the "hooligans." As a rule, however, the people seem obedient to government instructions not to attack foreigners.

Japanese Battle 300 Convicts.

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Sporadic guerrilla fighting took place in Manchuria today as Japanese troops held positions within the South Manchurian railway zone seized Saturday after clashes with Chinese soldiery.

Fighting occurred at Fenghwangcheng between Japanese troops and 300 convicts who escaped from the Manchurian prison there, eighty miles from the Corean border, dispatches to the Rengo News agency said.

A Japanese battalion was reported dispatched to Taonan to protect Japanese residents, who appealed for aid against Chinese troops who they asserted had looted the town. The Chinese fled before the Japanese soldiers reached Taonan.

Harbin, metropolis of Manchuria, according to Rengo dispatches, was thrown into confusion and its inhabitants terrified by the dynamiting of the Japanese Residents association and the Cultural association. Little damage was done.

Manchurian Capital Moved.

PEIPING, China, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, today ordered temporary removal of the government headquarters from Mukden to Chinchow, 150 miles to the south, and appointed Chang Tso Hsiang, governor of Kirin province, to take charge of the Manchurian troops beyond the Great Wall.

An official Chinese communique today said Japanese airplanes were bombing Manchurian towns, including Tungliao, northwest of Mukden, and the Peiping-Mukden railway as far south as Kowpangtze. The communique denied a report that Gen. Honjo, commanding the Japanese forces in Manchuria, had sent a delegate to Peiping inviting the Manchurian governor to return to Mukden.

Peiping remains quiet despite continued student agitation urging a war against Japan.

60 CHILDREN ARE HURT AS TORNADO WRECKS SCHOOL

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Collapse of the roof of the high school building in Boston, near here, during a severe windstorm this afternoon injured between 50 and 60 pupils, one critically and at least three seriously.

Janice Williams, the most seriously hurt, submitted to an operation tonight. Physicians said they believed she would recover. Billy Holder, 14, and Lawrence Weller and Ruth Daugherty, both under 14 years old, also were believed to be hurt seriously.

Aaron Lindley, principal of the school, saw the windstorm approaching while standing at a window and ran down the hall of the second floor sounding an alarm. The roof of the brick building collapsed, however, before many of the children could run to safety. Lindley was hurt about the head by falling debris.

Hard Blow at Rushville.

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A heavy windstorm, accompanied by electrical disturbances and a downpour of rain, swept over southwest Rush county late today, unroofing several barns, demolishing several small buildings, damaging crops, and injuring one man.

Heavy Winds in Illinois.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Storms of near tornado proportions struck southeast Illinois late today. At Grayville many trees were blown down, blocking streets in some places. Glass was blown from school windows at Belmont. Part of the roof of the town hall here was torn off and some trees were uprooted. No injuries were reported.

Prison for Chicagoan Who Stole Blind Couple's Car

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Lawrence J. Frisbie, 21, of Chicago, was sentenced to three years in state prison by Judge William H. Smathers at Mays Landing today. He was convicted of stealing an automobile and $150 in cash from Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bennett of Huntington Park, Cal., both of whom are blind, in this city two weeks ago.

SALES TAX, IF ANY, MUST AVOID ALL NECESSITIES

Treasury Officials Firm Against Reed Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A general sales tax on all commodities stands little chance of winning treasury approval despite the pressure being brought on the White House for such legislation by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], member of the senate finance committee, and other congressional leaders.

DAVID A. REED. [Bachrach & Ewing Photo.]

Following another White House conference between President Hoover and Senator Reed, during which the sales tax plan of boosting revenue was discussed, it was stated by one of the highest treasury officials that a general tax on all commodities would not have treasury backing.

Luxuries Different.

This official intimated that the treasury would recommend against a general sales tax while favoring certain taxes on luxuries and perhaps a few other commodities, which are widely used, but not classed as necessities.

In their discussions with the President, treasury officials have taken the position that no change in existing tax rates can be passed through congress, which would not increase the burdens on incomes in excess of $10,000. The treasury favors broadening the tax base, but no substantial increase in the type of taxes paid by the average lower bracket taxpayer.

While no definite recommendations will be submitted to President Hoover for some time, treasury financial experts have been instructed to check up on the revenue possibilities of the present law and figure out the prospects of balancing the budget eventually without new legislation.

Balanced Budget Far Off.

Their preliminary estimates indicate that unless a remarkable business recovery is staged there is little chance the budget can be balanced before 1933 or 1934.

The officials responsible for treasury policy now favor taking steps which would add to 1932 revenues, substantially improve revenues received during the 1933 fiscal year, and make certain of a balanced budget in 1934. Their position is that the treasury must take steps to insure a balanced budget at some early date.

Income Rate Boost Probable.

Senator Reed, after conferring with the President and Secretary Mellon, said it was possible income tax rates also would have to be raised to supply sufficient revenue to eliminate deficits in the future. He asserted that the United States, like Great Britain, "must face the music" and balance its budget. He expressed the opinion that income legislation had been sidetracked for this session of congress at least, thus obviating the necessity of a still greater increase in taxes than he now proposes.

In view of his talk with Mr. Mellon, Senator Reed thought the gains and losses provision of the revenue act of 1928 should be eliminated. He said that while he had not worked out his sales tax proposal in detail, he contemplated it would apply to most commodities, with probably certain food products excepted, "for political reasons."

ACQUITTED

The Club Stamboul, 89 East Oak street, according to Pedro Masgofian, its owner, was "just a favorite rendezvous of Y. M. C. A. girls and college professors," but Cornelius Kelly, a prohibition agent, testified he had obtained "a very potent drink of mustika in the place." A jury in Federal Judge Fred L. Wham's court yesterday decided that Pedro was guilty of violation of the national prohibition law. He was sentenced to serve six months in prison and fined $600.

The jury, in returning its verdict, found Lu D'Milla, a co-defendant in that case, not guilty on the liquor charge. Miss D'Milla, referred to in the arrest warrant as "the lady known as Lu," is a little dancer who entertained the guests at the club.

1930 TAX BILLS OUT ON DEC. 15; DELAY PENALTY

Assembly Will Be Asked to Take Action.

The first 1930 real estate tax bills will be sent to taxpayers about Dec. 15, according to tax officials yesterday and the legislature will probably be asked to postpone until Feb. 15, the penalty date on tax payments, now fixed at Jan. 1.

It became possible yesterday to estimate the time required for completion of the tax assessing and collecting process when Andrew W. Gatenbey, chief clerk of the board of review, said the reviewers would complete their hearings next Friday on the 40,000 complaints filed.

Thereafter the reviewers' clerks must foot the tax books. The first books will go to the county treasurer about Oct. 15, and the last of them by Nov. 15, approximately a month behind the schedule originally fixed.

All the Books Required.

Joseph A. Ziemba, tax commissioner in the office of County Clerk Sweitzer, said that little preliminary work could be done on the extension of tax rates until all of the books were received from the reviewers. He estimated that the first tax bills could be mailed out about Dec. 15, but that it would require three or four weeks more to mail them all.

Edward J. McCabe, secretary to County Treasurer McDonough, pointed out that exaction of penalties after Jan. 1 would be unjust to taxpayers, many of whom would not have their bills until after that date. After the county treasurer receives the tax bills, approximately a month is consumed by the provision of the law under which township collectors in the country towns have an opportunity to collect bills.

Treasurer May Take Action.

"This means," McCabe said, "that the last of the bills cannot be sent out until two weeks after the penalty date. If the legislature is in session, it will be asked to extend the penalty date a month from the time the last bills are mailed, or to Feb. 15. If there is no special legislative session between now and the first of the year, the county treasurer will probably extend the date himself and refuse to assess penalties, trusting to the legislature to legalize his action at a later date."

If 90 per cent of the taxes are collected for the years 1928, 1929, 1930 and 1931, Cook county will be only $2,294,828 in debt, according to Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, who revealed yesterday the figures he gave to the governor's revenue commission recently. Total liabilities of the county at the end of the fiscal year, he said, will amount to $16,624,700, including unpaid bills and salaries to the end of the fiscal year, Nov. 30. Estimated assets, including unpaid taxes, amount to $14,329,871.

ACHIEVES ULTIMATE IN DOMESTIC SPLIT BY CHANGING SEX

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Domestic differences of a violent nature in the home of a pair of fighting fish at the aquarium have resulted in a separation far more conclusive than a divorce, it was learned today.

The female of a pair of embattled Siamese, not content with leaving her mate, has made the breach permanent by changing her sex and is now swimming about in an isolated tank, every bit as much a he-fish as the brute that drove her to such desperate measures.

Such indecision or versatility among fish, it was reported at the aquarium, is rare, but not entirely known. This particular case of sex transformation is attracting the attention of experts because hitherto it has been completely unknown in the family to which the Siamese fighting fish belongs.

For this reason the aquarium experts are at present unable to predict the future of this venturesome female—who is now a male. The change, they say, is permanent, but beyond that they are venturing not even a guess.

The erstwhile lady fish did not swim into masculinity without provocation. The trouble started in a breeding tank shortly after she had deposited her eggs. Her mate's Siamese fighting blood was unaccountably aroused and he tore off most of her fins before aquarium attendants could come to her rescue.

Given a tank to herself, she recovered from her injuries. A few days later, however, she brought excitement into her convalescence by turning over a new leaf and changing her sex.

Now he is in splendid health.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE LEGION RESOLUTIONS.

The American Legion recorded itself against the eighteenth amendment and asked congress to submit the repeal or modification to the states for a vote of the people. The Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, voice of organized prohibition and peddler of defamatory phrases, says the decision was one of staggering drunks who disgraced the uniform, but the contrary was true to all unbigoted eyes. The convention scene was orderly and considerate. The question was considered intelligently and the opposition was given a fair hearing. A national political convention dealing with the subject would not have been as sober of mind or senses. The Legion also voted not to ask the government for more on the bonus.

What more could the men have done to prove that they were not acting in self-interest but were considerate of the welfare of the country? The fact that judgment was against the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, for reasons apparent to all Americans, exposes the Legion to the vile and violent language of professional prohibitionists, but all it asks is that a vote of the people of the states shall determine the sentiment of the country. The submission is to the people and not to the legislatures, which are subject to the peculiar persuasions exercised by the prohibitionists who will support a scoundrel voting dry and oppose an honest man voting wet.

If congress followed the spirit of the Legion request it could submit the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the decision of the people, authorizing them at the same time to elect delegates to conventions to register their will legally under the constitution. That would take the decision away from the legislatures.

The resolution adopted by the Legion is not an act of vandalism, as the hysterical prohibitionists pronounce it, but is a proper bit of action taken by representatives of one of the greatest organizations in American life. The members of the Legion registered their opinion as citizens, a privilege which is not yet restricted to the Anti-Saloon league and the W. C. T. U.

Defamation of the opposition is the final and most congenial recourse of agitated bigotry, but in using it against the Legion the drys have taken in too much territory. The indictment of federal prohibition is true. The remedy is repeal.

WAGE REDUCTIONS AND BUSINESS POLICY.

We suggested yesterday that the directorate of the United States Steel corporation would have been well advised to accompany its announcement of a reduction in wages with a statement of the conditions which induced this action. We think this would be advisable in the case of all great employers who have been or may be induced to a similar policy. And we would suggest that such statements should go further. They should reassert the purpose of industry to maintain, as far as conditions permit, the American standard of living and the policy of the highest practicable pay for labor.

This would be but to assert what most certainly will govern industrial policy in democratic America. Rates of wages necessarily are and will be affected by fluctuations of business, just as are the wages of capital and of management. But this does not alter the general principle. Wage earners in this time of common loss and sacrifice may find a rational encouragement in the forces, both economic and social, which, when normal conditions revive, will carry them forward again. They may and should be assured by industrial and financial leadership that wage reduction does not imply any desertion of the principle of a high standard of living for American labor and for a just distribution of the profits of enterprise. The theory that capital serves its own self-interest by reducing the rewards of the labor to a minimum has been exploded in American industry, which has learned that modern mass production rests upon purchasing power and that high efficiency depends upon adequate reward for all who contribute to its maintenance. Aside from the important social considerations which in our democratic society repel this older theory, it has been discredited by the best business intelligence.

Wage reduction must be recognized, when circumstances induce a resort to it, as a forced strategic retreat, not an adoption of general policy. It is an emergency measure which any enlightened management compelled by conditions which a sound faith in American character and American economic strength confidently regards as temporary. It does not imply permanent retreat or loss of ground for the American worker.

This should be made clear. Wage reduction, like the reductions in salary and dividends from investment which have preceded it, is unpleasant, and it involves not merely loss of income but the weakening of morale through discouragement. The latter is, in fact, its worst result, and it should be limited and corrected as much as possible. It is excessive and exaggerated, as our present panic psychology shows. It is the product of fears, not facts.

A reassertion of the policy maintained by American industrial management and leadership, not only in boom times but as long as conditions have permitted through the business decline, would do much to offset the moral effect of wage reduction by assuring wage earners that restoration of wages will keep step with restoration of business activity and not be dependent upon a struggle against reactionary policy. American business leadership is, we are confident, not committed to reaction or deluded by the hope of diminishing the share of labor in the profits of enterprise. It recognizes the interdependence of labor and capital and the rôle of a prosperous wage earning class in the economic and social progress of the nation.

AMERICA PAYS THE DOLE.

Already there is a good deal of talk, especially along the eastern seaboard, of a revision of the British war debt to conform to British ability to pay. The argument runs that we scaled down the debts of the other allies much more than Britain's because when the negotiations were under way the currencies of France and Italy had slipped a long way from the gold standard of pre-war days. That was the measure of their inability to pay and it is now to be regarded as the measure of the British inability to pay at the rate set in the agreement.

To have collected the full amounts of the debts, we were told, would have brought about certain ruin. The certainty of ruin for Germany and, with Germany, for the rest of Europe, was foreseen, too, when the Hoover moratorium was declared at a cost of $350,000,000 to the taxpayers of the United States. That policy was hailed in the vicinity of Wall street as the pinnacle of American statesmanship and such doubts and hesitations as were expressed arose for the most part in the Mississippi valley.

The seacoast patriots who are now finding a new excuse for adding to the burden of the American taxpayer are the same gentlemen who snort fire at the mention of any kind of dole in this country, whether in the form of a further payment to veterans or an undisguised unemployment benefit. We share their opposition to these schemes for numerous reasons, among which is the conviction that there can be no business recovery in this country if taxes are increased. But we cannot see how a New York banker can object to taxing the American people to pay a dole to fellow Americans while he is demanding that the American people tax themselves to provide doles in England, Germany, and other countries.

That, precisely, is the effect of their argument. The European countries, they say, cannot pay us because they cannot even balance their budgets. But they cannot balance their budgets because they will not balance them. Mr. Alex Small of THE TRIBUNE'S European staff called attention recently to the fact that in Germany alone the taxpayers were called upon in 1930 to produce no less than $2,000,000,000 for various forms of social aid [in addition to the billion dollars contributed by the insured]. The British bill for various kinds of doles, he finds, has totaled not much less than three billion dollars since 1925 and he believes his calculation is considerably short of the mark.

When our government cancels the debts it is, in effect, paying the doles in England and Germany which it will not pay to the American unemployed. As long as that situation exists and can be easily demonstrated there is going to be a sense of resentment and outrage in this country with far-reaching political consequences. When the citizens of the debtor countries have ceased to support themselves and their experiments in profitable idleness at the expense of the American taxpayers the time may come for a reconsideration of the debts. Certainly not before.

IGNORING THE GANGSTER.

Mayor Walker, returning from Europe, told an organization of newspaper men that if they would take the gangster off page one they would take him out of existence. Mr. Walker probably meant that it would remove the gangster as a nuisance in the life of a mayor. Gangsters aim to increase their profits and decrease their competitors. Publicity pays them nothing. They seek it about as avidly as J. P. Morgan seeks out the interviewers. Their political supporters have the same craving for public notice.

Page one is about the only deterrent the gangs encounter. Vivid publicity does occasionally make a city so hot that it must be allowed to cool off before business in crime can be as usual. The idea that the gangster lives to see his name in the paper in connection with the abrupt passing of some of his rivals, with a few children, policemen or innocent citizens, represents Mr. Walker at his funniest if not at his best.

Editorial of the Day

THE WORLD OWES MUCH TO THIS MAN.

[The Detroit News.]

In Albert Memorial hall in London the people of England are offering a great electrical exhibition indicative of the tremendous progress made during the past century in invention and the application of electrical energy to do man's work. The occasion is the anniversary of some of the most important discoveries made by the great English scientist, Michael Faraday.

Brought across from their famous South Kensington Museum of Science to enhance the interest of the exhibition are some of the instruments and experimental equipment by means of which Faraday worked out his theories. Visitors gazing upon these and upon the gigantic machinery and intricate, almost magical devices which have come about as a result of Faraday's discoveries must be taught the lesson never to scorn small beginnings.

Many of the natural manifestations which attracted the interest of Faraday were familiar long before his time. But his analytical mind pursued trains of thought elicited by them to logical conclusions. He pushed a magnet through a hollow core wound with copper wire and found that electric current resulted, though the wire and the magnet had no contact. Out of that came many of the applications making possible telegraph and telephone and the radio. He made an electric needle rotate around a wire carrying a current of electricity, and out of that came the electric dynamo and the electric motor.

Too frequently the offerings of science are condemned by the snap judgment, "Interesting, but of no practical use." Doubtless the inventions to revolutionize the life of the future may be glimpsed today in curious phenomena of which as yet no one has found means of making use. The power of steam was recognized in antiquity, and more than a century before the Christian era a device was produced which made a jet of steam rotate a wheel. But the idea was useless for nearly 2,000 years. The Faraday centennial should give encouragement to inventive genius.

FIRST AID TO THE POOR SLEEPER.

A FAIRLY considerable number of men who live by brainwork are not satisfied with their ability to sleep when the time for slumber has arrived. The percentage rises rather uniformly from 6.5 at age thirty-five, to 7.5 at age eighty-five.

Of those who have difficulty in going to sleep a considerable proportion follow some means of first aid to the wakeful. About one-third of them have worked out some method of thought control. Each woos Morpheus by following his method. One-quarter of them tear their minds away from exciting day thoughts by reading; eighteen per cent have worked out a method of relaxation; about one out of every twenty-five takes some form of warm drink—generally milk, or milk with some addition such as malted food or crackers. About four per cent court sleep by smoking; three per cent use some form of sleep producing drug. The same proportion take warm baths. One out of fifty takes some form of alcoholic beverage.

Of these several methods relaxation is best. It is not the most popular because it is something of an art, and one that is not very easily acquired. Thought control ranks only second to relaxation. Probably that which most of the reporters called thought control is a form of relaxation. It would not be far from right if relaxation and thought control were united in the table. Reading adapted to the state of mind of the individual is an excellent method of inducing sleep. Reading another kind of literature can be depended on to banish sleep. These three methods stand at the top of the list, as they should. The use of drugs stands at the other end, as it should. Alcohol was at the bottom. From the physiologic standpoint it is the worst of all, since it tends to increase cerebral congestion and, consumed in quantities too small to produce drunken stupor, causes a tendency to wakefulness. The man who induces sleep by a nightly nip is getting a suggestion effect. The use of sleep producing medicines does tend to produce sleep, but, potentially, it is more harmful than the use of alcohol. Smoking as a measure of inducing sleep is another suggestion procedure.

These facts were collected by Dr. D. A. Laird as the result of correspondence with several hundred men of prominence. More than five hundred replied to Dr. Laird, giving information about their sleep habits. These Dr. Laird tabulated.

GRAPEFRUIT JUICE.

J. H. S. writes: I have been told by friends that I should drink unsweetened grapefruit juice to overcome acid stomach and to avoid pyorrhea. This juice tastes acid to me. How can I overcome acid stomach? Will it aid in avoiding pyorrhea, and how should I drink it?

REPLY.

Fruit juices serve a useful purpose in the human diet, but I doubt whether overcoming acidity of the stomach is part of that purpose. Muriatic is the acid of the stomach. It is much more powerful than malic and citric acids—the usual fruit acids.

Fruit acids are burned to alkalis in the body, certain portions of them going off as carbonic acid through the lungs. The residue or ash helps to increase the alkali reserve of the body. Therefore, fruit juices are eaten to overcome tendency to acidity. At the same time, putting sour juices in the stomach does temporarily increase the local sourness.

However, so-called acidity of the stomach, nine times out of ten, is nothing more than a symptom of some condition of the gall bladder or some other remote trouble. Under these circumstances giving acid fruit juices will neither add to nor lessen the symptom to any great extent.

Drinking fruit juices freely should prevent pyorrhea. It may help to cure.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please find out why they have no stop lights on 55th street and Cottage Grove avenue? It is the most dangerous crossing in the city and I can't see why they have no stop lights there. H. G.

A sergeant of the Fifth district was assigned to observe the above crossing. He reports that he remained at this crossing from 8:10 p. m. to 9 p. m. and watched traffic; that he found four danger signs [signals] flashing, situated back from each corner in the direction of traffic approaching the intersection; that during his observation he found the traffic conditions about medium, there being no confusion and all drivers regarded the signals and approached the intersection cautiously. At above intersections, street cars run north and south on Cottage Grove. Some of the south bound cars turn east on 55th street and all west bound street cars turn north on Cottage Grove from 55th street on west side of Cottage Grove. Sergeant further reports that from his observation during the above time the present signals are sufficient at this intersection. JOHN H. ALCOCK,
Acting Commissioner of Police.

STEPS TO CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 15. — [Friend of the People.]—A Canadian entered this country in 1911. His father arrived in 1910. No questions were asked the son when he entered, but the record of entry of the father is on file in Washington. The son being in this country continuously since 1911, would he have to apply for entry papers in order to secure his naturalization papers and would he be subject to deportation if he applied and no record could be found? H. M. S.

No positive statement can be made that there is no record of arrival. Therefore, the son, if he desires to become a citizen, should fill out the form A-2213 and forward it to this office with money order and photographs. If no record of his entry is found, he will be instructed to call on the immigration service, Room 1343 Transportation building, in order to have a registry of his entry made. There is no law under which he may be deported.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director U. S. Department of Labor.

CAN REMARRY AFTER YEAR.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can a girl who has been divorced six months and lives in Wisconsin get married any place in the U. S. A. before the year is over? 2. If married in another state can the law do anything if she comes back to Wisconsin? G. P.

1. The Illinois court has held that the Wisconsin statute leaves the parties incapable of contracting a valid marriage here during the year. We know of no decisions in other states.

2. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE JAPANESE AND THE CHINESE have about decided not to have a war after all. They wouldn't get much attention if they did; everybody is too busy watching the stock market and their jobs and counting the unemployed and keeping an eye on the coming winter to worry much whether the Japanese take Whoo Whang Klang from the Chinese or whether the Chinese invest Japan's garrison in Chow Sing How. And you can't fight any kind of a war unless you borrow a lot of money. And who would the two nations borrow a lot of money from now? They couldn't borrow money enough from anybody to buy pants and service stripes for two platoons. Not even for a corporal. Wars are luxuries and cost while they're fighting them and cost a lot more than that when they're over. And the longer they're over the more they cost. And the side that wins is just about as close to the poorhouse as the side that got licked. Look at the world today, a dozen years after the big free-for-all in France. Who won the war? That's still an open question. The one sure thing is that we're going to pay for it. No wonder the two oriental countries are a little slow at starting another fight. Maybe they're both afraid they'd win it and a dozen or so years later have to pay for it. Gosh, that's enough to make a pacifist out of any nation.

EXEMPT.

Death came thru the window, and looked all about
The window was barred, but bolts can't keep Death out.
And the family within never vouchsafed a look;
But she went on sewing, and he read his book,
And the babies at play by the big rocking chair
Were as carefree and gay as if Death wasn't there.
The dog felt him coming, and whimpered, and whined;
But none of the rest seemed to notice or mind.
And Time—his companion—said frowning, "'Tis clear
They'd not be so calm if they knew you were here!"
But Death smiled, and said, in a pitying way,
"They busy themselves with their work and their play.
And they think—if they think—when my mantle they see,
'Oh, Death will touch others! He will not touch me!'"

MARJORIE F. W.

DR. CLARENCE TRUE WILSON denounces the American Legion as a bunch of staggering drunks who disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer. Why, Clarence!

AND AS THE POET SAID—there's good in everything. Now, speaking of this ten per cent reduction in wages—Col. Robert Isham Randolph says the regular fee for bumping a guy off in Chicago is three hundred berries. And it's a genuine pleasure to reflect that if the wage reduction movement becomes general it will cut the gangster's wages down to two hundred and seventy bucks. With this decrease in wages it looks as though many a gangster this winter will have to go without a fur overcoat or a new car.

SET YOUR WRIST WATCHES back tomorrow, daylight saving will be over. Too bad, we tried all sorts of economies, but daylight was about the only thing we were able to save on this summer. And now we can't even save that.

AH! if you are of those who say "ah, ah! will the Linebook be cut ten per cent, too, and have only 57.6 pages this year instead of sixty-four?" Ah, right back at you, the ten per cent cut which seems to be abounding and abutting all about us has no effect on the Linebook; it will still consist of what good old Hank so aptly termed "sixty-four damn pages." But what say you shall go into those sixty-four what old Hank said pages? Tell us, gentle reader, as you have done through all these Linebook years, what you think should be included.

AND SWEET BEDELIA BOBS UP with a saucy letter to this effect: "You say you were at Jackman, Me., and you saw a porcupine. I was in Jackman, Me., last summer, too, but I didn't see any porcupines. I guess you must have been drinking a good deal of that squirrel whisky they make out in the woods for the lumberjacks and guides." No, Sweet Bedelia, you are wrong. The squirrel whisky they sell up in Maine doesn't make you see fretful porcupines shooting their quills with unerring accuracy for a distance of twenty or thirty yards. The animals that you see when you drink squirrel whisky are purple elephants with green spots swinging by yellow tails from the tops of the pine trees and making a strange noise, hoogle google, hoogle google, like a tiger, or would that be a tiger? Anyhow that's what squirrel whisky does and, therefore, you are a nature faker.

NIGHTFALL AT PRESCOTT.

Chastening old Granite Dells.
From the Summit, echoes call,
Silver-sharp as gamin bells.

Soon the amber twilight dims,
Darkens down to goblin gold,
One lost gleaming sunray rims
The town—then all is cold.

Down a hill road through the pines
Light of some descending car
Glimmers, wavers, drops and shines
Like a distant falling star.

Purple, pink, and gold are gone:
Cut by the rising moon and night
The town is a wood-block till the dawn
Etches it in soft gray light.

LONDON.—An official statement made public in Sofia gives the position of Bulgaria with respect to the war. It is given out through Berlin, and this fact, together with the character of the statement, adds to the impression here that it is substantially an ultimatum to the allies that Serbia must cede Macedonia to Bulgaria or the Bulgars will join the German side of the war. The Sofia official statement is: "The entrance of Bulgaria into a state of armed neutrality is explained by reason of the changes shortly to be made in the political and military situation. Bulgaria has no hostile intentions, but is firmly resolved to safeguard its interests and independence, if necessary, by force of arms."

LONDON.—The British, French, and Belgian forces have begun their long awaited offensive movement in the west. Reports from Paris and Berlin agree that the allies have pressed the attack along the whole front. The main object of the allies is to drive the Germans from the trenches which they have occupied with but few changes since the retreat following the great battle of the Marne a year ago last month.

LONDON.—The battle tide on the eastern front seems to be swinging more with the Russians, except in the north, where Dvinsk is under heavy attack, with the Germans making headway in their drive on the fortified city of Dvina.

WASHINGTON. — In the Schley court of inquiry Capt. W. C. Wise, who commanded the scout Yale during the Spanish-American war, admitted under oath that, notwithstanding positive orders from the secretary of the navy directing him to inform Commodore Schley's "flying squadron" that the Spanish fleet was in Santiago harbor, he did not do so. He merely notified Capt. Phillip of the Texas just as the "flying squadron" was starting for Key West to coal, and, so far as was developed, this important fact was not communicated to Commodore Schley. A sensational development of the day was the introduction as evidence of the suppressed letter written by Admiral Sampson to Schley directing the latter to remain off Cienfuegos.

CLEVELAND, O.—Tomorrow will witness the fitting culmination of the funeral services started at Long Branch last Monday morning and resumed at Washington later in the week. The ceremonies at the pavilion, the march of the imposing funeral cortége to the cemetery, and the closing services at the vault will mark the termination of a series of events for which this country has nothing in the way of a parallel excepting those public manifestions of mingled grief and homage which followed the assassination and death of Lincoln. Throughout the day great throngs encircled Monumental square and 100,000 people viewed the martyred President's remains. Crowds continue to pour into the city from all sections of the country.

CHICAGO.—The chief feature of the memorial exercises for President Garfield in this city today will be the vast procession of soldiers and civilians by medium of which citizens of every class will be given an opportunity to testify their sorrow and regret at the great calamity. The line will be formed on Michigan avenue and will move promptly at 2 o'clock, the hour set for the funeral ceremonies at Cleveland, and march through streets of the loop district. After the procession public memorial meetings will be held on the lake front and in Central Music hall.

FOOD FOR THE NEEDY.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—As this letter is being written, eleven tons of peaches are arriving at the Immanuel center to be given to the poor of Chicago. This is a fair sample of what is taking place practically every day. These fruits are sent to the various benevolent institutions and by them distributed among the poor in the communities where they are located. These gifts are made without regard to creed or color.

The response has been more universal and generous than was expected when this plan was inaugurated. It was announced through the columns of THE TRIBUNE and encouragement given to it by the editors. It was not known how it would appeal to the farmers nor what supplies were available.

At once the various towns in Michigan and Illinois responded and expressed their willingness to cooperate. Thousands of bushels of apples, peaches, and other fruits soon made their way into Chicago. Two large truck companies offered all the necessary trucks free of cost. In order to give the farmer a very small return he has been paid for his trouble in every case and a very small amount given him for the fruit. Five cents a bushel has been paid for beautiful peaches. An orchard of twelve hundred bushels of apples was bought for fifty dollars and an orchard of six hundred bushels for thirty dollars. Hundreds of tons of fruit and vegetables are awaiting the coming of our trucks.

These rich products of the farms will not be used unless our trucks bring them to the hungry people of our city. We have had the perfect cooperation of farmers, truck companies and commission merchants. All are willing that these products should be brought to the city so long as they are not sold. It is difficult to estimate the amount that has already been received because it comes in such forms and quantities that it can hardly be measured correctly. Many thousands of bushels have reached the people who would not have received these supplies had it not been for the plan of connecting the need of the people with the rich harvests of the country.

There is every prospect of hundreds of tons of potatoes and other vegetables coming to the Immanuel point of distribution within the next thirty days. Some of the farmers have volunteered to gather the products and bring them in free of cost. Two large truck loads are expected from Hillsdale college, Hillsdale, Mich., this week. These fruits and vegetables have been gathered by the students as an expression of their sympathy for the needy of Chicago. Not less than thirty charitable institutions have received the benefit of these supplies as well as thousands of individual poor people.

We are most grateful to THE TRIBUNE, for without this paper the plan would not have been a success. With its continued coöperation there will be a steady flow of the good things from the country into the homes of the poor.

IN THE MILITIA.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Every year the National Guard units have their annual training encampments, usually at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. The 202d C. A. C. (anti-aircraft) of the Broadway armory was among the regiments to go to Camp Grant, from Aug. 2 to 16, this year. It is impossible for our regiment to do any firing at this camp as we are using a long range anti-aircraft gun (75 millimeter), and there is no firing range to accommodate a gun of this caliber.

In years previous to 1930 our regiment always traveled to a camp that was equipped for anti-aircraft firing, where we could get our proper training. This year a regiment of Missouri National Guard, in the same branch of the service we are in, came to Fort Sheridan, Ill., where they were able to fire their big guns.

Now the officials of the organization request that our regiment go to Camp Logan, Ill., and fire every Sunday, from Oct. 4 to Nov. 15, in order to get our training. This is a very unjust request and the enlisted personnel of the regiment have nothing to say on the matter, although the greater part of the organization are against it. We are only citizen soldiers. We are working six days a week and on the only day set aside for persons to have rest or recreation we are forced to go to a camp. We are given a box lunch for dinner, which is not very appetizing when you have had a full day's work in the field. It means that approximately 600 men must be away from their families or friends because some one has an idea we need target practice. A SERGEANT.

DICTAPHONES.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—"A Teacher" has just cause to complain at the installation of dictaphones in commercial departments. After long experience in a dictaphone department of a large office I know that a good typist, well trained in English and spelling, will make a good dictaphone operator in a very short time.

Further, any one with a good beginning foundation at very small expense can go to a dictaphone office and become an efficient or even expert dictaphone operator in two weeks' time or less. Why should the school board quit of an empty treasury supply this needless equipment? OBSERVER.

ACT TO SPEND $1,100,000 ON PUBLIC WORKS

County and City Launch Fall Building Program.

Fifteen miles of highway paving and 30 minor public improvements, which call for a total expenditure of $1,100,000, were placed on the fall construction program yesterday by the city board of local improvements and the county. The new construction, officials estimated, would provide jobs for several hundred workmen.

The improvement board at a meeting approved the 29 projects, which include the resurfacing of city streets and the laying of sewer and water mains. The cost of these improvements is estimated at $500,000. At the same time President Whealan of the county board announced that bids will be received next Tuesday on the highway construction, the cost of which is estimated at $600,000.

The city projects were approved over the objections of property owners who will be assessed for a portion of the cost. Many of the property owners said additional tax levies should not be made at this time.

County Paving Jobs Listed.

The county highway paving projects are as follows:

Maybird avenue, 95th to 111th street, 1.25 miles.
Ivanhoe avenue, 78th to 79th street, .12 of a mile.
Thatcher avenue, Beverly avenue to 107th street, .56 of a mile.
Ashland avenue, Elmwood to Ashland avenue, .77 of a mile.
Illinois C. C. & C. T. railroad to 130th street, 1.15 miles.
Ridge avenue, Hamlin avenue to McCormick road, .83 of a mile.
Ashland avenue, Cicero avenue to Touhy avenue, 1.94 miles; Touhy to Gross Point road, .70 of a mile.
Division avenue, Cicero to Crawford avenue, 1.25 miles.
Pulaski avenue, Sacramento to Kedzie avenue, .50 of a mile.
Halsted avenue, 18th to 22d street, .41 of a mile; 69d to 71st street, 1.09 miles.
Stockton avenue, 154th to State street, .75 of a mile.
Halsted avenue, Lincoln avenue to Devon avenue, .50 of a mile.
Wentworth avenue, 167th to 177th street, .97 of a mile.
Ivanhoe avenue, Milwaukee avenue to Carpenter street, 1.52 miles.
Bridge avenue, Melrose Park, gap at North avenue, .50 of a mile; gap at Chicago and North Western railroad, .09 of a mile.
Harlem street, gap at 25th avenue, .52 of a mile.
Forest preserve, gap at Louis avenue, .07 of a mile.

Other Bids to Be Opened.

In addition to the highway construction the county board will open bids on the 179th street culvert, paving of the bridge across the Little Calumet river at Cottage Grove avenue, and on a bridge across the Des Plaines river at 47th street.

Mr. Whealan also signed a petition to be presented to the Illinois commerce commission which, if approved, will permit the paving of 55th street over the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad, completing the opening of 55th street as far west as Archer avenue.

Barriers guarding a new pavement in 35th street near Drexel avenue were removed Thursday night by a motorist, who then proceeded to drive on the soft cement. The driver, Lloyd Flint, 6036 St. Lawrence avenue, was fined $5 yesterday by Judge Alfar M. Barhydt. The damage was estimated by the construction company at $100.

Pennsylvania Toy Balloon Comes Down in Hawaii

Brenburg, Pa., Sept. 25.— (AP) —A toy balloon inflated with gas was released here July 4, and today Miss Rose Jean Shrader, whose name was on a card attached to it, received a letter from Hawaii saying the balloon came down there. FORMER FRIEND SUES K. L. AMES FOR STOCK PROFIT

$1,908 Is Due Him, He Charges.

Knowlton L. Ames, publisher, investment broker, and president of the Booth Fisheries company, was named defendant yesterday in a bill to declare a trust which was filed in the Circuit court by Thomas C. Loucks, 283 Dundee avenue, Elgin, his former friend and business associate. The stock brokerage house of Farnum, Winter & Co., 120 West Adams street, was made a defendant with Mr. Ames.

The action asks that the brokers be ordered to turn over to Loucks the sum of $1,908, which is the credit balance in his name on their books.

Once Wealthy Coal Man.

Loucks, formerly a wealthy coal operator, sets forth that for many years he has been destitute and dependent upon the gifts of friends and relatives. He is 74 years old and infirm, the bill asserts. During many years of friendship between the two men, according to the bill, Loucks did many services for Mr. Ames which the latter "recognized a moral obligation to repay."

In January, 1929, it is alleged, Mr. Ames opened an account at the brokerage office in his own and Loucks' name. The profits, the bill charges, were to go to Loucks to help provide for him in his remaining years.

Tells of Stock Deals.

After a transaction in the stock of a company in which Mr. Ames has large interests, the bill alleges, $2,363 was credited to the account. Against this sum Loucks drew $363.34 on Aug. 30, 1929, and he returned on Nov. 16, 1929, to withdraw $250. Since that date the interest has accrued until the sum of $1,908 is credited to him, Loucks charges.

Although no other trading was carried on, Loucks alleges, when he returned to the brokers last July 13 his request to withdraw another sum was refused.

Sentenced to Jail for Defrauding Job Seeker

Robert Kirst, 32 years old, 6042 Woodlawn avenue, pleaded guilty yesterday before Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan to taking $12 from Frank Stryganek, 18 years old, 5204 South May street, on the promise of obtaining employment for the youth. Kirst was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

OWNERS REJECT PEACE OFFER BY MOVIE UNION

While police yesterday were investigating the eighth theater bombing since the beginning of the controversy between the Allied Independent Theater Owners' association and the Moving Picture Operators' union, tentative peace plans submitted by the union were rejected by the executive committee of the association.

Following an executive meeting at the Auditorium hotel, Aaron Saperstein, president of the association, stated that the union plan, submitted by Attorney Thomas Nash, was too general and would provide only temporary relief. A counter proposal will be made by the owners, he stated.

The union plan provided for the formation of a committee to consist of Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union; Nash, Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury, and one member of the association. The committee would fix a price scale to be effective until Jan. 1, but would have no power to decide on the number of operators per booth. Union demands for two operators started the controversy.

The theater bombed yesterday was the Commodore, 3105 Irving Park boulevard. Damage to the building and adjacent stores was estimated at $1,000. Policeman William Feisch, on guard at the theater, opened fire on two men he saw running from the show before the blast. He was knocked to the sidewalk by the explosion.

SAILBOATS TORN FROM MOORINGS BY HEAVY STORM

A heavy rain fell in Chicago early yesterday, then moved out of the city and over Indiana and Michigan. In Chicago the precipitation totaled 1.69 inches.

The storm played havoc with a dozen sailing craft and power boats anchored in the basin at the foot of Monroe street. The boats were torn from their moorings. Capt. John O. Anderson and his men from the coast guard station managed to save the boats before they were seriously damaged.

The temperature was 55 at 8 a. m. yesterday. At 1 p. m. it had mounted to 64 and at 3 p. m. it was 74. W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted fair and cooler weather today.

4 CLOSED BANKS ARE READY TO PAY DIVIDENDS

Receivers Tell Condition of Six Others.

Four closed banks are preparing to pay dividends to depositors, State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced yesterday. The banks are the Binga State bank, 3452 South State street; the Ridgeway State bank, 3722 West Chicago avenue; the Novak & Steiskal bank, 1817 South Loomis street, and the Central Oak Park State bank of Oak Park.

The Binga bank, which closed July 21, 1930, will pay its first dividend to 17,000 depositors. They will receive checks by mail for $138,000, or approximately 12¼ per cent of deposit liabilities of $1,100,000. The checks are to be mailed by Edward H. Morris, receiver. Practically all of the depositors are colored people.

Ridgeway Bank Dividend.

A dividend of 15 per cent, or approximately $75,000, will go to depositors of the Ridgeway State bank, which closed April 1. Edward M. Olson, receiver, is to mail checks to 8,500 depositors. A total of $429,000 is due depositors.

Clearing of court litigation during the week is expected to pave the way for a 15 per cent dividend of $75,000 to depositors of the Novak & Steiskal bank. The receiver was prepared to make payment two months ago, but was blocked by the intervention of a depositors' committee. The bank has $75,000 in cash against deposit claims of $616,000, and has in addition bonds which can be sold to insure the 15 per cent dividend.

The Central Oak Park State bank is awaiting court action to pay a dividend of 40 per cent. A suit for $185,000 has been brought against the bank for rent. Master in Chancery Archie H. Cohen has found the bank owes but $5,900. If his report is sustained depositors are to be paid. The receiver has $52,000 in cash against deposit liabilities of $116,000.

Other Receivers Report.

State Auditor Nelson made public statements on the conditions of six more closed banks of the county. The statements were prepared by receivers.

Emil J. Wentslaff, receiver for the Boulevard State Savings bank, which closed April 16, set the book value of assets at $957,142 and losses in conversion of assets to cash at $70,995 against $794,113 due creditors. He fixed income during liquidation at $452,041 and disbursements at $369,764. His itemized disbursements follow:

Preferred claims paid	$152,467
Receiver's salary and expenses	3,350

Charles B. Jenks, receiver for the Montrose Trust and Savings bank, which closed May 21, placed the book value of assets at $442,885 against $368,743 due creditors. He fixed income during liquidation at $39,872 with disbursements of $29,883. His itemized disbursements follow:

Receiver's salary and expenses	$ 683
Clerical hire	1,573
Miscellaneous expenses	1,837
Auditor's expense in closing bank	667
Bills payable met	25,121

Norman O. Geyer, receiver for the Second Northwestern State bank, which closed June 10, placed the book value of assets at $2,977,190 with losses in conversion of assets to cash at $1,765 against $2,325,347 due creditors. Income during liquidation was fixed at $515,061 with disbursements of $286,315. His itemized disbursements follow:

Receiver's salary and expenses	$ 666
Clerical hire	3,198
Miscellaneous expenses	770
Auditor's expenses in closing bank	1,050
Bills payable met	280,379
Interest paid	20

To schedule B 3 and F	6,258

Victor H. Munnecke, receiver for the State Bank of Beverly Hills, which closed June 11, placed the book value of assets at $1,026,147 against $770,607 due creditors. Income during liquidation was fixed at $156,321 with disbursements of $98,253. His itemized disbursements follow:

Preferred claims paid	$21,420
Clerical hire	1,399
Miscellaneous expenses	1,630
Auditor's expenses closing bank	1,635
Bills payable met	72,758

The auditor announced the appointment of Edgar F. Olson as receiver for the Marquette State bank, 6314 South Western avenue, which closed Aug. 21 with resources listed at $1,632,587 and deposits at $1,409,872. The law firm of Rathje, Wesemann, Hinckley & Barnard is to represent the receiver. Mr. Olson is to be employed at a salary of $5,000 a year, and at the same time his salary of $6,000 a year as receiver for the Novak and Steiskal bank is to be cut to $2,400 because his work has become lighter, Mr. Nelson said.

John Bain, head of the closed chain of twelve Bain banks, yesterday predicted full return for all depositors of the banks. Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver of the banks, disclosed Thursday the Bain interests owe the banks $2,280,460 and only $20,000 of the obligations have been paid since the banks closed June 9.

SENTENCE BANDIT WHO OBTAINED 30 COURT DELAYS

Pleads Guilty to Pay Roll Robbery.

Daniel Prendergast, 3826 Parnell avenue, who has been able to get 30 continuances on a charge of robbery, was sentenced yesterday to serve from one to twenty years in the state penitentiary. The defendant pleaded guilty to another robbery charge before Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court.

DANIEL PRENDERGAST.

The crime which Prendergast confessed was a robbery of the Century Electrotype company, 847 South Clark street. The pay roll of $1,643 was found in his pockets after he was seized. His companion, Edgar Cortner, 536 West 45th street, arrested with him, was sentenced with Prendergast to serve the same term.

Obtained Many Delays.

Sentencing of Prendergast followed the revelation that he obtained one delay after another on a charge of robbing one of the Pennsylvania Oil company's stations. The oil company complained to the Chicago Crime commission that every time its representatives appeared in court a continuance was granted.

Prendergast denied robbing the station and the charge was stricken with leave to reinstate.

Third Charge Dropped.

A third charge, stealing an automobile, was on Judge Stanton's call against Prendergast and Ernest Leibe. They were accused of taking the automobile of Harold Rickenbaugh, 3608 South Union avenue, on March 26, 1930. Prendergast told the court that Leibe was innocent. Leibe traded a stolen car with him without knowing it, Prendergast said. This case was also stricken with leave to reinstate.

Prendergast and Cortner had been indicted for the robbery of Dr. Julian H. Lewis, 5200 South Wabash avenue, which they denied. This charge was also stricken with leave to reinstate.

WIFE TO RETAIN THE CUSTODY OF RICH PARALYTIC

A habeas corpus action, the second instituted within six weeks to obtain the release of Hugo Smith, wealthy paralytic, from the custody of his wife, Mrs. Alice K. Smith, 2000 Lincoln Park West, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Michael L. McKinley in the Superior court.

Smith will return to the private sanitarium at 2736 Hampden court, where he was placed by his wife. The action yesterday was filed by the Taxpayers and Voters' league of Illinois, an organization seeking the reform of insane asylums and dog pounds and the abolition of compulsory vaccination. Mrs. H. E. Joseph, president of the league, had received a note, in which Smith said that he was being detained against his will.

Yesterday Attorney Lloyd Heth, representing Mrs. Smith, presented a sworn statement from Smith stating that he was contented with his treatment. He had written the letter of complaint at the direction of Shannon Smith, a former employé, the statement charged. Shannon Smith, he charged, is trying to get control of the International Sales company, his business, which is now being operated by his wife.

Smith was in court, but because his paralyzed condition makes it practically impossible for him to speak, he was not questioned.

2,000 SWALLOWS LOADED IN PLANE AND FLOWN SOUTH

VIENNA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Migration of Austrian swallows by airplane began today when the first flock of 2,000, too cold to travel under their own wing power, left for Venice.

Dozens of peasants, gendarmes and chauffeurs scoured the countryside for other feathered weaklings. The rescued birds were takes to special quarters of the Bird Protection society to await their turn in the plane trips southward to spend the winter.

The society's rooms today housed 12,000 swallows, perched on ropes strung between supports, or on the floor, which was strewn with food. They accepted the unusual care in a friendly spirit, fluttering to the heads and shoulders of visitors.

BOOKS

"Cakes and Ale" Defended Now by Own Author

Maugham So Uses Preface of Latest Book.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"First Person Singular," by W. Somerset Maugham [Doubleday-Doran].

SIX longish short stories, all written in the first person singular, are the contents of the three hundred pages of Mr. Maugham's first published volume since "Cakes and Ale." That novel caused a tumult on both sides of the Atlantic and was the immediate cause of another novel, "Gin and Bitters," written under the pseudonym "A. Riposte" and later acknowledged to be the work of Elinor Mordaunt.

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM.

"Cakes and Ale" was said to contain recognizable portraits of Thomas Hardy and Hugh Walpole, and as both of those gentlemen were rather "done in" by Mr. Maugham's pen, there were loud cries of "Slay the monster!" That Elinor Mordaunt proceeded to do with the same weapons which Mr. Maugham had been accused of using in "Cakes and Ale."

I go into the matter of "Cakes and Ale" not because I have any illusions about the fact that the public's interest in the literary war has lasted this long. Mr. Maugham says in "First Person Singular" that the life of a work of fiction is at best ninety days. It is likewise true that the longest life of any literary scandal is little more.

It was almost a year ago that "Cakes and Ale" was published and six months since "Gin and Bitters" was fermented. By this time the public, if not the persons involved in the affair, has entirely forgotten what all the shootin' was about. One of the persons, at least, hasn't. For Mr. Maugham writes an introduction to "First Person Singular" which is the only published reply he has ever made to the bombardment which greeted "Cakes and Ale."

"It is usual nowadays, owing to the law of libel," he writes, "for an author to preface his book with the declaration that no character in it represents a living person, and I can honestly make the same statement about all the characters in these stories save one. It is because there is an exception that I feel it my duty to write these lines. I am a little sensitive on the point, since I have at one time or another been charged with portraying certain persons so exactly that it was impossible not to know them. . . . I have known authors who declared that none of their characters was ever even remotely suggested by any one they had known and I have unhesitatingly accepted their assertion. But I have ceased to wonder why they never managed to create a character that was not wooden or lifeless. . . . I think indeed that most novelists, and surely the best, have worked from life. But though they have had in mind a particular person this is not to say that they have copied him nor that the character they have devised is to be taken for a portrait. . . . The complete character, the result of elaboration rather than of invention, is art, and life in the raw, as we know, is only its material. It is unjust then for the critics to blame an author because he draws a character in whom they detect a likeness to some one they know and wholly unreasonable of them to expect him never to take one trait or another from living creatures."

The one person pointedly drawn from life is an amusing bigamist, the hero of "The Round Dozen." "Virtue" and "The Human Element" are satiric stories of love. "Jane" is a gay tale of a woman of fifty-two who was everything in looks, manner, and deed that the relict of a rich provincial should be until she married a second time a gentleman twenty-seven years her junior. It has much of Mr. Maugham's pleasantest humor in it, and he can be slyly comic when he wants to be.

"The Alien Corn" is the most pretentious story of the six—the story of a young Englishman, heir to a baronetcy, who goes native, as it were, the native being back to the ways of his Jewish forbears and into a life of passionate intensive study of music until the terrible moment when, at the age of twenty-three, he is convinced that he can never be a great pianist. "The Alien Corn" is the most serious story in the volume.

But the brightest gem of the six-pointed star is the last story in the book, called "The Creative Impulse." It is the same kind of keen, cruel, brilliant picture of the "literary" life that "Cakes and Ale" was. The leading character is a woman who has a worshiping group always about her ready to spout adjectives of praise about her literary genius, who is famous for her luncheons and whose afternoons once caused the first person singular of the story to ask the maid as she took his hat, "Is there Divine Service today?" It is a vastly amusing picture. And the circumstances of the great literary idol's popular success with an internationally known—and as internationally bought—detective story make a priceless yarn. It is the most delightful story in the book and alone worth the price of admission.

Meetings and Lectures

The Friends of American Writers will have a literary tea at the home of Mrs. Robert Malcom on Wednesday afternoon. The three novels of Henry Justin Smith will be reviewed at that meeting.

SOME GOSSIP ABOUT AUTHORS IN BRITAIN; WHAT'S BEING READ

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Besides editing the volume of stories upon the same plot which is to bear his name, John Fothergill, the poet-publican, is to publish this year a volume consisting of his diary. And as many men of letters have frequented the Spread Eagle at Thame, near Oxford, this diary should have not only a distinction of its own but a collection of invaluable personal impressions of writers living and recently dead. It is a book to be anticipated with pleasure.

R. C. Sherriff, the author of "Journey's End," has written a novel for publication before Christmas. It is called "The Fortnight in September." Meanwhile, Mr. Sherriff himself has become an undergraduate [rather late in life] at Oxford university.

A novel which should interest American readers is "Gideon's Lady," by G. Kent Oliver. It is a tale of Virginia in the middle seventeenth century, and is something more than an ordinary historical tale, for the author has taken great pains to get his history right. The book is notable because it gets away from the conventional treatment of the aristocratic element in Virginian society, and concentrates upon the lives of what may be called the working planters of the colony. It is the author's first novel, but by no means his first book; for he has long been well known in England as the author of numerous stories for boys, which he has written under the pseudonym of "Kent Carr." G. Kent Oliver is his real name.

F. J. Harvey Darton, who has just resigned the editorship of the famous children's publication, "Chatterbox," is widely known as the author of an original and fascinating book on "The Marches of Wessex"; but his little volume on Arnold Bennett, though containing some errors, is well worth attention, and a new edition of it, revised, would be extremely welcome in the absence of a complete biography. Meanwhile, Arnold Bennett's Journals, which are continuous from 1897, are to be published next year in three volumes.

Illustrated Book Show Offers Alien and U. S. Masters

Until the end of October there is a fascinating exhibition of illustrated books on view at the Lakeside Press galleries of R. R. Donnelley & Sons, 350 East 22d street.

It is open from nine until five on weekdays. There are representative illustrated books of many countries from the fifteenth century to the present time—wood engraved illustrations before 1500, copper plate engraved books from France, and color plate sporting books from England.

There are beautiful examples of the work of William Blake and his followers. Contemporary illustrations in France and England as well as America are extremely interesting, showing the work of such masters as Odilon Redon, Edy Legrand, Rockwell Kent, Claire Leighton, Rex Whistler, Edward A. Wilson, Eric Gill, John Austen, E. Fitch Daglish, Charles Martin, Guy Arnoux, Drian, Ethel Gabain, Pierre Brissaud, Pissarro, Lepere, Frederic Remington, Joseph Pennell, and of an earlier day, Walter Crane, Felicien Rops, Kate Greenaway, E. W. Kemble, Aubrey Beardsley, Caldecott, Millais, Crulkshank, Tenniel, and Alken.

The books have been gathered from several private collections as well as the Art institute of Chicago.

Comment from China Praising "The Good Earth"

Reviews are beginning to come in from China indicating that "The Good Earth" [Day] is as much appreciated there as in America, England and France. The recurrent note of these Chinese reviews is gratitude to Mrs. Buck for sweeping aside the sentimental, the exotic and the mysterious, which have been the traditional materials of western writing about the orient.

A traveler recently returned from the east says many English speaking Chinese whom she met were eager to talk about "The Good Earth," and asked her to tell her friends when she got back to the United States that "at last there is a book in English that shows the life of our people as it really is."

Starts Series of Novels Portraying American Life

Rollo Walter Brown, author of "Lonely American," and "Dean Briggs," long known as a biographer of distinction, makes his debut as a novelist with the publication of "The Firemakers" [Coward-McCann]. It is the first of a series of three novels in which Mr. Brown proposes to set forth three stages of the evolution of American life, from the provincial working in the mines, on the farms, in the logging camps, to the super-sophisticate of the modern city.

Harvey Taylor Asks Help Telling of Sinclair Lewis

To the Editor of the Chicago Tribune:

Sir: I am now at work on a complete bibliography of the writings of Sinclair Lewis to be published by the Fountain Press. The work is being done under the supervision of Mr. Lewis. It will include data on contributions as early as 1903.

I should appreciate any aid from collectors and students of Lewis writings.

Thus Finding Treasure Pirates Abandoned.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.
[Director of children's work for branches of the Chicago public library.]

"Pirates' Loot," by Carolyn Rodgers [Sears].

"Douglas of Porcupine," by Louise A. Kent [Houghton-Mifflin].

"Orange Winter," by Marjorie Medary [Longmans-Green].

"The Other Side of the Mountain," by May Justus [Doubleday-Doran].

A PIRATE secret of two hundred years ago revealed word by word by a modern radio which picks up the voices of the past—such is the novel theme of Carolyn Rodgers' "Pirates' Loot," a story of a summer's adventure which came to a group of young people, an inventor and an old sea captain.

Capt. Welkie had told the boys and girls the famous pirate story of the island and about the dreaded Billy Gore and his mates who had infested it two hundred years before, and Capt. Welkie had taken them to the mysterious cave where rumor said the golden treasure was hidden. They decided to hunt for it, but several trips yielded them no reward until one day Mr. Saffron, father of Sally and Bob, went along and took with him the radio which he had just invented—a radio which was supposed to pick up voices of the past.

Suddenly the radio began to work, and out into the silence of the cave came the voices of Billy Gore and his men quarreling over the gold, while the sound of guns explained their hurry to hide the loot before the British frigate nearby sighted them. Of course, it wasn't hard to find the treasure after that. It's a good story both for the mystery lover and embryo scientist who may cherish ideas of his own about the possibilities of radio.

Another adventure tale is Louise A. Kent's "Douglas of Porcupine." This is a story of the family of Com. Jim Douglas, who decide to stay on at their summer home on Porcupine island when they find that their father will be held in the Labrador all winter. It tells of good times, including the finding of a buried treasure and the discovery of a long lost cousin. An interesting tale, well told, and not too improbable in conception.

A story which girls particularly will enjoy is Marjorie Medary's "Orange Winter," with its setting in Florida in the '80's. The heroine is a young Iowa girl who spends the year pioneering with her uncle and aunt, and who, in the absence of sufficient help, does a man's work in helping her uncle get his orange groves started, incidentally earning a college education for herself. Coincidence is a little over done, perhaps, in the story of Jack, the young waif who turns out to be a member of the family, but the mystery involved will add to the interest for young readers.

The value of the book lies in its pictures of early Florida life with its description of the "crackers" living under most primitive conditions and of the development of the orange industry in this section.

For the younger children, there is again a delightful story by May Justus. "The Other Side of the Mountain" is another story of the Great Smoky mountains and the jolly little red haired Glory who gives up her own "piece" and her cherished new shoes to a little friend for "speaking-day."

Prints D. H. Lawrence's Book on "Revelation"

A book by D. H. Lawrence, entitled "Apocalypse," will shortly be published here by Alfred A. Knopf. It is an essay on the Book of Revelation, a subject which both repelled and fascinated Lawrence, for he hated what he considered its "religion of the self-glorification of the weak," but was moved by its majestic images. In the course of the book he discusses religious philosophy and history and analyzes vividly the symbols and allegory that permeate the Book of Revelation. There is a chapter full of poetry and curious information about dragons and another that dramatically traces the origin of the famous four horsemen.

The Marriage Racket
By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Gobin arrives in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement, with her dancing partner, Don Philippe de Rodriques, and their pianist, Tom Libby. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Irma and Tom inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham. Bill and Wallace renew acquaintance on the pretty dancer.

INSTALLMENT VI.
TWO PROPOSALS.

Bill was taking Irma to dinner. She told him about Philippe's pique because she thought it would amuse him.

It didn't. He looked at her gravely and said:

"Don't you see it's bad for you to get in the habit of taking lacings from people? It makes you grateful to people who don't kick you around. That's no way to get."

Irma was silent. He was right. Her contacts had left her unprepared to accept decent behavior as her natural due.

"Listen, girlie," Bill went on, "there's plenty of people who would just love being nice to you."

"Oh."

"Yah, I know. "I have a suspicion that you mean me no well, fellow."

Bill shrugged. "If you're after a little white cottage where you and I'd settle with each other and a gold band that wouldn't mean anything to either of us if we're inclined to polygamy then you're right, sister. I'm talking of something else entirely."

The waiter came and deftly rearranged the placement of the silverware. Irma wondered if waiters were instructed to barge up to a table when the help began to look distressed. She hoped she was looking distressed. Terrible to hear this sort of thing and not be shocked.

The waiter disappeared into the shadows again. Bill looked at her and he smiled at him.

"I'm not asking you to marry me," she said. "I wouldn't have you. Let's talk about something else."

"Let's talk about a little apartment in the Reese road section. It's nice out there. You could pick out the place, baby. There'd be just you and a maid and Bill dropping in now and then."

"Why, you startle me, Mr. Fitzroy. You're offering to keep me. You poor, old darling. Nobody does that any more, do they? I thought the last town just took 'em and shook 'em nowadays."

"I've done that, too, but I like you, Irma."

"There's plenty of people who would just love being nice to you."

"You've only known me a little while."

"I do everything by impulse."

"I don't."

She tapped the switch on the little table lamp. Turned it off and on quickly. She was more confused and excited than she would have liked him to know. Nothing like this had happened to her before.

"What do you say, Irma?"

"O, don't be silly. I say no."

"I'm not asking you to stay in Thrace without thinking it over. I want you. I'm going to fight your arguments down if I can. And what's more I'll show you want them fought down."

"I don't, Bill."

"Yes do. Life hasn't given you one damn thing so far. Here's your chance to have it easy. I'll be good to you——"

"Well. What about when you're sick of me?"

"All right. Will you be worse off than you are? I'm not going to promise undying devotion. I'm not rolling in money, either. I can't make a million dollar settlement on you. I'll put five hundred in the bank for you. Enough to pay your fare to New York and a living for a few weeks till you get a job. That's your bond that you won't be stranded in Thrace in case I'm a rotter sooner than I seem. What's more I'll make my insurance over to you in case death doth us part."

She shook her head. "This business of going against everybody's direction may be all right for older, wiser women, Bill, but I have to follow the signs. The signs are put up to help people like me. If you don't know the code, Bill, it's wisest to follow the signs."

"How old are you, kid?"

"Nineteen."

"You've got a lot of sense." He paused for a moment. "I guess that's why I don't feel like a big bum making you this proposition. If you were dumb I'd be trusting I'd feel like turning myself in at the nearest police station."

"Well, let's call it a day."

"Think it over anyhow, kid. In the meantime I won't be a pest."

Irma couldn't help thinking it over. It was impossible to forget Bill's fantastic proposition. Utterly shocking or perfectly fair, depending on what sort of person you were. Irma teetered somewhere between the two opinions. She knew she should be shocked and tried very hard to be. But it simply wouldn't come off.

Wallace had invited her to Thursday evening dinner at his home. Irma had stage fright contemplating her debut at a family table. Was her landscape all right? Could it be that her whole habit of talking would prove unpalatable for the ears of little Mildred and Aunt Tessie?

Her hands were cold and she was inwardly quaking as she walked up the steps with Wallace. He rang the bell.

The door was opened by a very thin woman with her hair screwed into a tight knot on top of her head. Was this Aunt Tessie?

No, it was the maid. Irma breathed again and passed through a dark hall foyer into the living room.

It was so long since Irma had been in any one's home that the Graham's living room seemed beautiful and luxurious to her. The white woodwork, the fireplace with its standard iron implements, the large wing chair by the radio, the two or three etchings, a few magazines laid carelessly about to create an air of easy disorder, the coffee table in front of the divan, the assortment of lamps—just another American living room, but how was Irma to know that?

Aunt Tessie came downstairs. She was bright eyed and soft voiced and was painfully thin like the maid, but her hair fell in loose waves and she was pleasant enough to the eye.

"Take off your things, dear. Is it chilly out? Wallace, push that buffet around so that Miss Corbin can rest her feet."

Irma spent the next few minutes saying, "Thank you, Miss Graham." Aunt Tessie put an ash tray beside her, then settled herself on the lounge ready to jump up immediately to close the window.

Mildred Graham was a surprise to Irma. Perhaps she had forgotten that Anne was well on the road to womanhood. Irma congratulated herself on having brought Mildred backstage. Still there was something in that earnest nose and strong, young chin that might have frightened even Phil. She did not look like a girl who could be had for a promise.

Irma looked at Wallace's daughter and thought of gold. Perhaps because her hair was brightly golden and flat and smooth as metal. So that was how Anne Graham had looked. Irma's vivid imagination saw her for a moment standing between Mildred and Wallace.

Irma crossed her knees and pulled her shabby little skirt tightly about them. She felt messy and out of place in this room with the golden child who had inherited Anne Graham's patrician features and was wearing an expensive frock to boot.

Mildred and Irma shook hands. Mildred said, "You win, daddy," and smiled pleasantly.

"Sure I win. I know a pretty girl when I see one. Didn't I pick you as a daughter?"

When there was a chance Irma told Wallace that she thought Mildred beautiful and charming.

She told him again Friday night when she and Wallace sat alone in the office of the Bartrum house.

"Sir," Wallace conceded. "Mildred is pretty. I feel frightened when I look at her and think of facing the years between now and Mildred's marriage. She could use a big sister."

She turned to look at him. His eyes were fixed upon her pleadingly.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

"O, I'm crazy and conceited, I guess. I'm thirty-nine and you're nineteen, but I'm wild about you, Irma. I couldn't sleep last night remembering how sweet it was to have you at our table. I thought and thought of how you looked in that big chair. I love you. I love your funny little short curls and the way you move your hands. I love the brave way you look at me and ask no quarter. Because you are such a person I know you won't laugh even if I am ridiculous. Irma would you consider marrying me?"

"Why, Wallace——"

Good Morning!

[Only the name was Ryan instead of O'Grady.]

Little Miss Ryan's adventures among the rich are mildly interesting. Fed up with a home life of bickering and pinching to make ends meet, she becomes personal maid to a wealthy woman, and, in due time, finds herself much involved in the domestic affairs of the various members of the Gary family.

The Gary daughter adores breaking things, when tight, so the family chauffeur always has at hand articles from the ten cent store which he gravely hands her and which she joyously crashes while Miss Ryan and driver stand by. Then, there's Mrs. Gary, addicted to highballs and extremely fond of her son, who gets expelled from Yale and is given into Miss Ryan's keeping that his Grandfather Gary, who lives on the top floor of the Gary mansion and is really THE Gary, so far as money and importance go, may not know of Dick's disgrace. Mr. Gary? Just that. Mr. Gary.

You will have suspected ere now that romance crops up between Miss Ryan and the Gary scion. Keep right on suspecting.

I imagine that "Personal Maid" was intended to be an amiable satire. The first reels are rather snappy and amusing. After that the action becomes somewhat sappy and confusing. The picture has, however, the assembled blessings of Nancy Carroll's charm, some fine photography, and really funny work by Mary Boland, who plays a lady always slightly in her cups, with finesse and humor. George Fawcett as Grandfather Gary is as usual, which is good enough for anybody. Pat O'Brien adorns a rôle that offers him little.

See you tomorrow.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY DEDICATES STATUE OF CYRUS H. M'CORMICK

Lexington, Va., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Tribute was paid to Cyrus Hall McCormick in exercises here today commemorating the centennial anniversary of his invention of the reaper.

The program was opened on the Washington and Lee university campus, with the unveiling of a statue of McCormick, a benefactor and trustee of that university while Robert E. Lee was president.

After a luncheon for distinguished guests the program moved to Mount Carmel church, near here. There McCormick was a charter member. The exercises were closed with the presentation of a pageant at Walnut Grove farm portraying the evolution of the reaper.

Dr. John Finley of New York, in an address at the dedication of the statue, called McCormick "the liberator of the farmer." At the luncheon John Temple Graves, Birmingham journalist, said a "spirit of romance" was the secret of McCormick's greatness.

In the Mount Carmel exercises President Benjamin Lacy of the Richmond Theological seminary said McCormick was a man of two visions, one being "mankind toiling in a field", and the other was the "harvest of souls."

President Francis Pendleton Gaines of Washington and Lee university presided over the exercises.

Among the invited guests were Gov. Pollard, members of the McCormick family, and others.

The statue was accepted for Washington and Lee by George C. Peery of Tazewell, instead of by John W. Davis, who was called to New York from here last night.

Public Is Asked to Aid Cripples to Fight Winter

Plight Described in the Plea for Goods.

A plea for club and church women in Chicago to conserve discarded articles "for the purpose of reclaiming the discarded" was made yesterday by Walter C. League, superintendent of the Goodwill Industries, 1020 West Monroe street.

He talked at a meeting in the Spaulding School for Crippled Children held to consider the winter program of the Goodwill Industries to care for 5,000 needy crippled men, women, and children.

"The plight of deserving crippled persons is critical as winter draws near," said Mr. League. "We cannot expect able-bodied men when their families are hungry to step aside in order to allow those who are physically handicapped to get jobs. Nor can we expect employers when their business is in jeopardy to give handicapped applicants preference over those more efficient.

"Goodwill Industries is able to give a large number of these persons a chance to earn a living in its workshops by renovating discarded material such as clothing, furniture, and household articles collected from home, offices, and factories. Through a process of sorting, cleaning and repairing they restore the material to usefulness and the sale of these articles provides an income for paying wages to the handicapped workers."

Miss Jane A. Neil, director of school work for crippled children, addressed the meeting emphasizing how the Goodwill Industries is helping solve the problem of making handicapped children self-supporting after their graduation. A tour of the school, where 1,000 crippled children receive special education, was made preceding the meeting.

School Children Celebrate Indian Day; Sing, Dance

American Indian day was celebrated yesterday in all Chicago public schools and at a special program by the representatives of many tribes in Fullerton hall at the Art institute. A large crowd was attracted to the Art institute. The program included native songs and dances in costume and an address by Lee F. Harkins, Choctaw, editor of the American Indian, Tulsa, Okla.

Charity Tag Day for Children Will Be Monday, Oct. 5

Chicago's original tag day, sponsored by the Chicago Children's Benefit league, which supplies funds for 50 children's charities in the city, will be held Monday, Oct. 5.

A story in yesterday's TRIBUNE incorrectly stated that the tag day would be held Oct. 6.

All taggers for the day are volunteers. They will work throughout the city, and hope to exceed last year's tag day collection of $96,922.02, bringing the collection up to $100,000.

Mrs. Thomas G. English, president of the league, pointed out that to care for the increased numbers of children who are in want the public must give generously. Day nurseries often provide the only food a child gets during the day. They cannot be further handicapped by low funds without seriously impairing their service to the needy, she pointed out.

Among the charities which will benefit from the tag day are day nurseries, orphan asylums, social center nurseries, foundlings' homes, kindergartens, children's wards of hospitals, schools for the deaf, a school for colored girls, sanitariums, crippled children's associations, children's homes and seminaries.

In homes where unemployment has made itself felt children will suffer sorely if institutions which serve them are not given adequate funds, Mrs. English said. In the 22 years during which the Chicago Children's Benefit league has functioned for the improvement of the lot of city children, never has there been such a situation as must be faced this year, she explained. The situation must be met bravely and generously, she urged.

CURVES FOR WOMEN HAILED AS BOON TO THE WHEAT FARMERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—In the incoming ampler silhouette decreed to go with the Empress Eugenie hats, the bureau of home economics sees hope for the wheat surplus.

"Economists have agreed that one of the outstanding reasons in the decrease of cereal consumption was the modish slender figure," said Dr. Florance B. King of the home economics staff. "When a woman started reducing, her first move was to cut down on cereals. Many have been far too thin. In colleges especially, infirmaries found that young girls were almost starving themselves to achieve that straight line effect.

"Of course, this autumn's drastic change in contour will have just the opposite result."

Wheat, Dr. King said, would be especially in demand, being an excellent source of vitamin B, which stimulates the appetite and promotes good digestion and assimilation of food.

GETTIN' OUR MONEY'S WORTH

CONTROL OF CEREAL AND HUMAN CROPS DISCUSSED IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A suggestion that farm crops be produced on contract, much like shoes of shaving soap is manufactured on dealers' orders, was made at the centenary meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science today.

It was made by Sir E. John Russell, D. Sc., F. R. S., whose paper on "The Changing Outlook in Agriculture" sought to answer the British farmer's question of supplying food requirements to the country without piling up surpluses which injure the grower without benefiting the consumer.

Prediction that birth control would end the increase of population in England and Wales "at a very early date" was made by Edwin Cannon, president of the section of economic science and statistics.

"Even the lay public," he said, "has been enlightened and rather shocked by the recent census announcements that the population of Scotland has actually decreased in the ten years.

"The same change is observable in some degree in other western European countries and our own overseas offshots. The cause of it—birth control—will doubtless in time affect the rest of the world, so while we may expect considerable increase—even an increase much more rapid than at present owing to the decrease of huge infant mortality—to take place among the more backward peoples for another half century at least, there is no reason whatever for expecting the population of the world to 'tread close on the heels of subsistence' in the future, even if it may be correctly regarded as having done so in the past."

A stationary or declining population would not remedy unemployment, Dr. Cannon said. "Unemployment," he said, "is not really a modern phenomenon. The crowds of beggars who collected their daily dole in the middle ages from the monasteries, private wayfarers and householders were perhaps as large a proportion of the population as the normal registered unemployed of today."

32 Operas on List for Chicagoans; Patrons Help in Selection

The Chicago Civic Opera company yesterday announced a repertoire of 32 operas for its 1931-'32 season, opening Nov. 2.

The management was guided, in large measure, by responses to a questionnaire sent out last spring to subscribers.

More than half of the season's performances will be devoted to operas sung in Italian. There will be one production in English.

Comedy has been stressed in the selections, particularly in the German repertoire. Of the ten works to be sung in German and the one English offering, "Hansel and Gretel," a translation of a German opera, five are comedies and one is a modern German melodrama, leaving only five Wagnerian numbers on the list.

Many of the new season's offerings have been absent from the repertoire for one or more sasons. Among these are: "Boris Godunoff," "The Elixir of Love," "La Gioconda," "The Jewess," "Lucia di Lammemoor," "Martha."

The rôle of Rosina in "The Barber of Seville" will be sung in the original key for the first time in many years in Chicago because Mme. Conchita Supervia, guest artist, who has been cast in the leading rôle, has a coloratura mezzo-soprano voice, the type of voice for which the opera was written.

Rosetta Pampanini will make her debut in "Madame Butterfly."

Job Insurance Wins Approval Among Bishops

Episcopal Group Adopts Report on Slump.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Men are justified in believing that the community owes them—not a living, but a chance, through work, to live with self-respect. This declaration is the foundation of the unemployment section of the report of the committee of twenty-one appointed by the general convention of the Episcopal church to study national and world problems. The report was delivered to the house of bishops late this afternoon and adopted unanimously.

Pronouncements on unemployment and world peace made by the committee were far more direct than on the causes and cure of lawlessness. It had been expected that the report would be colored by Bishop Charles Fisk's anti-prohibition views. Bishop Fisk is the head of the diocese of central New York. He offered a strong anti-prohibition resolution early in the convention. That was referred to the committee.

The section of the report in dealing with crime first condemns those citizens who make bootlegging profitable, and asserts that "racketeering in all its forms would cease if citizens had the courage to refuse to purchase special privileges."

On the other hand, the report admits that much of the lawlessness "arises now, as in the past," in connection with the control of the liquor traffic, but that there is a great and honest difference of opinion in the nation on the dry law, in this church, and in the convention.

"Law, to be effectively enforced," the report states, "must be based on reasoned convictions of a reasonable majority of the citizens. Upon advocates for modification or repeal rests very clearly a two-fold responsibility, namely, first, to sustain the law as long as it remains the law of the land, and second, in advocating its repeal to present some adequate substitute which will enlist the confidence and support of the people."

The report denies that the Episcopal church has a right "to pass on questions of method" in solving the present prohibition impasse, but that the loyalty of Christian people should be directed to principles. The choice of method, says the report, "involved in issues which in their nature are highly controversial and closely related to partisan politics, does not fall to the church as its responsibility, rather, the church may 'urge a serious effort to provide for an intelligent discussion of the questions involved and an attempt to discover the sober, informed and deliberate opinion of the nation'."

As the report attacked the economic situation it pointed out that economists "are agreed that whatever other causes are responsible for the depression, the high productivity of modern machines demands a more equitable distribution of income."

Reference was made to the recent decision of the Supreme court, which, the report states, declared that the right of regular employment is co-equal with the right of regularity in the payment of rent, interest on bonds and in the delivery to customers of the high quality of products contracted for.

"No dividend should be paid," the report quotes from that decision, "unless each of these fixed charges has been met."

The report then demands an extension of unemployment insurance, which it claims now reaches less than 1 per cent of the workers of the country. This, it is argued, creates a special privileged group. If necessary, "as was the cause of compensation insurance for injuries, we advocate the method of legal compulsion" to extend unemployment insurance. Special reference was made to workers in smaller industries and in seasonal labor, who are without protection of labor unions or inherent industrial stability.

The Right Rev. James De Wolf Perry, bishop of Rhode Island, was re-elected today as presiding bishop of the Episcopal church, by action of the house of bishops and ratification of the house of deputies.

They Pray for Good Times.

Johnston City, Ill., Sept. 25.—An all night prayer meeting was started here at 11:30 p. m. in the hope of alleviating the present depression. It was announced that prayers would be given for relief of the political and social unrest all over the world and for the unemployed of the United States.

The meeting, which was scheduled to last until 6 a. m., was held in the Washington Avenue Baptist church.

Babies Cannot Keep Promises, Mrs. Bevans Tells This Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A comparatively large number of letters have the same complaint as this one:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have always read your articles on children but don't find the information I want. I have a son just 21 months old, the sweetest baby, but he absolutely won't do a thing he is told. We live near a street that has cars going by all day long and he insists on going on it no matter how many times he is scolded and brought back.

"Lately he climbs on chairs, then on to the table, and when you take him to a store won't stay with you, but wants to run up and down the aisles and screams if you hold him in your arms. I have tried to get him to obey in things he will get hurt on but I must have the wrong method for am not getting anywhere. Would like any pamphlets you have on young children, as this is my first. I get advice on baby's health from my doctor but have no knowledge of training at all. I don't want to expect too much of a baby, yet I know you can't let them just grow up till they are 7 then try to teach them habits and manners."

One mother who had a little girl a few months older than this child complained that she would talk to her, the little girl would promise, and then she would break her promise. She seemed horrified that she would repeatedly run across the street to play with a little friend. Well, of course, all this is simply expecting too much of a child who is almost a baby. There are many ways in which a 2 year old can be taught to obey but he can't be turned loose on the street and remember all the rules and regulations laid down for him.

It is important for mothers to know just what to expect of their children when they're little. For one thing, they must climb and if they have nothing else to climb on they must use the furniture. In the nursery schools they have all sorts of simple apparatus to meet this need of a child's to climb, to balance. Of course, a little boy less than 2 years of age will want to run down the long aisles of a big store. Shopping is hard on an active child and running is a joy to him.

Mothers of children this age should not expect their small children to play in the street and remember all the things they mustn't do. They should find a nearby park and go there for several hours every day where their children can safely run and romp and ride kiddie cars without the constant restriction of traffic dangers. Many thousands of city mothers make their children's outings their regular and most important business.

Children this age need things to do constantly. They need the right playthings. It is only satisfying activity that will develop them. It is only the right kind of guidance that will make them abedient. The help needed cannot be given in this space but some brief reading on management and play might be helpful. Our Short Child Management References," "Booklet on Play," or "Toy and Plaything" booklet will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelop.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

"Proof of the Salad."

A friend of mine invited me to a picnic and I accepted with pleasure. She told me not to bother about bringing anything to eat as she and another girl had already prepared enough for the crowd.

As usual, there was enough food for twice as many people as in the party, although we all did ourselves justice eating it. My friend and I were elected to clean up the table. While clearing things away, Jane asked me if I had enjoyed it.

"I surely did—everything was so good," I assured her, and then leaned over and whispered cautiously in her ear, "But that salad was fierce. It had so many onions. What was she thinking of when she made that?"

Jane looked at me and briefly replied, "I made the salad." D. D.

Miss Thompson Weds Today in Country Church

BY THALIA

Miss LAURA THOMPSON, daughter of Mrs. Leverett Thompson, and Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, who are to be married today, will have a picturesque and quaintly anachronistic little wedding. It is to be solemnized at noon in the old country church on the Barrington-Dundee turnpike, which was the "meetin' house for pioneers 80 or 90 years ago.

There will be just about sixty guests present at the ceremony, and afterward they will all motor to Mrs. Thompson's Lake Forest residence for a wedding breakfast. Miss Thompson will wear the proverbial white, nor is she to have a veil and train. She will be unattended, and there will be no ushers nor best man. The bride's uncle, Ralph Poole, is to escort her down the aisle.

Dr. Magnuson, now on leave from his duties as professor of surgery at Northwestern university, is taking his bride to Europe for the winter. They've taken a house in England for the hunting.

Miss Thompson's uncle, Abram Poole, is here for the wedding, as are Dr. Magnuson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Magnuson of St. Paul, and the bride's cousin, Miss Frances McFadden. Her aunt, Mrs. Parmalee McFadden, and her other cousin, Miss Marion McFadden, are still in Europe.

The marriage of Miss Clariss Lewis Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer of St. Louis, Mo., to Noel Leslie Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Flint of Chicago, took place at St. Mary's church at Staten Island on Wednesday. The bride and groom were unattended and the wedding was followed by a small reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. Magruder Passano, the bride's brother-in-law and sister. After Nov. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Flint are to reside at 1309 Astor street. The former Miss Dyer is a member of an old and important St. Louis family. She was connected with the print department of the Art institute last winter.

Mrs. Forsythe Sherfessee and her daughter, Mrs. George Hyde Clarke, will make a one day stopover in Chicago on Oct. 7, spending the night with Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson in Lake Forest, en route to Seattle. They are to visit friends there, and later will go to Tucson, Ariz. Mrs. Sherfessee is then returning to Cooperstown, N. Y., for a few weeks before she and Mr. Sherfessee go to Washington, D. C. They are to have a house there for several months this winter.

Latest news—Mrs. Marshall Blair and her son, Chauncey Blair, have been visiting Mrs. Joseph B. Long at Schloss am See at Bayville, Long Island, this week. Mrs. Long is returning to Chicago in about ten days. . . . Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and her daughters, Eleanor and Barbara, have arrived from Boston and are in their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Hinckley plan to commute back and forth between Boston and here this winter. . . . Charles F. Glore is in New York City to meet Mrs. Glore, landing from Europe. . . . The Kenneth Smiths had a large and scrumptious (there were entertainers from New York) party Thursday night as a sort of housewarming on their new yacht, the Kenkora, that rides at anchor in the harbor in front of the Lake Shore Athletic club. As the boat remained in the harbor the storm didn't bother the party. . . . Mrs. William D. McIlvaine has returned to her apartment at 1100 Lake Shore drive after a summer at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest.

Mr. Edgar J. Uihlein is to give a debut tea for his daughter, Miss Paula Uihlein, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 7, at his apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive. Mr. Uihlein and Miss Paula are moving in from Lake Forest in a few days.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Philip S. Cancellor left today for Bar Harbor, where the marriage of her son, Oakleigh Thorne Lewis, and Miss Bertha Palmer is to take place next Monday.

Mrs. Parker Corning gave a luncheon yesterday for her daughter, Miss Mary P. Corning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Robinson of New York and Westbury announce that the engagement of their daughter, Miscecilia Randolph Robinson, to William Durant Campbell of New York has been broken by mutual consent.

Mrs. Charles Wilmot Tracy returned from Manchester, Vt.

Mrs. Arthur Van R. Thompson, who returned recently from Italy, entertained at luncheon yesterday for Mrs. C. Douglass Green.

Social Science Includes Man and Caterpillars

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Many things, from the study of the stupid social behavior of the pine caterpillars ["pine processionaries"] and the culture of the Benaro tribe in New Guinea to the philosophy of Kant and Einstein, contribute to the diorama of the social sciences as presented to the students in the new general course at the University of Chicago.

"Institutions and laws are produced out of the mores [customs]" might be taken as the key to the syllabus and the selected readings which are made a part of the book. The way is pointed and the students are left to explore, organize, create, and think. It leads out of unwritten history to the social problems of today.

Just what is the duty of social scientists is discussed by J. J. Springler, in an article in the syllabus, which concludes as follows:

"It is as undesirable for social scientists to refrain from passing moral judgments upon their findings as it would be for critics and reviewers to turn their task over to Kiwanis. This is not to suggest that a social scientist should be a propagandist after the manner of Dr. Clarence True Wilson. It is rather to assert that social scientists must advocate changes based upon their reasoned conclusions, in a manner foreign to a physicist, for example. Otherwise, suggestions as to change will issue only from such sources as the American Legion, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the A. F. of L., and Rotary.

"Social scientists occupy, relative to the social body, a position analogous to that occupied by physicians relative to the human body. If a criminologist is not more informed concerning crime than any one else is, who is? Certainly not a legislator. If economists have not forgotten more concerning economics than any congressman [barring, perhaps, a few] has ever known or will ever know, evidence to the contrary has never been presented.

"If a sociologist does not know more of the effects of prohibition than the myopic Methodist dons of Westerville, the pages of the American Issue do not so testify. If an honest historian does not know more of the trend of history than the palsied committee which select textbooks, surely school superintendents do not. . . . No amount of pretended exactitude or assumed impersonalism can transform social science into physical science."

Critical power is awakened among the students. While President Hoover's little book on "Individualism" is part of the required reading it is not to be swallowed whole, for the syllabus contains a caustic criticism of this by M. R. Cohen, who claims that Mr. Hoover knows little or nothing of the social philosophy which he attacks.

Here is a little teaching by William Graham Sumner:

"If there are any ethical propositions which may be accepted as reasonably established, the following are among the number: to every one his own; that responsibility should be equal to liberty; that rights and duties are correlative; and that those should reap the consequences who have set in action the causes. The socialistic and semi-socialistic propositions which are before the public are immoral in that they all sin against these ethical principles."

Ruth Benedict contributes this:

"It follows that man's established folkways are also his morals. Judgments of right and wrong and of the glory of God grow up within the field of group behavior and attach themselves to those traits that have become automatic in the group. Interference with automatic behavior is always unpleasant, and it is rationalized as evil. No people have any truly empirical ethics; they uphold what they find themselves practicing. Even our own literature of ethics is far from being a detached survey of different possible solutions; it is a system of apologetics for the well known schemes of our own culture."

And these thoughts from Walter Bagehot:

"If we wanted to describe one of the most marked results, perhaps the most marked results of late thought, we should say that by it everything is made 'an antiquity.' Man himself has, to the eye of science, become 'an antiquity.' Science tries to read, is beginning to read, knows she ought to read, in the frame of each man the result of a whole history of all his life, of what he is and what makes him so—of all his forefathers, of what they were and what made them so."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover deferred her departure for the Rapidan camp until tomorrow morning. Then she will leave with some of the women guests of the presidential week-end house party. The President will follow shortly after noon tomorrow. Their guests will include Senator and Mrs. Bingham of Connecticut, the governor of Michigan and Mrs. Brucker, the managing editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, and Mrs. F. F. Shedd, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wolff of Columbus, O.

The Italian ambassador left Washington this morning to sail for his home where Señora di Martino has been all summer.

The former American minister to Egypt and Mrs. Hampson Gary will spend the winter in New York at No. 1 Lexington avenue, where they have taken an apartment. Their home here will be occupied by the director of the division of protocol in the state department and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, recently returned from San Salvador. There Mr. Robbins was American minister. They will present their daughter, Helen, to society this season.

TO SHOW TRAVEL MOVIES

MISS ELIZABETH CHASE AND SULTAN'S SON.

This snapshot of Miss Elizabeth Chase and the son of a Malay sultan at the Singapore Country club, taken on the oriental trip she and Miss Alicia Patterson made last winter, largely by airplane, piloted by Miss Patterson. The sultan's son gave several parties for the two Americans.

Kenneth M. Bradley Again President of Bush Conservatory

Kenneth M. Bradley, former president of the Bush conservatory, 839 North Dearborn street, who has been absent from Chicago for six years, has returned and again has been named head of that school. Edgar A. Nelson, who has served as musical director and president of the school since 1925, will retain the former position.

Mr. Bradley spent one year as educational director of the Juilliard Musical Foundation of New York and the remainder of the time in Los Angeles, Cal.

He came to Chicago from Fort Worth, Tex., 29 years ago and was made president of the Bush conservatory which was established by William L. Bush in 1902. His appointment came through the suggestion of Theodore Thomas and Fannie Bloomfield Ziesler.

Mr. Bradley was the founder of the National Association of Music Schools.

Story of Pictures

Elizabeth Chase definitely has set next Friday evening as the date for the showing of the movies she and Alicia Patterson took on their world travels last winter. The performance is to be at the Wayne Chatfield-Taylor residence, the admission is $5 a ticket, the program is to begin at 9 o'clock, and the proceeds are to go to charity.

There is no title to the movies, although Miss Chase has carefully arranged their continuity and supplied subtitles. When a pre-view was held a few weeks ago after a dinner party Mrs. J. M. Patterson gave at the Pattersons' country place at Libertyville, the audience, which included some seasoned photographer-author-travelers, was gratifyingly enthusiastic about the pictures. Miss Patterson is to fly here from New York on Thursday to be present at the showing.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

The simplicity of this design makes it an ideal dress for all day wear. It it wonderfully smart and should be becoming to many women. The long waisted bodice is belted at a point most becoming to the wearer, and the simulated hip yoke is prettily shaped. A printed black and white silk crêpe, with white silk crêpe for the contrasting color, made the original model.

The pattern, 3372, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Slender Foot More Attractive Than One That Overflows Shoe

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Coming down on the subway the other day, a woman sat near me with feet encased in a pair of those smart English walking shoes that you've maybe noted about. The kind that lace up and end in a tassel-finished winding around the leg. She wasn't a heavy person by any stretch of imagination, but between each lacing flesh puffed up and out and over each lap in the shoe string. It gave a curious picture of what should have been a smart looking foot.

I've noticed, as you have no doubt, too, how on plump girls and women the fat will roll over the shoe straps and sides and you wonder just why there isn't more leeway given it to wander nearer home. It may not be the shoes' fault. It may not be the laces thread too tightly, or the strap buttoned too soon. That abnormally puffy foot and ankle may need to be taken to a doctor to have him suggest something for a strongly acid condition of the body.

Too, in hot weather some feet just "blow up" that way. Folk who've made the trip to the West Indies or any of the tropical points report with the sudden oncoming of suffocating weather a strong tendency for feet that never puffed before to present a badly distorted footline.

But often, too, where the heel is stilt-spiked, as many heels this year have been, the foot is crowded forward toward the toe tip and pushed right back again, giving rise to a swollen instep and ankle.

Foot beauty isn't measured any more by a size 2, 3, or 4 look. It's the slender line of foot that gets the prize. The foot that looks as if it had more than breathing room in its shoe is what pleases. Nothing looks more out of the picture than crowded shoes with bulging instep and thickened ankle worn with a streamline costume line. It just doesn't belong. Two sizes larger in a shoe so that the instep could slip down gracefully and the ankle be released from its forced inflation would be infinitely more attractive.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

I. H.: THE WHITE OF AN EGG applied to the skin on the face and allowed to dry on is a facial mask of astringent value. Some people put a second coating on top of the first. You can feel a tightening of the sagging skin.

M. N.: PARTICULAR CARE should be taken against sunburning a dry skin. Before exposing yourself to the sun's rays you should massage the face with a good cold cream, then dust on powder.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Washing Machines Would Help.

"My husband has been out of work for over a year and since we have two girls to support, I am almost desperate. I would try to get some washing to do, if I had an electric washing machine. Do you think some reader would have an old one to give? I would appreciate getting some clothes for the children, too. They are 7 and 3 years old."

"MRS. M. M".

The washing machine you have been planning to replace probably would mean a source of income for this family. May not Mrs. M. M. have it?

Paris Likes Two Colors for Fur Trimmed Suits

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The first frosty days of autumn are bringing out many fur trimmed suits along the Champs Elysées in Paris. Lots of these suits keep the two color scheme of last summer, with a jacket in one shade and a suit of another. Naturally, the colors are different. Black and white has disappeared, and black with beige or with sand has replaced it for fall. Usually the jacket is light and the skirt black, but this is sometimes reversed.

Tight fitted cutaway jackets in beige or sand color with black or silver fox all around the edges look chic indeed with black cloth skirts that are straight in line. Another type of light jacket suit, shown in our sketch, is newer and more individual. The jacket of this suit is made of sand colored rough woolen, and is fitted tightly to the waistline, below which is an unflared peplum of the beige wool banded with silver fox. At the back, hung from the waistline, is a longish flared panel, with a silver fox band at the bottom.

The jacket buttons over three silver buttons at the center front, below the big silver fox shawl collar. The sleeves of this jacket are straight, and silver fox bands are placed at the wrists on the inside and mounted up to the elbows in a point on the outside.

The black skirt worn with this jacket is a straight skirt, slightly flared in front, and is made of black rough wool exactly like that of the jacket. Model from Dupouy-Magnin.

Daughter Wins Her Mother's Praise for Helpfulness

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In contrast to the daughters who complain of home injustices at mothers' hands, a friend showed me a letter sent her by her mother during the young woman's vacation. The letter was a touching tribute to the girl's devotion, her physical and financial aid, and the regret that mother was not able to do more in return.

"And I do so little for her, really," the girl said. [Which is what one generally says where appreciation is expressed.] "I never wash the dishes, but she thanks me. Or clean, or do anything around the house. I never give my money to her, but she says something awfully sweet and dear about it. Year in and year out, she never fails."

Constantly I have reports of the opposite type of parent, the mother who expects her girl or girls to do the household work after their business day or week is done. Mothers who demand an unfair share of their daughters' incomes. And mothers who never say a thank you to their girls year in and year out. Mothers, in fact, whose voice and facial expression bear a continued resentment that more is not done for them. It's pretty tragic when you think what a word of appreciation does for the soul, and what it does to cement affection.

Very often, it's true, the shoe is on the other foot. Mother is the one of whom the sacrifices are asked and hers is the lot to yearn for one kind word in return. There are boys and girls of earning age, steeped in the modern lore of owing their parents nothing, who would be ostracized from any social group for similar ill mannered reception of favors. Thanking mother and dad for kindness isn't in their language.

Why can't there be more observance of the social graces among family members? The pleases and the thank yous smooth the way in outside contacts. In fact, manners were invented for just that purpose. If needed for outside contacts, how much more is the need in the intimate confines of family life!

Food Talk.

Is this a busy morning for you? I hope not too busy, at least not too busy to linger over your coffee and toast. If you wish, clip the recipes and have the children paste them on cards while you do your marketing, or whatever else you have on the morning schedule.

Thinking in terms of clipped recipes, how many of you have developed the convenient card index system of keeping your cut-outs? They are simple to make and a time saver when you have to prepare foods in a hurry.

Buy a hundred or so blank cards—either a three by five inch dimension or a four by six dimension—depending on whether or not you wish to add remarks of your own to the recipe pasted on each card. Card indexes, made especially for the cook, can be purchased, too, but you can make your own.

Paste a narrow strip of colored cardboard, the length of the blank white card, across the top, and letter it with each division or classification you wish to adopt, such as "vegetables, desserts, candy, meats," etc.

The card index system of keeping recipes is a boon to any one who has some good cook books on the verge of being worn out. You can clip each recipe from the books and add them to your efficient index. Yes, a box is supplied with the cards to keep them intact.

PINEAPPLE CUCUMBER SALAD.

¼ cup of cold water.
¾ cup of boiling water.
Juice of ½ a lemon.
3 tablespoons of vinegar.
½ cup of sugar.
1½ cups of grated pineapple or pineapple tidbits.
½ cup of finely diced cucumber.
1 small chopped pimiento.

Soak the gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt, sugar, lemon juice, and vinegar. Set aside to cool. When it begins to set, add the pineapple, cucumber, and pimiento. Serve in a lettuce nest with mayonnaise.

ORANGE QUEENS.

½ cup of sugar.
Pinch of salt.
Pinch of salt.
Grated rind of 1 orange.
2 tablespoons of orange juice.
1 tablespoon of lemon juice.
Yolks of 2 eggs.
2-3 cup of flour.
½ teaspoon of soda.
2 egg whites.

Cream the butter; add the sugar and cream together. Add the well beaten egg yolks, salt, orange rind, juice. Sift the flour and soda together and add to the mixture. Beat well. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven [350 to 375 degrees Fahrenheit]. Yield: Twelve small cakes.

EGGPLANT.

Remove the skin and cut the plant into slices one-fourth an inch thick. Sprinkle them with salt and pile one on top of the other. Set on a plate, holding a weight on the top. Let stand for one hour and drain off all the juice. Dip each slice in egg, then in fine bread crumbs, and sauté, first on one side and then on the other—until the slices are a golden brown.

EGGPLANT.

Peel, slice, and boil the eggplant until tender. Mash and season with salt and pepper. Roll cracker crumbs, and stir into the eggplant until very thick. Form in little pats and fry in hot butter.

CREAMED CHICKEN.

1 four pound chicken.
2 large sweetbreads.
1 can of mushrooms.
1 quart of sweet milk [hot].
1 tablespoon of finely chopped onion.
5 tablespoons of butter.
1 1-3 cups of flour.

Cook the chicken until tender. When cool, remove the meat from the bones. Cut the meat with scissors—about as fine as for salad.

Boil the sweetbreads twenty minutes and break into small pieces. Pour off the mushroom liquor and cut each mushroom into four pieces. Mix the chicken, sweetbreads, and mushrooms together. Season with salt and pepper.

Make a thick white sauce with butter, flour, and hot milk. Put a layer of the same in the bottom of a baking dish then a layer of the chicken and continue alternating the layers. The last layer should be white sauce. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit]. Yield: Sixteen servings.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Virginia Troup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Cleve Troup of Evanston, to Richard C. Uhlemann, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Uhlemann, also of Evanston, is to take place on Oct. 14.

[illegible], Yankees ....27 Ott, Giants 29

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth pounded out his 45th and 46th home runs of the season to take the lead from Lou Gehrig as the Yankees humbled Washington, 8 to 3, today.

BABE RUTH.

The Yanks now are only half a game behind the Senators in the duel for second place in the final American league standings. Both of the Babe's drives were off Alvin Crowder, the first in the fifth and the second in the eighth. The bases were empty both times.

Gehrig and Ruth have three more games in which to settle the home run argument, a double header with Washington tomorrow and a single game against the Athletics Sunday.

A homer by Sam Rice paved the way for New York's winning rally. With two out in the eighth and the score tied, Rice dropped Tony Lazzeri's fly and the Yankees followed with a five run rally. Herb Pennock and Earl Combs of the Yankees and Joe Kuhel of the Senators also connected for home runs, bringing the day's total to five. Score:

FOOTBALL FOR the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Except for kickoffs and a free kick after a fair catch, all other football plays put the ball into movement from scrimmage. The try for the extra point after a touchdown also is commenced from scrimmage.

Scrimmage starts from where the ball has been downed, or at the point to which it has been taken by penalty or at a specified position, such as on the opponents' two yard line in the try for the extra point.

Each team has a restraining line over which it must not pass or encroach until the ball is put in play. Encroachment on this restraining line is called "offside" and is subject to penalty. This penalty, a loss of five yards, is inflicted on the offending team. It is one of the most frequent fouls in football. The head linesman always is stationed to watch for these violations.

These restraining lines are as far apart as the length of the football. Each team is restrained by an imaginary line at the point of the ball nearest that team. Each line, of course, parallels the goal lines.

Downs Remain Same on Penalties.

The team in possession of the ball has four downs or attempts in which to advance a total of ten yards by running or passing. The downs continue in succession if possession of the ball is continuous. If the ball passes out of possession and is regained [Example: An intercepted pass which then is fumbled and is recovered by the passing team], the succession of downs is broken and the team with the ball may start again at first down and ten yards to gain. This is true regardless of the distance involved.

When penalties for offside are inflicted the number of the down REMAINS THE SAME. If the penalty advances the ball past the point to be gained it becomes first down and ten yards to gain.

While a team runs or passes to gain ten or more yards, it may punt on any down. However, when the team punts it relinquishes possession of the ball. After the kick the ball belongs to the receiving team and cannot be recovered until it is touched by a member of the receiving team.

The number of the down and the distance to be gained determine the kind of attack. This is the reason why teams hesitate to wait to punt on a fourth down with a great distance to be gained. The opposition is fairly certain that the play on the last down will be a kick and masses its strength to block it.

Center May Use Hands in Neutral Zone.

SEVEN PLAYERS of the team in possession of the ball MUST be stationed on the scrimmage line. More than seven may line up on the scrimmage line. If these players are within a foot of their restraining line they are ruled on the scrimmage line providing they have [1] both hands, or [2] both feet, or [3] one foot and the opposite hand within one foot distance.

The players on the scrimmage line [except the player who snaps the ball backward] may not touch or lean over the neutral zone [the territory between the restraining lines]. This man [called the center] may have his hands and head over his own restraining line since this position is necessary for him to snap the ball.

The other four members of the team with the ball, unless on the line of scrimmage, are known as backs. They may line up in any position, but they must be at least ONE YARD back of the line except for one back, the first man to receive the ball. This rule permits one back to receive the ball directly from the hands of the center. This player customarily is known as the quarter back. The position of the offensive linemen and backs have produced distinct styles of play. Examples: The Warner system and the Notre Dame system.

Defensive Players May Line Up as They Please.

The line is said to be "balanced" when the man who snaps the ball back is the center man of seven [fourth from either end]. The most frequent unbalanced line combination is the Warner arrangement. This provides for four linemen on one side of the man who snaps the ball, with two on the other side.

There are no restrictions on the

MRS. VARE MEETS HELEN HICKS IN U. S. GOLF FINAL

Defending Champion Defeats Miss Van Wie.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A 20 year old girl today smashed the menace of the most dangerous foreign challenge for the United States' women's crown in the last ten years when Miss Helen Hicks of Hewlitt, L. I., entered the final round of the national championship here by defeating the British titleholder, Miss Enid Wilson, 2 and 1. Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia defeated Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, 2 up.

HELEN HICKS.

As Miss Hicks, who within the space of the past three years has held, one time or another, practically every golfing title for which she competed, holed out at the 17th green, it meant tomorrow, in her first national final, she would meet the present champion, Mrs. Vare.

Virginia's Rally Falls.

Unlike the stoical British player, Mrs. Vare was able to gain the upper hand in her semi-final match with Miss Van Wie by the time they had reached the 12th hole, although she had to withstand a closing rush to win, 2 up, and gain a chance to augment her record of five national championships.

While Miss Van Wie went down fighting, it was Miss Hicks' brilliant golf over the last three holes that stifled the possibility of the cup leaving these shores and prevented the champions of two countries from meeting in a historic final.

Miss Hicks Finishes Strong.

Miss Hicks, who is at present New York state, eastern, and metropolitan champion, was two under men's par on the last three holes, her 4—2—4 finish against Miss Wilson accounting for the precious margin of two up. Although the invader holed a birdie four herself at the 17th, it availed her of nothing more than a half to end the match with Miss Hicks.

Mrs. Vare won three holes in a row starting at the ninth to completely alter the complexion of her match with Miss Van Wie. Until then, the Chicago girl, in the see-saw style the contest followed, had been able to win three in a row herself beginning with the fifth and assumed a lead of 1 up. Miss Van Wie, however, pushed her spoon shot into the bunker at the ninth and missed a seven footer for a half, which squared the match.

Glenna's Approach Accurate.

Bunkered again on a hooked iron at the 10th, Miss Van Wie dropped the hole after failing to recover from

Handsome Jim Moore—A Dandy, Handy Ball Player

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

It isn't likely that Jim Moore or Roger Cramer will be asked to do anything brave in the world series, because these boys are deputy outfielders, and Connie Mack's three habituals—Simmons, Miller, and Haas—are now in good enough repair to handle the work, barring mishaps. Still, Haas has been gentling a sprung tendon, Simmons has a recurrent stringhalt, and Miller has been known to come down of the misery from time to time. So just in case there is some extra work to be done out there, it will further one's appreciation of the case to know a few odds and ends about Moore and Cramer, as follows:

Moore is out of Texas. He is tall and there is a lot of man in any suit of clothes he happens to be wearing. He is strung together along symmetrical lines, which a tailor would call a figure, so he doesn't lump up before the eye in the rugged mass of a Hack Wilson or a Lou Gehrig.

The young man, himself by no means insensible of his own grace and charm, adorns his stature with stylish checks and stripes, set off by daring effects in shoes and hats, and sometimes spats. He has been known to carry a walking cane. In a beauty contest he might win the title of Mr. America, for he carries around the biggest trunkful of duffle ever maintained by a ball player on the road, and not even Johnny Farrell, the clotheshorse of the golf tournaments, can out-gaudy him, now that he is earning major league wages.

They Call Him Hollywood, Too.

When Hollywood Moore, as the athletes call him, comes out of the yard on a ladies' day the sighs of the girls around the players' door would blow his hat across the street but for the fact that he always comes out bowing, with his hat in hand, not only to save the hat, but catch the sun glint on his curls.

He is very pretty, indeed, and, moreover, if it matters, when Connie wishes him to go out and play a mess of ball in place of some ailing outfielder, Jim Moore can go out and play him a very handsome mess of ball.

He is a good hitter, and while it seems plain that he isn't a star fielder up to now, else he wouldn't be a substitute, still he can catch a fly ball when one comes his way, and throw as far and straight as the rest. He has relieved both Miller and Simmons at times this year.

In last year's world series, Moore appeared just long enough to earn his letter, when he went up as a pinch hitter the day Connie Mack took Earnshaw out and sent Grove in. If he doesn't play any outfield in the impending series quite likely he will get a chance to hit in the pinches, for he has been very reliable in several big moments this season and Connie now figures that even if Moore pops out to the pitcher, at least he has had a tussle for his money.

Cramer Protege of Cy Perkins.

Cramer is a Jerseyman from down around that lonely shore where Harry Sinclair and the du Ponts before him have been raising thoroughbreds and shelling ducks and field birds in the fall for several generations. Cy Perkins, then sitting out the last years of his career with the Athletics, discovered him pitching for a long pants ball team in a village named Manhawkin and, on a long gamble, engaged him on his own responsibility and shipped him in to Philadelphia. It was a daring thing of Cy to do, for he had no authority to spend the ball club's money for players. But he took a sporting chance and spent $1.45, this being the price of Cramer's railroad ticket, and sent him in, not knowing whether he would get the money back.

But Cramer assayed at least $5,000 worth in his crude state so Connie reimbursed Cy and sent Cramer out to Portland, Ore., for schooling. He spent most of two seasons there and after this year's training trip, Connie retained him for outfield insurance. The policy soon paid off, too, for when Haas sprung his left wrist, Cramer relieved him and Kid Gleason described his hitting manners a little too well perhaps as the nearest imitation he had seen of Shoeless Joe Jackson's.

Cramer is now 24 years old and, though he spent several years learning to be a carpenter, he probably will not saw and hammer any more. He seems pretty certain to move into a steady outfield job in a year or two and lately, as an off season occupation, h. has been selling insurance.

Cubs, Pirates Begin Windup Chores Today

With the Pirates assisting, the Cubs today will take up what little remains of their season's work. Only two games to complete the scheduled 154 still remain on the program. One will be disposed of this afternoon at Wrigley field and the other tomorrow at the same place.

The Cubs can't climb any higher in the percentage row; neither can they be tumbled out of third place, but even with nothing at stake Manager Hornsby is going to give the Pirates a peek at his two best hurlers. It will be Charley Root today and Guy Bush for the Sunday meeting.

The reason for this display of high class pitching talent is that the pitchers involved hope to add one more win to their 1931 campaign records and at the same time keep themselves primed for labor in the city series with the White Sox.

Root by working today might annex his seventeenth victory of the season. Win or lose he will have the orthodox three days of rest before welcoming the Sox on Wednesday. Bush, who also will be seeking his No. 17 tomorrow, will have the same interval before facing the Sox.

MARQUETTE ENDS LINCOLN FIELDS SEASON TODAY

Plucky Play 3-1 Choice for $10,000 Purse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Along about 5 o'clock this afternoon, shortly after the $10,000 added Marquette handicap is decided, the annual early autumn racing season conducted by the Lincoln Fields Jockey club will come to a close.

It will mark the end of another profitable race meeting conducted in Chicago this year. Not so much profit as in other seasons, but a profit, nevertheless, according to the Lincoln Fields Jockey club officials headed by Col. Matt J. Winn.

"Attendance has been off only a little less than 10 per cent," Col. Winn said last night. Play in the mutuels was off slightly more, but off about the same as at other tracks in Chicago this season, according to the head of the American Turf association.

Track May Be Heavy.

The Marquette handicap may be run over a heavy, holding track this afternoon. The Lincoln Fields racing strip was sloppy yesterday and did not dry out much during the afternoon despite a warm sunshine which was beating down.

Plucky Play, already the winner of two $25,000 races in Chicago this season, was the overnight favorite at 3 to 1 for the Marquette. Chief John, the fast 3 year old from the stable of John Marsch of Chicago, was the second choice at 4 to 1. Those old roommates, My Dandy and Brown Wisdom, which will run coupled as the Reichert Brothers entry, ruled as the third choice at 5 to 1. The long shot of the party was Shasta Broom, quoted at 50 to 1.

Twelve were named for the rich stake and it is expected that at least ten of them will go to the post. Most of those in the field are tried and true mud runners, so the handicap of a heavy track will have little bearing on the outcome and should the track dry out, all 12 named overnight likely will accept the issue.

Favorites Show Up Well.

The Lincoln Fields season has continued for 30 days and more favorites have won during the meeting than at any track that has operated in Chicago this year. They ran over a lightning fast track during a greater part of the time.

The Oak Park claiming stakes was the feature on yesterday's program and Dedicate, which has turned out to be a sort of wild horse due to his bad behavior at the post, was made the short priced favorite.

He was a wild horse at the barrier all right and acted so badly at the post that Starter Morrissey finally moved him out of the gate and ordered him started from an outside position. He broke with a terrific rush which soon carried him into the lead and from then until the finish he was always in front.

He wound up by beating Lamp Black, a far west 4 year old, by nearly two lengths. In Haste finished third, making up much ground in the run down the stretch.

Seven Furlongs in 1:27 1-5.

Dedicate was always master of the situation and his race over the sloppy track was brilliant for he stepped the seven furlongs in 1:27 1-5 and was well in hand as Jockey Allen guided him safely past the line of finish. In the mutuels he paid $4.80 for a two dollar ticket.

In the Western avenue purse there came a severe upset when Crystal Prince, from the Jackson Park stable, which is owned by a number of prominent Chicagoans, made a show of his field and won by a half dozen lengths from Late Date and Sharp Thoughts. Cold Check had been the favorite but he never could unbuckle and get into the business of running and wound up a badly beaten fourth.

In the mutuels the south siders who own Crystal Prince cashed in at the tune of $37.40 for every two dollars invested and he won like a 3 to 5 shot under Jockey Corbett's brilliant ride.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FOOTBALL FORECAST.

NOW comes that time when The Wake attempts to forecast football results. The greatest difficulty, of course, is naming the estimated scores, which most prognosticators avoid. So many factors enter into the actual scoring—strategy, luck, thoughts of the future, even efforts to conceal strength—that such estimates become hazardous. However, it's part of the fun and part of our own office discussion, perhaps of discussions elsewhere, so it's in the scheme to stay.

Bear in mind, however, that the principal desideratum is to correctly name the winner, if possible. On that basis, results of previous years [with ties eliminated as a percentage factor] are here given: 1923, .826 per cent of winner; 1924, .776; 1925, .774; 1926, .807; 1927, .745; 1928, .804; 1929, .780; 1930, .786. Here goes for 1931:

Chances for "Upsets."

Opening games usually are expected to be "workout" for the stronger eleven. There are possibilities of "spills," however, in several of today's frays. Ohio U., which tests Coach Hayes' Indiana eleven, was unbeaten in 1930. Likewise, Utah had a clean slate but Coach Jimmy Phelan knows about that and should have Washington ready. St. Mary's is a threat to Southern California, and the Los Angeles team knows something about what Notre Dame coached teams may do. Olympic club against Stanford depends on what Olympic has this season. There are other doubtful spots in the list.

The University of Chicago football team this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock opens a season that holds no championship promise but arouses considerable sentimental interest on the Midway. Today's double header with Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Ia., and Hillsdale of Michigan, to be played in that order, marks the beginning of A. A. Stagg's fortieth year of coaching.

SAM HORWITZ.

The Old Man betrays some signs of a hopeful attitude about the ability of his present team, and though he is short handed for two games in one afternoon, his elevens should manage to dispose of their opponents. Cornell receives the honor of the best Chicago lineup, and the troublesome Hillsdale team will get the Maroon second string, plus support in key positions from some of the varsity.

Summers Replaces Page.

Every man who is regarded as a regular will start against Cornell except H. O. Page Jr., who would be in the game were he eligible. Allan Summers, one of those numerous Chicago players who has had no high school experience, but who has learned all his football under Stagg, probably will be in Page's place.

The line which faces Hillsdale is more distinguished for good intentions than skill, but it is aggressive. Robert Walsh, one of the two reserve tackles, has recovered from a muscle injury and is ready to start. Rapp and Jacobsen, ends; Schnur and Walsh, tackles; Berg and Shapiro, guards, and Zenner, center; Wallace, quarter, and Buzzell, Birney, and Mahoney are the group which will start against Hillsdale.

Light Drill Held.

Coach Stagg decided yesterday that his men had received all the work they need at present. He gave them some plays on the formation he intends to spring at Michigan, and told all except the third squad to forget afternoon practice.

Attendance today is not expected to exceed 10,000 and there will be plenty of seats at the stadium.

N. U. TO WATCH MAROONS

Northwestern's football team will see Chicago open its schedule with Cornell college and Hillsdale today. However, just to keep the Wildcats from missing their daily practice chore altogether Coach Dick Hanley will put them through a short scrimmage with the freshmen this morning.

Minor injuries continued to deprive the squad of several regulars yesterday and resulted in a number of changes in the first string lineup. With both Capt. Marvil and Tiny Engebretsen temporarily incapacitated, the tackle assignments were handled by the Riley brothers, Jack and Bill. The latter is regular left tackle, while Bill, a sophomore, is making a bid for right tackle.

Ken Meenan, sophomore full back, was shifted to left half, where he alternated with Jakie Sullivan, another first year man. These two newcomers will handle this position until Al Moore is able to take over his regular duties. Moore was in uniform yesterday and is expected to be ready to play in the Nebraska game next week. He has been out since last Saturday with a pulled tendon.

ILLINI TO MEET FROSH

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Illinois' football squad will play its first regulation game tomorrow afternoon on the stadium field, with the freshmen providing the annual pre-season competition.

Coach Zuppke did not announce his probable starters. If he adheres to the lineups he has been using in practice, however, one guess might include Fred Frink and Ivan Schustek at ends; Stan Jensen and Sam Gorenstein, guards; Red Owen and Earl Jackson, or Frank Purma, tackles; Bob May, center; Gil Berry and Dave

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Surprises continued to be the order of the day at the Aqueduct race course, where Mrs. William M. Moore's Gold Prize, a 5 to 1 shot in a five horse field, scored by a length to make the third outsider in as many days to take the principal race of the afternoon. Gold Prize is one of the most improved racers of the season and has been steadily gaining to class since last spring and summer, when he ran in $3,500 claiming races.

The Bayview saw him entered for $15,000 and he won in a drive, but with no doubt as to which was best, from J. H. Louchheim's A la Carte victor a few months ago in the Ohio Derby. A la Carte was the 13 to 5 third choice and got past the judges half a length before the hard driven Battleship, which went to the post the 2 to 1 favorite.

Impish Finishes Out.

Impish, second choice at 13 to 5, was next, and Brown Admiral, the outsider, brought up the rear.

Gold Prize was ridden by Jockey J. Long and earned $2,685 by his victory, which is by far the most pretentious of his career. In with 105 pounds, he had the stamina to run down the fleet A la Carte, which dashed out at the break with a show of early foot which he does not flash on all occasions. The mile and a furlong was run in 1:46 1-5.

The filly Ladana, which has not raced since she was poisoned at Saratoga, came out in the new silks of the Derwood stable in the Flying Fairy handicap and won in a gallop. The Derwood stable purchased Ladana at the dispersal of the horses in training of the Rancocas stable.

Ladana by Two Lengths.

Ladana won easily by two lengths from her new stable mate, Toney Princess, which in turn was a length and a half before Chalice. Dark Secker, a 2 year old, and Erin Queen completed the field.

NATIONAL TITLE HORSESHOE MEET TO OPEN TODAY

The second annual national amateur horseshoe pitching championship tournament will open today at Lincoln park under the auspices of the American Horseshoe Pitchers' association.

Johnny Colan, 15 year old Chicago singles champion, is expected to be a strong contender for the national title. Paired with Otto Fullner, veteran Chicago pitcher, he will also appear in the doubles play. The tournament will select a national singles champion and a national doubles championship team.

Other players entered in the tournament are: Art Meier, Columbus, O.; Ralph Sundquist, Escanaba, Mich.; Jack Hoeksema and Floyd Reinhart, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Bert Dixson, Warren Wickstrom, and Lyle Davis, Moline, Ill.; Rollie Stohl, Cleveland, O., and Arnold Makl, Hibbing, Minn.

ABANDON PLANS FOR LOUGHRAN, CARNERA BATTLE

Handy Volo Is 1st in Grand Circuit Pace

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Kentucky Futurity for 3 year old pacers produced a lively battle here this afternoon before Handy Volo won. The local colt, Calumet Brownie, won the first heat, but it was Calumet Budlong, also bred at Calumet farm here, that carried the fight in succeeding heats.

The Lad had little difficulty winning the historic Lexington stake. This is the oldest race for trotters of its age decided annually, today's renewal being the 55th. Alvin Guy was the contender in the first heat and Sir Walter Scott in the second.

E. J. Baker's Black Leaf won the 2:09 trot, the second heat going to Calumet Aster. Clara Bascom, the favorite, spoiled her chances by breaking.

The Ohio pacer, Peter Nutonia, won the 2:10 pace. Sir Walter was the contender throughout. Summaries:

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 25.—Indiana and Ohio universities open their football season in Memorial stadium tomorrow afternoon.

The large opening game crowd which will turn out to see the Hoosiers under the new régime and also the two time champions of the Buckeye conference will be augmented by 1,500 Boy Scouts and a throng of fathers attending the annual Boy Scout and Dad's day festivities.

Four sophomores—Lyons, end; Nyhart, guard; Anglemyer, tackle, and Reese, full back—will be in the Hoosier lineup. Zeller, guard; Rascher, tackle; Vic Bauer, quarter back, and Spaith, half back, are the letter men who will start. Beeson, center, and Beer, half back, other starters, are veteran men from last year. Hanke, who will play end, won a letter two years ago.

Ohio U. has won 19 straight victories. Chrisman, Livingston, Blosser, and Kepler are all Ohio men.

BATTLE AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's varsity and reserves, who will oppose each other in an official game, today went through a light drill in the gymnasium. Receipts of the game will go to the Rockne memorial fieldhouse fund.

Officials expect the stadium to be more than half filled. Coaches, school officials, students, and game officials will pay to attend.

J. J. Lipp, John Schommer, Jay Wyatt, and Nick Kearns, who were intimate friends of Rockne, have volunteered their services in handling the game. Both Indiana and Northwestern will have scouts in the game. Lineup:

MICHIGAN DODGES RAIN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Intermittent rain today had the Michigan football squad in and out of Yost fieldhouse. Drills inside were confined to signal work and practice in protection of passers. The brief session on Ferry field during the morning and slightly longer drill outside during the afternoon saw the squad blocking and running through a program designed to get it acquainted with handling of the ball under adverse weather conditions.

If rain continues, the intrasquad game scheduled for tomorrow will be postponed until Monday. Kowalik, guard, and Schmidt, full back, who have been on the casualty list, will play.

The Fay-Heston back field combination that led Detroit Northwestern high school to championships and later functioned at Lake Forest academy may go into action in one of Michigan's opening games. Coach Ryan is becoming more impressed with Jack Heston's work and may use him in place of Herman Everhardus at half back. Fay definitely will be used.

It is possible that Harry Newman will have to beat out Tessmer as well as Westover for the quarter back berth. Tessmer started at quarter last year, but was replaced by Newman and later was injured.

CASE AT IOWA'S CENTER

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Work on rebuilding a line riddled by injuries occupied University of Iowa football practice today. Case, one year reserve, was promoted to first string center in place of Magnuson, whose left leg was broken. Duffy, last year's center, was at left tackle in place of Samuelson, who is out for several days with a wrenched shoulder.

Line prospects were brightened by the appearance of Jerry Foster, 220 pound sophomore tackle, who was thought to be definitely out of school. Coach Ingwersen continued drills on forward pass offense and defense, alternating Laws and Graham, quarters, in the veteran back field of Hickman and Kriz, half backs, and Capt. Bowen, full.

BADGERS SKID IN RAIN

Madison, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Rain and mud were chiefly responsible for a ragged workout by the Wisconsin football squad today.

The men slipped and skidded through two hours of hard work, however, and Strain, Pike, and Westedt made some effective plunging. Joe Linster was the only running back who could do much on the slippery turf. He went through the second team for several long gains. Molinaro, 200 pound reserve guard and tackle for two years, worked at end. Buckets Goldenberg, regular blocking back last year, again practiced with the fourth team. He weighs 207 pounds, about ten of which must be shed.

position of any of 11 players on the defending team except that none may pass the restraining line or step over the side line before the ball is put into play. They spread out to cover all possible offensive plays. They strive to match the other team's predominant strength. And, of course, they move as the play develops.

A diagram of Northwestern and Notre Dame teams, with Northwestern in possession of the ball, illustrates putting the ball in play by scrimmage.

The ball is marked X. Imaginary lines A-B and C-D are the restraining lines and form a neutral zone. Northwestern has the required seven men on the scrimmage line. Number 3 is the center. This produces an unbalanced line according to the Warner system. As Northwestern's backs are stationed, the outside men are known as wing backs, for they flank the end linemen.

There are no restrictions on Notre Dame's positions, but with the four backs so located it constitutes what is technically known as a "box defense."

Only One Player May Be in Motion.

The regulations on the restraining lines prevent unfair advantage in charging.

In a like manner the rule makers have prohibited movement sideways and backwards by the players in possession of the ball. These restrictions are:

1. Only one player of the offense may be in motion when the ball is snapped. This one player may be in motion at an angle toward his own goal line. [Remember that his own goal is behind him.]

2. None of the five middle men of the seven linemen on the line of scrimmage may be the one player permitted in motion before the ball is snapped. If one of the ends comes out of the line and is in motion he must be five yards back of the scrimmage line when the ball is snapped. And, of course, another man must replace him on the scrimmage line to make the required total of seven.

3. If one man is in motion illegally, the penalty is loss of five yards. Frequently a player in the back field will get away ahead of the snap. If he moves forward, even at an angle, he is in motion illegally. The common phrase for this violation is "back field in motion."

No Trickery Is Permitted.

4. If two players are in motion before the snap of the ball, no matter the direction, it constitutes an illegal shift. The penalty is loss of 15 yards. The rule on the shift is complicated and it will be the subject of a separate article.

5. The man who snaps the ball may not make any false moves calculated to trick his opponents into encroaching on the restraining line. The penalty is loss of five yards.

6. No other player may use such trickery, neither may signals be used or a variation of starting signals be used which will take an unfair advantage of the opponents.

There are other restrictions, but they are violated infrequently and they may be dismissed by the fan as unessential to the understanding of the game.

[Tomorrow's article will discuss the shift.]

CARDINALS SEND LOU GORDON TO BROOKLYN PROS

Lou Gordon, for the last two seasons a tackle of the Chicago Cardinals, has been transferred to the Brooklyn Dodgers, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. David J. Jones, owner of the Cardinals. Gordon came to the Chicago pros from the University of Illinois. Gordon leaves immediately for Brooklyn.

All of the Cardinals emerged from the Portsmouth contest in good shape. Irvin Hill, regular quarter back, who was unable to play against Portsmouth, is ready to assume his post.

Maroons Play Hillsdale and Cornell Today

Cook, halves; Bob Horsley, quarter, and Eddie Schaik, Art Schultz, or Ed Snavely, full back.

Since Zuppke still is experimenting it is likely that he will use substitutes freely. Herman Walser and Bill Charle are quite certain to see action in the back field. "Ancient" Marriner will replace one of the ranking ends, while a number of other men are certain to be tested in the line.

The freshmen, equipped with Purdue formations, scrimmaged against the varsity several times during the week, but there were no regulation games. Rain this morning and early in the afternoon softened the practice fields for the last of the pre-game workouts.

GOPHER FIELD SOGGY

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Minnesota's football team will make its 1931 debut in a double header against the North Dakota Aggies and Ripon college tomorrow on a slippery field. Rain has left Stadium field soggy and slippery with no improvement expected by game time.

Coach Crisler announced tonight, as he sent the squad through the lightest and shortest drill of the practice season, that he will start his strongest lineup against North Dakota Aggies in the first game. The second and third stringers will oppose Ripon.

The Aggies reached Minneapolis this afternoon and worked out for an hour. Ripon arrived too late for practice.

Minnesota's starting lineup in the opener will have Robinson and Teeter at ends; Boland and Wells at tackles; Munn and Reihsen at guards; Stein at center; Pete Somers at quarter back; Burdick and Walt Haas at halves, and Manders at full back.

As the Gophers wound up their drill today, it was announced that My Ubi, promising sophomore, and Al Krezowski, veteran end, had been declared eligible for the season.

RIPON OFF TO MINNESOTA

Ripon, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Twenty-seven Ripon college football players left today for Minneapolis, where they will meet Minnesota in the second game of a double header tomorrow.

The following made the trip: Capt. Runo Anderson and Ronald Schmidt, full backs; Fred Schaum, Maurice Rowden, Walter Holmes, Emil Johnejack, and Carroll Rusk, halves; Everett Meyer, John Cole and Roger Martin, quarter backs; Leigh Steinman, Lyle Runyan, John Smith, William Scheafer and Edward McComb, ends; John Fischer, Ed Anderson, Elmer Schneiderait, George Hulka and Roland Hipperi, tackles; Art Showers, Walter Keenan, Jack Wagner, Clarence Cheatle and Eugene Sullivan, guards; Jerry Matay and Ralph Kuhlman, centers.

BENIS OF OHIO HURT

Columbus, O., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Joe Benis, first string quarter back, suffered torn shoulder ligaments today in Ohio State football practice. The injury will keep him from action until the latter part of October, according to the team physician.

Signal calling now will have to be done by sophomore backs. This duty probably will fall on Charles Cramer, second year half back. Tom Keefe, quarter at last year's freshman team, will be Cramer's understudy.

The Buckeyes engaged in a game with a first string lineup of Nasman and Ferrall, ends; Gailus and Varner, guards; Rosequist and Bell, tackles; Smith, center; Cramer, quarter; Hinchman and Carroll, halves, and Vuchinich, full back.

PURDUE GOES INSIDE

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 25.—Rain forced the Purdue squad indoors for a greater part of this afternoon's drill. Coach Kizer utilized the time that would normally have been spent on the field in an effective skull practice session. Scrimmage has been promised for tomorrow afternoon.

Clemson and Presbyterian Play Scoreless Grid Tie

Clemson College, S. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Presbyterian college last year's S. I. A. A. champions, sprang an upset in the opening game here today by holding Clemson to a scoreless tie. The game marked Jess Neely's debut as Clemson coach. Presenting a new combination, the Tigers were invincible on defense, holding Presbyterian to one first down. Clemson made five first downs.

Xavier Beats Transylvania in Season Opener, 24 to 0

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Xavier university opened its 1931 football season here tonight with a 24 to 0 victory over Transylvania of Lexington, Ky., on a wet and soggy field with a drizzling rain falling throughout. Xavier outweighed the Transylvania eleven and after a scoreless first period opened up to win easily.

Wilson Won't Have to Pretend He's in a World Series Now

[This is the last of a series of sketches on the St. Louis Cardinals.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—Jimmy Wilson used to hustle on tail-end Philly ball teams just like he was confused and thought they were playing the deciding game in a world series.

Some thought he hustled because he was scheming to get away from Philadelphia, but this wasn't true, for Jimmy was born in Philadelphia (31 years ago) and is one of the native Philadelphians who think it is just a dandy place to live and bring up children.

Gus Gives Jim a Bit of Competition.

The Cardinals acquired Wilson from the Phillies on May 11, 1928, because they considered the services of a first class catcher essential to their pennant plans, they having traded a good catcher—Bob O'Farrell—to the Giants on May 10, 1928. He has been very much their first string catcher ever since, though last year he had to weather a severe threat by Gus Mancuso, who went crazy with his bat to the extent of hanging up an average of .366 in 76 games. This year, however, Gus has slumped off a cool 115 points in 62 games. As a consequence, maintenance of his premier rights has been more of a breeze for Jimmy this year than ever before.

You can't get a Cardinal to admit that Mickey Cochrane is a better catcher than Wilson. In St. Louis there are ballplayers who say that Cochrane has built up a reputation because he catches with one hand. St. Louis has a semi-pro team called the Stars, where all the players specialize in one hand catches and the Cards claim he got the idea from them.

Though he catches with both hands, the Cards say, Wilson can handle pitchers who need handling. Any one can catch Grove and Earnshaw, the Wilson partisans contend.

Gets Credit for Hallahan's Success.

But the purpose of this piece is not to draw comparisons between the A's and the Cards. It is sufficient to say that Wilson is given a great deal of credit for the success of Bill Hallahan, who, until he pitched to Wilson, was a hopeless wild man in the majors. Wilson also has drawn a great deal of praise for his coöperation with the year's most successful major league rookie, Paul Derringer.

Despite his great aggressiveness, it cannot be said that Wilson has been a ball of fire as a batsman in the two world series in which he has participated. In 1928 he appeared in three world series games, was eleven times at bat and pounded out one hit for an average of .091. Last year he did somewhat better—he played in four games and in 15 times at bat made four hits for an average of .267.

Besides being a great catcher and a pretty good hitter, Wilson is one of the few catchers in the league who really can run.

Mancuso, Gonzales Support Wilson.

Backing up Wilson on the Cardinal catching staff are the aforementioned faded Mancuso, who continues a mighty good catcher despite his hitting decline, and Mike Gonzales, the veteran ex-Cub, who is back with the Cardinals after a lapse of five years.

Mancuso is strictly a Cardinal chain store product, a sturdy gent who is only 26 years old despite his 7 years in class A and higher baseball.

Gonzales, for years a student of National leaguers' batting weaknesses, has done little catching, but his services to Manager Street's board of strategy is said to have been most valuable in numerous instances.

Mike is one of the smartest men we know. Last January he showed us how to win $40 in Havana and escape Cuba with the roll intact. This, to our way of thinking, qualifies him as the greatest fellow in baseball.

DE PAUL COACH TESTS PASSING FOR NO. DAKOTA

Coach Eddie Anderson sought to develop the passing attack of De Paul university in a two hour drill yesterday. Expected to be outweighed approximately 20 pounds to the man by North Dakota university next Friday night, the Blue Demons face the necessity of resorting to the air.

De Paul has not yet tested its aerial offense. The Blue Demons did not use a single pass in defeating Detroit. Matt Steffen did most of the throwing in yesterday's workout. He is an unusually accurate passer. Another tosser who found favor with Dr. Anderson was Joe Dea, half back.

The receivers, however, were not particularly impressive. Vern Moist, the giant end, had no difficulty catching the ball, but he lacked speed and deception. Eddie Lyons and Heine Coan promise to show improvement.

Schuster and Roid, two reserve guards, have merited the esteem of Line Coach Ben Connor and are giving Capt. McClane and Cowhey plenty of competition.

Ernie Butcher, aggressive back, surprised the coaches with his defensive work in the Detroit game and is continuing to support the line ably.

Temple U. Wins from Mt. St. Mary Eleven, 33-0

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Temple university tonight opened its 1931 football season with a 33 to 0 victory over Mount St. Mary's. After being held scoreless in the first period, Temple pushed over two touchdowns in the second, another in the third, and two more in the final period.

BABE GAINS ONLY ONE POINT WITH TWO HOME RUNS

By hitting his 45th and 46th home runs of the season yesterday, Babe Ruth gained the major league lead in that department, but he picked up only one point on Al Simmons, Big Six batting leader.

The two homers were the fruit of four times at bat and brought the Babe's average up to .373, sixteen points behind Simmons, who did not take part in the Athletics' victory over Boston. All the other members of the Bix Six were idle. The standing:

Hockey Loop May Lose Two Teams Today

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Withdrawal of Philadelphia and Ottawa from the National Hockey league is expected tomorrow when the league governors and schedule makers convene in annual session here.

Financial difficulties in both these towns is expected to necessitate the returning of their franchise to the league, in which case the players from both teams will be distributed among the other eight clubs of the circuit. In this event, the Detroit Falcons and New York Americans would have first choice of players, since they finished farthest down the list last year.

Cancel Shaughnessy Offer.

Tom Shaughnessy, manager of the Chicago Shamrocks in the American league, here to attend the meeting, announced today, he had completed arrangements for the purchase of the Ottawa franchise and team for $350,000, but the deal was cancelled at the last minute when Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Black Hawks, had refused to share territorial rights in the Illinois city.

It was intimated tonight that Ottawa may be moved to the Fort Erie arena, near Buffalo, N. Y., and that Philadelphia had requested permission to locate in Atlantic City. Both these propositions were considered as unlikely, however.

Maroons Seek Wentworth.

Trades are expected to occupy the greater part of the delegates' attention tomorrow. The Montreal Maroons, it is said, will make a bid for Marvin Wentworth, Black Hawk defense man, and Harold Starr of the Ottawa Senators.

The only traffic the National league will have with the American league is the probable purchase of Paddy Byrne from the Kansas City team. The Montreal Maroons had made a bid for Byrne, but Kansas City is said to have demanded too much to make consummation of the deal likely.

300 TO COMPETE IN A. A. U. TRACK TOURNEY TODAY

Three hundred athletes, a record entry, will compete this afternoon in the annual Central A. A. U. track and field meet at Ogden park. Entries have been received from the University of Chicago, Northwestern and Marquette universities and from every Chicago park system.

Gilbert Kerr, Illinois Athletic club; John O'Neil, Victor Funk, and Michael Thomas head the list of twenty entered in the five mile race, feature event of the day's program.

Leroy Morgan of Harding playground, who represented the Central A. A. U. in the national meet at Lincoln, Neb., will compete in the running high jump. Bert Nelson, Illinois Athletic club, holder of the world's indoor record, also is entered in the event.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

The squawking and booing that followed announcement of the decision in the recent Schaaf-Griffith bout at the Stadium leads me to wonder if anybody can return a verdict with accuracy and finality in a match as close as that one.

Not all of the best fight judges are in Chicago, but there has been no convincing evidence to support an argument that they are less competent than the men who serve in New York and other centers where the same system of picking winners is in vogue.

The two judges and the referee agreed unanimously that Schaaf won the bout. So did the three TRIBUNE writers at the ringside. But a loud minority of the pay customers thought otherwise.

The explanation possibly rests in the fact that emotions guide most of the fans in determining the winner of a reasonably close fight. It is natural to have more interest in one of the boxers than in the other. This was particularly emphasized in the bout under discussion, in which one of the workmen was a popular Chicagoan and the other a stranger from Boston.

When you have a deep emotional interest in one fighter you are apt to see plainly every blow he lands and overlook a lot of the punches that land on him.

Another thing—which counts more, a sound wallop to the liver or a sharp jolt to the heart? The only way you can tell is to get in there and test it out. Even then there would be no proof, because one man might have a healthy liver but an ailing heart.

Thurston, Nikola and the late Houdini have demonstrated that the hand is faster than the eye. With nothing in their hands and their sleeves rolled to the elbow they have made gold fish, elephants and geraniums suddenly appear on their finger tips. It is not surprising that two men with big gloves on their hands should pull enough hocus pocus to deceive their public as to the winner of their duel.

YACHTS RACE IN ANNUAL FALL REGATTA TODAY

The annual autumn regatta and Sheldon Clark trophy race of the Chicago Yacht club will be sailed off Navy pier this afternoon. Universal yawls, ketches and schooners, cruisers in classes A and B, Seawanhaka and large universal sloops, Q, R and S class boats will sail over a ten mile course, while the stars, pups and jacks, will compete over a shorter course. The races will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Kalamazoo College Beats Grand Rapids Eleven, 16-0

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Kalamazoo college, co-champions of the M. I. A. A., opened its season tonight with a 16 to 0 victory over Grand Rapids junior college. Kalamazoo scored all of its points in the first period. The first touchdown came as the result of an intercepted pass and was followed almost immediately by a blocked punt that produced a safety.

FIVE PRINCETON GRIDDERS TILT STEINS; DROPPED

Sipping of Trenton Brew Causes Ousting.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—"Beer for five" has brought woe to that many members of the Princeton varsity football squad, a jolt to the team's prospects, and regret and slight discomfiture to the university at large.

It seems that last Saturday night, at the close of a warm and muggy day, the five players, whose names have not been revealed journeyed away from the Old Nassau campus to a quiet retreat in Trenton, N. J., where refreshments not in accordance with the Volstead law are obtainable.

"Beer for five," they ordered, settling down to forget the discomforts of early season practice under a steaming sun.

Asked to Keep in Training.

But it also seems that Al Wittmer had laid down definite rules as to recovering that way from the ardors of practice. Wittmer is head coach at Princeton for the first time, succeeding Bill Roper. There isn't much material on his squad. By agreement with Yale, the training season did not start until Sept. 15. To help matters along he asked all his football candidates to keep in strict training.

But the five boys were thirsty, the beer was cold, and the opening game with Amherst Oct. 3 seemed far away. Unexpectedly another Princeton man entered the place. It was big Ed McMillan, All-America center for Princeton in 1925, now a member of Wittmer's coaching staff.

The five football players, still unidentified, withdrew in confusion from their beer, and McMillan wended his way sorrowfully back to the Princeton campus to report to Wittmer. The code of ethics is strict. There was no choice either for McMillan or Wittmer. On Monday, after admitting their guilt, the boys were suspended, ordered to turn in their suits, and steps were taken to have the matter forgotten immediately.

Story a Secret—Temporarily.

Other boys going to school at Princeton, who help pay their expenses by acting as correspondents for papers outside of Princeton, were called into conference. They were asked not to write about the incident. They promised.

But the news leaked out today, and the facts were substantiated by Head Coach Wittmer.

WHAT KEEPS STUDEBAKER ON TOP?

Studebaker leadership is not a comet that passes, but a fixed star of continuous achievement.

Free Wheeling today is sweeping America, but Studebaker was making history long before it pioneered Free Wheeling.

Studebaker was first to make light Sixes when its price-class was fussing with Fours . . . first to foster large scale production of quality Eights . . . first and still unbeaten in stock car records for speed and endurance.

Studebaker took the squeak out of your car with ball-bearing spring shackles! . . . It took the guess out of your gasoline with the hydrostatic gasoline gauge! . . . It cut the roar out of your carburetor with an effective carburetor silencer!

Thus every car carries somewhere the impress of Studebaker leadership.

Why not buy the car that sets the pace for all cars?

DR. J. B. DEAVER, FAMED SURGEON, IS DEAD, AGED 76

Known for Appendicitis Operations.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Dr. John B. Deaver, one of the most widely known surgeons of the country, died at his home at Wyncote near here today of anemia. He was 76 years old.

DR. JOHN B. DEAVER.

Dr. Deaver was one of the doctors summoned to Washington to attend President Wilson when the world war President's condition reached a crtical stage in 1919. In 1924 he was again summoned to the White House to attend Calvin Coolidge Jr., son of the President, who had contracted blood poisoning.

Used Either Hand.

For many years, chief surgeon at the Lankenau hospital, Dr. Deaver was widely known among medical men for his successful operations for appendicitis. He had performed thousands of these and was credited with the ability to use either hand with equal facility in wielding the knife. Records showed that he performed several major operations every day of the week for years when at the height of his practice. Many of his patients had come from far distant points of the world attracted by his great success.

Wrote Medical Books.

Medical men all over the country turned to him for advice on acute cases involving possible use of the knife. In 1909 former patients on whom he had operated gave him a banquet here. Reports at the time said that 160 physicians were among those gathered to testify to his skill from first hand experience.

The Philadelphia surgeon was a prolific writer and some of his works have been adopted as text books in medical and surgical schools. His writings had been translated into many languages.

Dr. Deaver was professor emeritus of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania.

Two daughters and a son survive him.

BANK SHORTAGE IS FOUND AFTER TELLER IS SLAIN

Employe's Body in Auto, Gun Between Knees.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Walter Hanson, 41, teller of the closed Commercial Savings bank of Moline, was found shot to death in his automobile today, a shot gun between his knees and his fingers clutching the trigger.

Charles A. Larson, president of the bank's board of directors, said state auditors examining the books told him there was a shortage of $39,000. The auditors were working tonight in the bank, which closed yesterday.

Hanson left his home at 10 a. m. today, saying he intended visiting the bank. Authorities said he apparently had driven about for some time before his death. The motor of the automobile, parked on the bank of the Mississipi river, still was warm when the body was found.

Bank officials said Hanson had worked in the Commercial Savings for 17 years and was a trusted employé. He was commercial teller and assistant cashier. Two small children and a widow survive.

Deposits of the bank totaled more than $1,500,000. It was closed voluntarily, "because of too many withdrawals," the board of directors announced.

PRISON 2 YEARS JAIL 15 MONTHS FOR RUM SELLER

Michael Bernacchi, 3757 North Oakley avenue, a cousin of Police Sergeant Peter Bernacchi, was found guilty yesterday of selling liquor in two saloons at 3600 and 3602 Elston avenue, and sentenced by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to serve two years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth and 15 months in the Cook county jail, the sentences to be served consecutively. This was one of the heaviest sentences on record in the federal courts here for liquor violations.

Ferrerre Bernacchi, 17 years old, a nephew of Michael, who was in charge of one of the saloons, was sentenced to serve a year and a day in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe. John Migliori, a bartender, was sentenced to serve four months in the Cook county jail. Judge Barnes censured the elder Bernacchi severely for having permitted his nephew to work for him.

NEW REBELLION ON COW TESTING LOOMS IN IOWA

More Counties Object to State Law.

Tipton, Ia., Sept. 25.—(AP)—As Iowa national guardsmen today made possible testing of 39 quarantined dairy herds in Cedar county, rebellion against the state's compulsory bovine tuberculin testing statute loomed in Henry and Des Moines county, in the extreme southeastern section of Iowa.

Henry county farmers, several hundred of whom signed petitions asking Gov. Dan Turner to release J. W. Lenker, Cedar county ringleader against the test law, and to withdraw troops from Cedar county, today openly avowed that their cattle could be tested only after intervention of the militia.

Lenker late today was arraigned before Judge H. B. Ring in the Cedar Rapids District court on charges of contempt. He was released on $10,000 bond signed by W. C. Butterbrodt and John McQuillan. His hearing was set for Oct. 1, in Tipton.

The farmer was charged on an attorney's information, growing out of his alleged selling of his cattle yesterday just before veterinarians accompanied by troopers entered his farm and found the cattle, which were under quarantine, removed.

Other farmers today were brought before Sheriff Foster Maxson and County Attorney William Dallas of Cedar county and questioned about events Monday when 200 farmers abused veterinarians and 65 sheriffs' deputies who had been called from surrounding counties to protect the veterinarians, about to test cattle on the Lenker farm.

HOUSE LESSOR SUES HUSTON FOR $5,000 DAMAGES

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A suit for $5,000 brought against Claudius Huston, Tennessee politician and former chairman of the Republican national committee, by Mrs. Zaidee Langborne, wife of Dr. Cary Langborne, for damages to the furnishings of a house in Washington, leased from Mrs. Langborne by Mr. Huston for a year prior to last November, was disclosed in the Supreme court today.

The case came before Justice McGeehan on an application by counsel for Mrs. Langborne to serve the papers on Mr. Huston by leaving them at his apartment, 277 Park avenue, and mailing them to him at that place.

JURY PRAISES POLICEMEN WHO KILLED BANDITS

The policemen who killed two bandits Thursday night were complimented yesterday by a coroner's jury, which brought in a verdict of justifiable homicide and a statement commenting on the efficiency and courage of the policemen with a recommendation that Acting Police Commissioner Alcock be notified about their devotion to duty.

The police heroes are Sergt. John O'Malley and Patrolmen John O'Brien and William Walsh, all of the East Chicago avenue station. They happened along as a holdup was in progress in a grocery store at 901 Sedgwick street. According to the testimony at the inquest, Rudolph Kvacik, 34 years old, 1454 South Union avenue, and Charles Jarusaitis, 23 years old, 639 West 16th street, were among the five who came from the store with handkerchiefs over their faces. All saw the policemen and commenced firing.

According to witnesses, the policemen accepted the gage of battle and returned the fire, killing Kvacik and Jarusaitis and wounding one other who, however, managed to escape in a car driven by a girl who sat at the wheel waiting for her bandit companions.

ALTER SCHEDULE OF AIRPLANES ON NEW YORK LINE

The Transcontinental and Western Air Express yesterday announced changes in the schedule of the two planes flying between Chicago and New York daily on its system, effective next Monday. The plane that leaves Chicago now at 11:30 a. m., arriving in New York at 8:09 p. m., will leave at 9:30 a. m. and arrive at 6:23 p. m.

The plane that leaves New York now at 10:45 a. m., arriving at Chicago at 6:25 p. m., will leave at 8:45 a. m. and arrive at 4:45 p. m. Chicago times are central standard; New York times, eastern standard.

Air mail poundage carried on United Air Lines from coast to coast through Chicago is showing an increase over a year ago. In August 11,722,400 letters were carried between New York and the Pacific coast by the lines and the air mail mileage flown was equivalent to forty trips as long as the Post and Gatty flight around the world.

2 Girls Win Probation on Shoplifting Charges

Two girls, who claim to be co-eds from Madison, were placed on probation for six months yesterday by Judge Freeman L. Fairbank in the Felony court on a charge of shoplifting. The girls took $900 worth of clothing from Chicago stores. They are Violet Ihrke, 22 years old, and Helen Miller, 18 years old. "We wanted to replenish our outfits before going back to school," the girls said. They were taken to Milwaukee, where another shoplifting charge awaits them.

Hold Rites at Noon Today for J. B. French

Funeral services are to be held at noon today for John B. French, colored, in the Grace Presbyterian church at 36th street and Vincennes avenue. Mr. French, who was 67 years old, died Tuesday. He was formerly a member of the Illinois industrial commission, having been appointed by Gov. Small. It was announced earlier in the week that the services would be held at 2 p. m.

FOUND DEAD AT REAR OF HOME.

Michael Penko, 41 years old, was found dead yesterday at the rear of his home at 3926 Commercial avenue. The police said he had suffered a skull fracture in a fall.

CHINESE MAKE UNITED PROTEST ABOUT OUTRAGES

Outrages ranging from petty vandalism to extortion and murder have been visited recently upon the residents of Chicago's Chinatown, centered about 22d street and Wentworth avenue, the 6,000 Chinese of the city complained in a formal petition yesterday. The petition, representing a score of business, religious and family organizations of the race, was presented to Mayor Cermak, State's Attorney Swanson and President Robert Isham Randolph of the Chicago Association of Commerce by C. W. Yen, president of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent association, also known as the Chinese Chamber of Commerce.

"Hardly a day passes," he stated, "but Chinese are insulted, jostled, struck, beaten and brutally attacked by hoodlums. Hardly a Chinese in Chicago's Chinatown but has suffered violence; some of them many times. Depredations recently culminated in the murder of Eng Sack Pang, who was going about his business peacefully. His only offense was to resent insults and attack. He was shot and died."

The petition listed a number of attacks upon restaurants and business houses by hoodlums who had attempted extortion upon the proprietors. The Chinese, Mr. Yen pointed out, have their own organizations for amicable settlement of disputes and disturbances within the race, but are powerless to deal with the attacks made by outsiders.

STOCK EXCHANGE VETERAN DIES AS WISHED, "ON JOB"

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Charles A. MacQuoid, a member of the New York Stock exchange, collapsed today on the floor of the exchange and died shortly afterward in the infirmary of the exchange. Heart disease caused his death.

MacQuoid was an individual floor trader with offices at Coady, Beinecke & Co. He was one of the veteran members of the exchange and was elected to membership 32 years ago.

Business associates said Mr. MacQuoid had often expressed the wish that he would die in harness, on the floor of the stock exchange. He was about 70 years old and lived at Roselle, N. J.

Infantile Paralysis Claims Life of Daniel Patrick

Daniel George Patrick, 11 year old son of George Patrick, an employé in THE TRIBUNE press service bureau, died yesterday of infantile paralysis at the Passavant hospital. The child became ill a week ago. Early yesterday morning he was taken to the hospital in an effort to save his life in the recently constructed oxygen room. He died a few minutes after arrival and before he could be treated. The Patrick home is at 613 Lorel avenue. Private funeral services probably will be held today.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD FOR MAN LOST 31 YRS.; SKELETON JUST FOUND

Alexandra, Minn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-one years after his death, funeral services will be held Sunday at Ida, near here, for Otto Dahl, Carlos township farmer.

Planes for the funeral were announced today following finding of Dahl's skeleton in a large swamp.

Dahl, then 58 years old, disappeared from his home April 23, 1900. He is believed to have wandered into the swamp while searching for cattle and to have become lost. Recently search of the swamp has been possible, due to the drought.

A gun and jackknife, found beside the bones, and the man's teeth were identified by Dahl's children as those of their father.

Wreckers have just completed tearing down the three story building at 123-129 South La Salle street and will start today to demolish the old twelve story Insurance Exchange building at the northeast corner of La Salle and Adams streets to make way for the first unit of the forty-three story Field building, to be Chicago's largest office building.

The contract for this $12,600,000 structure has been awarded to the George A. Fuller company, which built the Home Insurance building in 1885. Completion of the first unit is set for Aug. 1, 1932. The entire structure, to consist of three units, will be ready for tenants by April 14, 1934, according to George Richardson, trustee of the Marshall Field estate.

The old argument as to which was the first office building of steel construction, the Tacoma or the Home Insurance, which at one time seemed to have been definitely settled in favor of the Tacoma, apparently is coming to life again. It is claimed that the top floors of the Home Insurance contain the first Bessemer steel beams.

MORTICIANS LAY OUT PLANS FOR CONVENTION HERE

The National Selected Morticians yesterday made final plans for their annual convention to be held in Chicago next week.

Problems in chemical engineering, new methods of embalming and possible improvements in transportation will be considered at the meetings. A talk on the banking problems of morticians is to be given by C. R. Holden, a vice president of the First National bank. Delegates who have made reservations will represent 225 cities in the United States, France, Hawaii, and Canada.

500 ARRESTED IN POLITICAL CLUB RAIDS; ALL FREED

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—A survey today revealed that of the 500 persons arrested during the drive on gambling in political clubs five years ago not one person went to jail or paid a fine, and it was announced from the headquarters of the Hofstadter legislative committee that a string of glittering witnesses would be called next week to explain this situation.

Among those who will testify are former Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin, who inaugurated the ill starred crusade, and former Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who sent the police commanders of the crusade "out with the goats" when he took office.

Capt. Lewis J. Valentine, the "honest cop," who was an inspector under Commissioners McLaughlin and Warren, testified yesterday that professional gamblers operated games in the clubhouse belonging to all of the foregoing politicians. Next week the men themselves face the music.

NEW ATTACKS ON SHORT SELLING HELD AS LIKELY

Margin Traders Can Halt Practice.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is almost a certainty that both national and state legislation directed against the practice of "short selling" in the securities markets will be proposed this winter. Several measures have been proposed in the last year or two in congress and the New York legislature, but the continued decline in stock prices in the last year has raised the issue more strongly.

Proposed legislation against "short selling" always brings out a maze of discussion relating to the theory of the practice, with the result that no laws have been actually passed. What the investors and speculators, for whose benefit such classes may buy stocks on margin, fail to realize is that they themselves are able to prevent the "short selling" of securities to a large degree.

Could Warn Brokers.

If buyers of securities on margin would simply instruct their brokers not to lend the securities held in their accounts and would refuse to give any power of attorney giving their brokers the privilege of lending their stocks, the practice of "short selling" would be reduced to a minimum. To these instructions, the holders of securities on margin might add a warning to his brokers that he will hold them responsible in damages in the event his instructions were ignored.

Without entering into any discussion of the pros and cons of the theory of "short selling," it can scarcely be defended on the ground of fairness on the part of brokers to their customers. The buyer of stocks on margin, whether he be speculating for a rise in prices or with the intention of paying for his stock ultimately, expects the value to appreciate. Therefore, for his broker to furnish that same stock to a "short seller" so as to depress its market price is hardly a fair deal.

The great bulk of all securities lent to "short selling" is that held by customers who have bought those stocks. Therefore, if these customers refused to permit the brokers to lend their stock to "short sellers," the only source of supply would be such securities as are actually owned by the brokerage firms themselves. This supply is almost negligible.

AUTUMN TRADE LAGGARD

Continued warm weather and the holidays of the Jewish holiday combined to create rather disappointing trade conditions during the last week, it is reported by the leading mercantile agencies. As a result both wholesalers and retailers have not enjoyed the usual fall stimulus except in a few highly seasonal lines.

Business, even in seasonal lines, is below that of a year ago. Taken in the aggregate, trade reports present little or no evidence that improvement is now in progress.

Railroad's also reports that the heavy industries continue to lag, with the steel industry failing to record any increase in activity, a disappointing feature in view of the optimism expressed in steel circles last week. Automobile production also continues low, with prospects that the current month's output will be the smallest for any month so far this year.

Collections are, it is said, slower if anything, no section reporting them as prompt as last year.

The buying of school supplies that can be pointed to as a favorable trade indication a week ago has lost its impetus and contracts, to a lesser extent, the absence of warm weather on other retail purchasing.

Men's Clothing Slow.

Men's heavy clothing has been particularly slow in moving as the result of the weather, but women's wear, particularly hats, has had a good call.

Although employment has materially increased, according to Dun's Review, the slow development of retail distribution and the unsettlement as the result of the financial situation have inclined further with business.

Telling a somewhat more encouraging attitude, however, the review says that deliveries on past orders proceed without interruption and production in many lines continues at a satisfactory rate, although it is admitted that high temperatures have delayed sales.

Railroads Seen Hampered by Rate Making Methods

BY SCRUTATOR.

In attempting to prevent the diversion of traffic to motor trucks the railroads are hampered exceedingly by a cumbersome and inelastic method of rate making.

Nobody knows what it costs to haul a ton of anything by rail. The rate is based on what the traffic will bear—a survival of the days when the railways had a monopoly of transportation.

The truck operator, on the other hand, can run his business on a cost plus basis. He knows what it costs him to run his truck and is in a position to decide immediately whether or not the rate he can get will yield him a profit on any given shipment.

He knows what kinds of goods he can transport profitably in competition with the railroads and what kinds he had best surrender. Practically all less than carload rates, and many carload rates, are based on the consolidated classification in which each article of commerce is given a rating.

Watched by I. C. C.

The designated class of any article is governed by its so-called transportation characteristics, which are carefully weighed by experienced railway committees, all, of course, under the watchful eye of the interstate commerce commission.

Although there are many transportation characteristics, such as the perishable nature of the article, its susceptibility to breakage from handling, possibility of damaging other articles in the car, explosiveness, etc., the three major characteristics given consideration are its weight per cubic foot, its value per pound and its relationship to competing or analogous commodities in the classification.

The weight per cubic foot is, of course, a cost feature. A bulky article should take a higher rating than a compact article because it will occupy as much or more space in a car without producing equal freight charges, which are generally assessed on a weight basis.

Its value per pound is a relic of Adam Smith's eighteenth century theory that luxuries should pay higher tolls than necessities.

An article packed in glass takes a higher rating than an article packed in tin, but is usually heavier. Nevertheless, the railways have maintained for years that articles packed in glass should take a higher rate. They cannot let the bars down on one article without letting them down on all.

This method of taking the value of an article into consideration in making rates has caused tremendous diversion to trucks in recent years.

Electric light bulbs, feathers and ice cream cones pay one and a half times first class rates. Cork stoppers or disks and cork blocks for life preservers are carried at first class rates. On the other hand, dry goods, woolens and books, all heavy articles, are first class, held up to that rating by their values.

How Competition Is Met.

When a railroad undertakes to meet truck competition it usually does so by a horizontal slash in the class rates or by inaugurating pickup and delivery service to equalize the service given by the truck, but without any alteration in the method of quoting rates.

The obvious result will be that the trucks will handle the books, dry goods and woolens, while the railroads will handle the electric light bulbs, ice cream cones, corks, and feathers.

The consolidated classification represents years of intensive study, but the truck owner cares nothing about it. He knows that he can make money if his trucks will earn an average of $30 per day.

He knows his unit cost and therefore has a tremendous advantage over the railroad, whose rate schedules are in no way based on cost of handling but on the theory of obtaining sufficient revenue from the traffic offered to operate its trains, spreading the cost over articles of freight by a scheme that takes into consideration other elements than actual cost of the service performed.

BRITISH POUND WEAK; FALLS 37 CENTS, THEN RECOVERS TO $3.74

The English pound dropped to a new low price of $3.45 yesterday before any support was found. In the late trading all but 8 cents of the 37 cents decline was recovered, but the final quotation of $3.74 was the lowest closing price recorded since the desertion of the gold standard by England.

Simultaneously with the advances in the discount rate of the banks of Norway and Denmark to 6 per cent, equal to that of the Bank of England, Scandinavian bonds and currencies experienced further unsettlement. Currencies recovered partially, however, ending the day with small losses.

The lowest previous price the pound has reached this week was on Monday when it was quoted at $3.75 immediately following the government's announced devaluation plan.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE DEALS MUST BE FOR CASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—After a hectic week's trading, in which prices skyrocketed rapidly throughout the industrial section, the London stock exchange tonight ordered that in the future all transactions must be for cash and may not be continued from day to day. Also an embargo was placed upon fresh option business.

The committee's decision was taken in order to check excessive speculation. From the behavior of the markets this week it has been evident that a questionable movement was gathering momentum and was threatening undesirable reactions. In the last three days a headlong rise in quotations other than gilt edged and fixed investment securities has provided an unhealthy stimulus to the professional gambling element, and it also encouraged the holders of British government and other gilt edged securities to exchange these into more speculative industrials.

Federal Reserve Boosts Acceptance Buying Rate

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank announced today it had raised its buying rate on bankers' acceptances ¼ of 1 per cent to bring it in line with the open market rate of 1¼ per cent established yesterday. The advance is equivalent to a reduction in price of bankers' acceptances.

MORE CONCERNS MAKE CUTS OF 10 PER CENT IN SALARIES, WAGES

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Ten per cent wage cuts have been effected by the American Smelting and Refining company following reductions of about the same proportions by two affiliated companies, the Garfield Smelting company and Murray company of Utah. The Utah Coper company, subsidiary of Kennecott Copper company, reduced wages 10 per cent also.

The Creamery Package Manufacturing company announced that directors have voted a reduction of 10 per cent in pay of all salaried employés receiving in excess of $100 a month, effective Oct. 1.

According to dispatches from Montreal, negotiations are under way looking to a 10 per cent wage cut by both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railroads. The reduction would affect all employés engaged in train operation. The recent 10 per cent cut in salaries of employés of these roads did not affect this class of workers.

Paper Concern Cuts.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Salary reductions of 10 per cent were announced today, effective Oct. 10, for all salaried employés of the West Springfield and Woronoco plants of the Strathmore Paper company, totaling about 300 persons. Mill operatives are not affected.

Traction Line Joins In.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Atlantic City and Shore Railroad company announced a ten per cent wage cut today affecting the supervising force and officers.

BANK MERGER OF UNION AND COMMERCE UP

Another consolidation of large downtown Chicago banks loomed up yesterday. Proposals for a merger of the Union Bank of Chicago and the Chicago Bank of Commerce will be considered by the Union bank directors at a meeting today. Informal negotiations looking to such a merger have been in progress for several months.

Consolidation of these banks would result in an institution with total resources of nearly $20,000,000, with deposits of almost $12,500,000 and capitalization of nearly $5,000,000. On June 30 the Union bank had resources of $12,185,000; deposits, $7,447,000; capital, $1,300,000; surplus, $1,000,000; and undivided profits, $308,000. The Chicago Bank of Commerce had resources of $7,715,000; deposits, $5,004,000; capital, $1,500,000; surplus, $750,000; and undivided profits, $59,000.

The principal officers of the Union bank are Charles E. Schlytern, chairman; Henry R. Kent, vice chairman; and Daniel V. Harkin, president. Henry S. Henschen is president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce.

Tide Water Stock Holders May Bar Sinclair Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—Opposition among certain stockholders of the Tide Water Associated Oil company to the plan to merge with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation has reached sufficient proportions to jeopardize the participation of the former in the proposed consolidation. This was learned today. It was said that the likelihood was that Tide Water would be left out.

The hitch in the plan to include the Tide Water Associated Oil company will not, however, result in upsetting the merger plan completely. On the contrary, the prospect is that the others will go ahead and work out a merger without the Tide Water company. It is understood, in fact, that the negotiations for creating a three cornered merger of Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, Prairie Oil and Gas, and Prairie Pipe Line have progressed to a point where early announcement of an agreement may be expected.

A Smaller Organization.

Should the Tide Water Associated Oil company stay out the result would be that the greater Sinclair company would not attain one of the objects of the plan, which is to obtain a foothold in the California oil industry. It also would have the effect of creating a smaller organization in point of capital and assets than otherwise would have been the case.

The assets of the Tide Water Associated as of Dec. 31, 1930, totaled approximately $250,000,000. Exclusion of them would reduce the combined assets of the merged companies to approximately $800,000,000, instead of more than a billion dollars as expected.

Standard Plans Move.

No further developments in the negotiations for merging the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Standard Oil Company of California are expected before next month. The announcement was made late in August that the two companies had reached an agreement on the principle of merging, and that the next step would be surveys of the properties of the two companies to ascertain what would be a fair basis for the consolidation. No further meetings of the principals in the deal have been held since that time.

In the meanwhile, the survey to which the official statement alluded has begun. This survey is being made by representatives of the respective companies. The Standard of New Jersey has sent its accountants to California to coöperate with those of the Standard Oil of California in appraising the properties of that company. The latter in turn has its accountants here coöperating with those of Standard of New Jersey in surveying the properties of the latter.

SINCLAIR OIL HALF YEAR LOSS IS $10,415,088

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation for the first six months of this year reports a consolidated net loss of $10,415,088 after all expenses and charges, including reserves of $11,514,181 for depreciation, depletion, and amortization. This compares with a net income of $3,215,709 after similar charges and reserves in the corresponding period of 1930, equal after preferred dividends to 49 cents a share on the 5,420,080 common shares then outstanding.

Gross operating earnings exclusive of intercompany sales and intercompany transportation charges amounted to $66,597,798 in the first six months of 1931, against $88,423,056 in the corresponding period last year. Depreciation, depletion, and amortization was $10,195,447 in the first half of 1930.

Close Kansas Plant.

Kansas City, Kas., Sept. 25.—(AP)—B. Bebbington, superintendent of the Kansas avenue refinery of the Sinclair Refining company, said last night he had received orders from the New York offices to close the plant on Nov. 1 until prices improved. Many of the 250 employés probably will be transferred to plants in Coffeyville, Kas., and East Chicago, Ind.

GUARANTEE FUND ENABLES PARIS BANK TO OPERATE

PARIS, Sept. 26 (Saturday).—(AP)—The ministry of finance announced early this morning that a guarantee fund has been formed for the Banque Nationale de Credit and that consequently the bank is able to continue normal operations.

The announcement said the situation of the bank had been examined by Finance Minister Flandin, the governor of the Bank of France, and representatives of leading banks.

The Banque Nationale de Credit is one of the five largest deposit banks in France. Founded in 1913, it has a paid-up capital of 318,000,000 francs (about $12,720,000). The bank's headquarters are a large and sumptuous new building on the Boulevard des Italiens, and it has 43 branches in the Paris district, as well as more than 600 in the provinces and three abroad.

MODINE MFG. CO. CUTS COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of Modine Manufacturing company declared yesterday a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, placing the stock on a $2 annual basis. Previous to this quarter the company paid 75 cents a share of $3 yearly.

The Eaton Axle and Spring company reduced the dividend on the common stock to a $1 annual basis, against $1.60 previously. Directors voted a quarterly payment of 25 cents.

General Realty and Utilities corporation has voted to defer payment of Oct. 15 dividend on the $6 cumulative preferred stock of no par value. Directors have also voted to retire $4,000 shares of preferred stock which have been repurchased and are held in the company's treasury.

N. Y. Savings Accounts Up $3,664,518 in August

A net increase of $3,664,518 in savings held by the savings and loan associations of New York state was shown in figures for August released by the New York State League of Savings and Loan associations. The number of savings accounts decreased 226 for the month but there is a net gain of 4,677 for the year.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 25.—Stocks bobbed crazily up and down today as the trading fraternity strove valiently to get over its latest attack of nerves. The close found most leading issues gainers on the day.

Operations were at the tug of varied influences in addition to the continued anxiety over the ultimate effect of England's suspension of the gold standard. An erroneous report of the failure of a big French bank around noon gave some of the more timid ones heart failure and it took an official denial of the rumor to get prices moving upward again.

A report that the Stock Exchange had taken further measures to discipline the bears, summoning four of the biggest of them before the business conduct committee for a little curtain lecture helped sentiment somewhat and the improving tendencies manifested by the bond and grain markets were also factors of helpful importance. Reports were heard of conferences of leading bankers with the interest of the market at heart, but inquiry brought forth the definite announcement that no such "conferences" had been held.

Curb on Shorts.

The exchange took further steps to ascertain the short position of members and their customers by requiring that beginning next Saturday reports should be given on sales covered on the same day as well as short sales that remained open trades at the close of business on a certain day. From the added information which has been requested, it is evident that the move is aimed primarily at "floor traders."

Whatever its inspiration the new order had the effect of driving the bears pretty well to the sidelines and allowing the market once more to follow its natural bent.

Business amounted to about 3,000,000 shares. Trading was extremely dull for a while in the forenoon and around noon, but the pack quickened a bit after the turn of the day and buying of a substantial character appeared in some sections of the list. Heavy covering was apparent in American Telephone, which advanced nearly 4 points, and Consolidated Gas, which swung up to 75¼, an advance of 3 points, not all of which it was able to hold, and in some of the other leaders. United States Steel, which is attracting fresh attention by its wide daily swings, closed the day at 78⅛, up 2⅝ points.

Rail Shares Advance.

Railroad shares performed once more to the satisfaction of the bull crowd and advances of 1 to 6 points or more were scored by Atchison, New Haven, Norfolk & Western, Union Pacific and others lately so active in whatever direction they happen to be moving.

American Can, which sold as low as 76¾ during an early morning attack of the doldrums, recovered in sprightly fashion toward the close and wound up boasting a net gain of more than 2 points. General Electric gained more than a point and Westinghouse followed suit.

Copper shares attracted some fairly good buying and the utilities pulled themselves together in good shape.

Among the special performers were Coco Cola, one of the few stocks still selling above 100, which broke about 3 points, half of which it later recovered, Goodrich preferred, which dropped 5¾ points on one transaction, and Keith Albee preferred, which took a tumble of more than 8 points. Ingersoll Rand chalked up a loss of 9 in a correspondingly modest turnover.

Figures by statisticians of the "street" estimating that General Motors shares have been increased about 20 cents each in value by the company's salary cut may or may not have contributed to an upturn of nearly a point in the price of the motors group leader.

BONDHOLDERS' COMMITTEE

THE MINNEAPOLIS AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD COMPANY

FIRST AND REFUNDING MORTGAGE FOUR PER CENT. FIFTY YEAR GOLD BONDS, DUE MARCH 1, 1949

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit for the above-mentioned Bonds, issued under the Deposit Agreement dated as of October 3, 1923, as amended by amendment adopted as of September 14, 1928:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Bondholders' Committee has further amended the above-mentioned Deposit Agreement in the particulars specified below and has filed said amendments with City Bank Farmers Trust Company (formerly The Farmers Loan and Trust Company), 22 William Street, New York City, as Depositary under said Deposit Agreement, said amendments being in substance as follows:

1. Article Fifteenth of the Deposit Agreement is further amended by specifying the 5th day of October, 1934, as the date prior to which a plan and agreement shall be prepared or approved and adopted and notice of such preparation or approval and adoption published.

2. The amount that the Committee is authorized to exact or collect from the Depositors or the deposited securities for expenses and compensation of the Committee is increased to not exceeding four per cent. (4%) of the face amount of the certificates of deposit issued under the Deposit Agreement, and Articles Tenth and Eleventh of the Deposit Agreement are amended accordingly;

All as more fully appears from the amendments as filed with the Depositary as aforesaid.

Under Article Twelfth of the aforesaid Deposit Agreement you may, at any time within fifteen days from the date hereof, upon surrender of your certificates of deposit in transferable form to City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Depositary, at its office aforesaid and upon payment to the Depositary for account of the Committee of two per cent. of the face value of your certificates of deposit, withdraw from the said Deposit Agreement, receive bonds of said issue to the principal amount called for by the certificates of deposit so surrendered, and thereupon cease to have any rights under the said Deposit Agreement. Depositors who do not so withdraw within said period of fifteen days shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to the foregoing amendments and shall be irrevocably bound thereby.

CHICAGO PRICES IMPROVE AFTER ERRATIC TRADE

Wide Break Develops in Yellow Cab Shares.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Most of the active shares were commanding moderately better prices when the trading period ended on the Chicago Exchange esterday, but the late upturn had been preceded by extremely erratic fluctuations earlier in the day. Sentiment among traders underwent several changes due largely to confusing trends in the New York market and the wide price swings in the pound. An erroneous rumor that a large French bank had closed its doors also contributed to the confusion. This report was later denied and the feeling of relief was immediately reflected in stock quotations.

The wide open break in Chicago Yellow Cab shares, however, failed to mend even when the general market turned up. The issue tumbled from its previous price above 13 to 7⅞ before the force of the fall was broken. The stock then rallied to 10 to close with a net loss of 3¼.

Explanation Lacking.

Explanation of the source of the selling was not forthcoming, but it was reported that necessitous liquidation of certain holdings had caused the setback. About 2,200 shares were sold. Maintenance of the present $3 dividend rate on the stock is assured for 1931 as the directors have already declared monthly dividends of 25 cents for October, November and December. During the recent deflation in prices the issue has been free of severe selling pressure.

The automotive stocks came back strong at the end of the day, with Borg Warner and Bendix each closing more than a point higher. Other active shares, including the Insull utility issues, closed from a fraction to 3 points higher. Edison and Public Service no par advanced around 3 points each. Walgreen and U. S. Radio shared in the advance

Kats Drug Sales.

The Kats Drug company reported yesterday that net sales and earnings for the year ended June 30 set new high marks for the concern. The company, operating a chain of drug stores in the central states, had sales of $7,249,207 for the twelve months. Net profit amounted to $509,919, equivalent to $4.03 a share on 101,133 shares of common stock outstanding as compared with $3.12 a share in the year ended Dec. 31, last. Current assets were $1,343,421 as against current liabilities of $331,979 on June 30.

Vesta Consolidated Battery company reported that sales of the company for the three months immediately following the merger of the Consolidated Battery corporation with Vesta Battery company had exceeded by 20 per cent combined sales of the two firms in the corresponding 1930 period.

COTTON MARKET NERVOUS

Action of the cotton market was the largest in that of any exchange in stocks. While a rally of 49 points on December in New York was on early, due to buying by Liverpool, which was active, with 25,000 bales bought early, heavy selling followed later, due to a rumor of a bank failure here in Paris, which later was denied. Prices rallied sharply later, only to react and close at intermediate prices with Chicago futures off 1@16 points and other markets 7@15 points lower. Spots declined 8 points to 6.90c in New York, 5.95c in New Orleans, 6.05c in Galveston, and Houston 6c. On the early break October and March in Chicago sold at new low levels. Liverpool closed 6@10 points net lower.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week were estimated at 190,000 to 200,000 bales by the New York Cotton exchange compared with 209,000 bales the previous week and 177,000 bales last year.

Reports from Dallas say that the crop is decreasing in 68 counties. Reports from the dry goods trade were of a fair business. Prices follow:

MANCHURIA WHEAT UP

The Manchurian wheat crop is about 15 per cent above last year and of somewhat better quality, according to a cable from Agricultural Commissioner Dawson at Shanghai. Chinese demand for foreign wheat since the farm board transaction with the Chinese government has revived and the tone of the flour market has improved. Stocks of wheat in China are moderate and a large movement is expected when the high water subsides. Stocks of flour Sept. 14 were not heavy at Shanghai and appeared light in Tientsin.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

A full cargo of Manitoba wheat was reported to have been sold to England late Thursday, but the general demand from Europe is slow and all countries are going slow in offering on account of the unsettled foreign exchange market. Total sales in all positions were estimated by the seaboard at 300,000 bu.

Chicago handlers sold 11,000 bu wheat, 115,000 bu corn, 109,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu barley to the domestic trade with 25,000 bu corn, 10,000 bu oats, and 265,000 bu rye to go to store. Charters were for 300,000 bu corn and 100,000 bu oats to eastern lake ports. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 29,000 bu wheat, 547,000 bu corn, 25,000 oats, and 120,000 bu rye.

There was no change in the local cash wheat basis with No. 1 red, 1¼@1½c over; No. 2 red, 1@1¼c over; No. 1 hard, 2@2½c over; No. 2 hard, 2@2½c over; No. 2 yellow hard corn and 100,000 bu oats to eastern lake hard, 1@1½c over, and No. 2 mixed, ¾@1¼c over September. The basis at Kansas City was steady.

Cash corn met with a fair demand with the basis steady to ¼c higher. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 and No. 2 mixed, 2c; yellow, 2¼c; white, 4¼c; No. 3 mixed, 1½c; yellow, 1½@1¾c; white, 3½c.

Offerings of cash oats showed the best quality so far this season based on the inspection, 42 per cent of the arrivals grading No. 2 white. The basis was steady, with No. 2 white, 1¼@2½c over, and No. 3 white, September price to 2c over. No. 2 rye was nominally 2@3c over December.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Friday: Wheat, 58 cars; corn, 101 cars; oats, 57 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 12 cars.
